VBEA Will Hone In On Staff Development

By Greg Goldfarb
Sun Editor

The Virginia Beach Education Association, the teacher's watchdog over local public school matters, has zeroed in on one included in the school Curriculum Assessment and Development Project, Task Force Report.

The 111-page report, compiled by a 36-member task force headed by Dr. Benjamin I. Troutman, director, Office of Curriculum Assessment and Development, contains 138 recommendations and took two years to complete. Thousands upon thousands of people in the Virginia Beach public school system were interviewed and asked to give input into the project, which is designed to address public education needs through the 21st century.

Of the approximately 30 different areas of recommendations proposed in the report, which are expected to come before the school board for approval a few at a time, the 2,300-member VBEA has targeted the third area, Staff Development, as the focus of its attention.

"Organizationally, we are going to spend a lot of time in that area," said Jamie Chapman, VBEA executive director "because that's staff development and one of our beliefs is that the more input the classroom teacher and her members have in the way programs are developed, directly affect their retraining and new training. We want to keep track of this area and how it's developed. Because they are just the recommendations, the next stage, I think, is the area that's most critical. That's where you're trying to implement, figure out the cost and time lines, etc."

Chapman added, "I think we're going to actually look at putting input in as an organization; surveying, gathering ideas."

Under Staff Development, the verbiage explains "the quality of a school system is judged by the effectiveness of instruction. Every effort needs to be made to recruit and retain highly qualified personnel and to provide them with extensive opportunities to develop the skills necessary for effective instruction. The development of human resources is essential to the improvement of the school system. The implementation of project recommendations will require additional training and support."

Chapman said it should be clear why the VBEA is paying close attention to recommendations in the Staff Development area, as opposed, for example, to the Library and Media area.

"If you're changing the curriculum, and emphasizing the curriculum, it seems pretty obvious to us" that the people must be in place before anything in the project report can be implemented, Chapman said. School officials have said that project recommendations will be implemented as time and money permits. No rigid time schedule has been set.

Recommendations

Briefly, the following are some of the recommendations under the Staff Development area of the Task Force Report, and some questions by Chapman over their implementation.

• Establish clear, systematic staff development priorities for all personnel and focus financial and training resources primarily on these priorities, while ensuring resources for continued staff development at the building (school) level.

Walkie-Talkies Presented To Seashore State Park

The City of Virginia Beach Court Services Unit has received donations from the community to purchase six high-CB walkie-talkies. This communications equipment will be used in connection with the Juvenile Court Service Unit Program with Seashore State Park in which juvenile offenders are sentenced to work in the park from two to six weekends as retribution for their offense.

On Saturday, June 4, 1983, the City of Virginia Beach will present this equipment to Seashore State Park. The presentation will be held at 10:30 a.m., at the Visitors Center.

Those individuals who provided donations for this purpose have been invited to attend.

The walkie-talkies will be utilized by the volunteers who supervise the juveniles involved in this Program. Each weekend two teams (ten children) do a variety of tasks such as trail cleaning, painting, repairing, picnic tables, chopping wood and repairing erosion. This work is often in remote areas of the Park and there is currently no means of communicating in case of emergencies.

For further information, contact Judy Treesh, Court Services Unit, at 427-4361.

Virginia Beach Orchestra Providing Military Tickets

The Virginia Beach Orchestral Association, as a part of its plan to provide a cabaret style pops concert for the citizens of Tidewater, will be providing 50 tickets to the military for each concert during the season.

The tickets will be distributed to the base commanders of all Tidewater military installations. They are earmarked for military personnel of E-1 thru E-4 ranks.

Lt. CMDR, Skip Nelson, VF-101, Oceana, the military liaison for the project expects it to be a success. "These tickets will be used as incentive awards for non-commissioned personnel," he said, "they don't often get to participate in community efforts like this."

The tickets will provide concert goers with seats in the balcony area of the Virginia Beach Dome, which will be the home of the newly formed orchestra.

Maestro Walter Noona, conductor of the orchestra, is also enthusiastic about the project. "It reaches people who would not normally have the opportunity to hear us perform."

The season for the Virginia Beach Pops will begin September 25. There will be two performances every Sunday. Those wishing to find out about the availability of season tickets should call 804-428-POPS.

Robbery Suspect Sought

Suspect

The Virginia Beach Crime Solvers program is seeking information to aid police in the solution of an April 27, 1983 robbery on 18th Street.

On that Wednesday at 1:45 a.m., a 27 year old man was about to leave Roxx Lounge in the 100 block of 17th Street when he was invited to a party by a man he had just met that evening. As the men walked to the party, which was only supposed to be a few blocks away, the victim was lead into an alley behind 208 18th Street where he was severely beaten and robbed.

The robber is a white male in his late 20's or early 30's and has collar length straight blond hair and a bushy mustache. He was 5'6" to 5'9" tall and weighed about 160 pounds. At the time of the robbery, he was wearing a black wet-look jacket, cream color, O.P. shorts, and flip flops.

Anyone with information about this or any other robberies are asked to call Crime Solvers and if an arrest is made callers are eligible for up to a $1,000 cash reward.

The Crime Solvers program pays cash for information about any crime, and for information that leads to the arrest of wanted persons or the recovery of drugs or stolen property.

Callers, who never have to give their names, can reach Crime Solvers 24 hours a day at 427-0000.

Brandon Lady Chargers Capture Third City Title

The Brandon Lady Chargers recently captured their third consecutive city championship with a 7-0 season. The team has not lost a regular season game in their last 23 contests, their last loss being April 30, 1980.

This year the Charger defense allowed the opponents only two scores. This set a city record. The defense was anchored by Janel Persons (goalie), and fullbacks Katie Peoples, Deborah Litsinger, and Lisa Marshall. Team members Kate McGrath and Stephanie Jones saw plenty of defensive action as did goalie Julie Schmidt.

Mid-field play proved the dominating feature as they controlled much of the game action. Halfbacks Mary Sharp, Sonia Lawler, Debbie Breed, Melody Oculito, and Kristan Cornett displayed endurance and skill during each contest. Stasia Strobach, Jenny Bradshaw, and Marie Noonan kept the mid-field strong.

Scoring for the team was balanced. Forward Kerry McVey scored seven; Lara Wilson tallied six; and Samantha Mosey added four. Mary Sharp scored one goal and Sonia Lawler finished the scoring by netting seven goals. Charlene Berry and LeeAnn Faulk saw action as forwards during the season.

Coach Joy King has coached the team since Brandon opened. In the five years since then, the Lady Chargers have compiled a 26-7-2 record which results in 742 victories, 202 losses, and 62 ties. During this time they have scored 135 goals and allowed opponents only 37.

The three championships were due largely to six junior graders who have been on the team for their junior high careers. These girls are Mary Sharp, Debbie Breed, Katie Peoples, Janel Persons, Kerry McVey, and Lisa Marshall. Other ninth graders are Samantha Mosey, Lara Wilson, and Melody Oculito. Many times managers are overlooked but coaches know they really help the team. This year's managers are Kim Bean and Jeannie Jamieson.

The team owes a lot of its success to the administration of Brandon, especially Dan Parsons, Student Activities Director and "the best fan in the world," principal Charles Atkinson.

Malibu Elementary School

65 Children Perform in Oz

By Jackie Matthews, Sun Correspondent

Malibu Elementary School presents two musicals each year. This year the sixth and seventh grade chorus put forth an abundance of talent and presented "The Wizard of Oz." For three months 65 children practiced each day. Rehearsals were held daily. Scripts were memorized and songs were sung, nothing short of perfection was demanded from Mrs. Diane Faircloth, choral director and Ms. Mary Daniels, drama director.

Mrs. Faircloth has been at Malibu for five years, she has a BME from Longwood College and Master of Music from George Washington University. Each year groups of chosen children from kindergarten through fifth grade participate in one musical and the sixth and seventh grade chorus produce the other. This is in addition to a Christmas program where all the children are included.

Our Country Tis of Thee, Alice in Wonderland, Cinderella and Sleeping Beauty were the musicals prior to The Wizard of Oz.

"The reason we chose this particular musical was there were lots of individual parts and songs and we could involve many more children than in the past. This was the largest, longest and most difficult musical we have ever done," said Mrs. Faircloth.

In order to be in the musical, the students auditioned for two weeks, they read for parts, sang and had several call backs until Mrs. Faircloth, Ms. Daniels and Mrs. Marion Wilson, of the Virginia Beach Choral, made their final decisions.

Mrs. Faircloth said "the long rehearsals were performances in themselves, made that way by the antics of Mary Daniels, who performed in a way that only Daniels See MANY, Page 4

Thoughtful Pursuits

The Task Force Report on the curriculum can't be taken as a final word, observes Jaime Chapman of the VBEA, because it is designed to endure past the year 2000. As time passes, changes arrive.

Since the mid 1960's much energy and attention has been placed on the Virginia Beach public school system. The attention has paid off; Virginia Beach's school system has a sound and secure reputation. But no matter how educated the scholar, there continues to be a certain mystery concerning the fate of the world's affairs decades and centuries ahead.

Along these same lines, the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce has a standing Education Committee. The committee successfully produced the city's first Business-Industry-Education (BIE) Day, and has now turned its attention to what to do in the future. The problem is, excluding some ideas of compiling lists of academic institutions in the city, there are not many ideas on how to tackle the question of how to further cultivate society's taste of academic learning.

The Education Committee and the VBEA, two distinctly different organizations, both have the same basic concern in their hearts: The advancement of academic excellence, in school and at home. But making the majority of parents care about their children's education borders on being idealistic dreaming. Cynics would much prefer to say that nothing can be done to change the situation instead of asking what can be done to make parents care.

Teachers get tired of trying to impart knowledge to students who receive no parental reinforcement for learning. If the teachers are frustrated and the parents don't mind, how can the students be expected to care?

Sometimes it seems that organizations, be them educational, or cultural for example, can beat their heads against the wall when both groups actually want the same result: orchestras want to give audiences music and educators want to give minds the spark for learning. Noble ends deserve thoughtful pursuits.

Computer Literacy

It's said that "computer literacy" is the new buzzword in educational circles these days. As technology speeds ahead, educators must begin to train for, if not win, the computer race.

As public school systems demand more and more from its students and their teachers, both of the groups must be willing to rise to the occasion. Educational mandates reflect that there are at least a few rational people in the right places who can advance the benefits of a literate society.

Doubtless, not everyone will become well versed in computers. But it does appear that in most homes and businesses, computers are moving in. But after that what? Knowledge won't stop with computers. It will only be further teased and challenged.

Life With The Beechers

Spy Subs And Sea Monkeys

SONNY and SANDY BEECHER, part-time beachcombers most of their lives, have been happily married for 45 years. They have three sons, two of whom are married and the third is divorced. His ex-wife, WENDY, lives with Sonny and Sandy. Sonny is a retired businessman. Sandy is an artist. They all live quietly in their oceanfront Virginia Beach home, usually spending their time lounging around their outdoor pool. (Note: this material is creative. Any resemblance to any real-life situation is purely coincidental).

"Sonny. Oh Sonny. Wake up!"
 "What is it dear?"
 "Are you awake?"
 "Unfortunately."
 "How can you just lie there basking in the sun when the rest of the world is in chaos?"
 (Pause)
 "Sonny, are you asleep again? Let's write a letter to the mayor."
 "About what?"
 "About the apathy in this country and the Soviet threat."
 "Come again."
 "Nobody cares about anything anymore."
 "I care."
 "I know you care; although you'd never know it by just looking at you."
 "The boys care."
 "I know they care. They care because we care. But what about the others out there who don't care?"
 "Out where?"
 "Out there. How do we know that there aren't slimy spy submarines out there in the water, with beady-eyed captains peering through their stinking periscopes watching you sleep? Suppose they attacked? What would you do? Sonny? Sonny are you listening? Sonny wake up."

"Yes dear?"
 "What do you think?"
 "About what?"
 "Those submarines off shore."
 "Forget about the subs. Worry about the sea monkeys."
 "Beg your pardon."
 "You know. The Siberian sea monkeys. Those accursed creatures; banished from their native waters, forced to migrate thousands of miles from their home. They're real angry little varmints."
 "Get out of here. There's no such thing."
 "Sure there is. Haven't you heard the stories? They live about 10 or 20 miles off shore, near the gulf stream. They eat fish to survive. But once in a while, usually at night when the moon is full, one or two of them will swim up close to the beach and look for people. Before long the monkeys will see someone. Thinking that the people are their enemies, the Siberian fisherman who chased them from the Urals to the Pacific because they were devouring the waterman's livelihood, the sea monkeys will rush the person, jump up, scream like a Comanche and slap in the victim in the face. I tell you, it's the damnest thing. Sandy. Sandy did you hear me. Well drat. Good thing she didn't ask me how they got from the Pacific Ocean to the east coast."

"U-hoo!"
 "Aw, Wendy. There you are. How about having some ice cold...My goodness! What happened to your eye?"
 Does Wendy have a black eye? Did she lose an eye? Does she have a new eye? Find out in the next installment of The Beechers.

Voice Of The People

Why Do Handicapped Athletics Lack Public Support?

"Because it's not promoted strongly enough. It should unite on a national scale and do what Jerry Lewis has done with MD. Get a spokesman and mount a national campaign."

Don Carter, manager, Plaza Roller Skating Rink, six-year resident

"I think people feel uncomfortable with it. They don't know how to deal with it and how to find out that handicapped people are no different than we are."

Beth Daugherty, student, 18-month resident

"Maybe people feel sorry for the athletes and don't want to see them. They shouldn't feel that way though. The athletes want to be out there. It makes them feel good."

Dianne Frederick, student, five-year resident

"Probably because it doesn't get enough publicity or notoriety. You have to know about it before you can support it."

Ruth Carr, housewife, 17-year resident

Fear Of Beaching

Editor:

250,000 potential Virginia Beach tourists probably did not make it here last year. These people are phobic-unable to cross bridges, travel through tunnels, get on airplanes, or perhaps even leave their homes. This may have cost the city of Virginia Beach approximately $21 million!

Ten-percent of the population suffers from a phobia. Mr. James Brookshire, executive director of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge and Tunnel District, is aware of this and is doing something about it. His staff is available upon request to drive people through the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel. A recent article in the Washington Post Magazine, April 17, 1983, entitled "High Anxiety," indicated that last year alone, police chaffered 1,041 phobics across the Bridge, including one fellow who was driven over and back 24 times!

Mr. R.D. Yeatts, assistant district engineer for Tunnel and Toll Facilities in Tidewater, is also area of the problem. He says a similar drive-through service is available through other local tunnels. He helps alleviate fears by pointing out to "would be avoiders" that if one stops in the Hampton Tunnel due to fear or a mechanical breakdown, a rescue squad and two truck can reach him or her and remove him/her and their vehicle in five to seven minutes. He reassures people that cameras inside the tunnel help locate such problems instantly.

Bernadette Jones, L.C.S.W., center director of the Phobia Program of Tidewater, says that this public awareness and concern should provide a big boom for the Virginia Beach tourist industry. She notices a definite increase in the number of people seeking treatment for travel related phobias this time of the year. Cooperation from local authorities and recent positive and educational media attention have made people feel less ashamed of their phobic disabilities and more willing to try and overcome them.

Bernadette Jones, Virginia Beach

Library SUNlines

By Virginia Beach Librarian David Palmer

There seems to be a certain mystique and allure surrounding the untimely death of a ship. Each April there are newspaper and television features to mark the anniversary of the sinking of the "Titanic", new theories about why the "Lusitania" was torpedoed surface every few years, and there was recently a popular folk song about the end of the Great Lakes

Freighter "Edmund Fitzgerald". Even Virginia Beach has the Norwegian Lady, a statue commemorating the shipwreck of the 1,114 ton bark "Dictator." And since it is such a popular topic, the Virginia Beach Public Library has acquired a large number of books on the topic.

Two books owned by the library tell the story of perhaps the most intriguing shipwreck of them all, the sinking of the White Star liner "Titanic". The 1976 illustrated edition of Walter Lord's classic "A Night to Remember" is filled with photographs and drawings which provide a detailed look at the "unsinkable" ship and the events of the night of April 14, 1912. The subsequent U.S. Senate hearings into the sinking are chronicled in "The Titanic: End of a Dream" by Wyn Craig Wade. Wade's book includes numerous descriptions of the tragedy by survivors who testified at the can do and this brought everyone and everything together."

Mary Daniels has taught at Malibu for fourteen years, this being her last year at Malibu. She has been offered the opportunity to go to Venezuela to teach English as a second language or to Europe to teach military dependents. She says it is all very exciting but she has not yet made her final decision. Daniels is an active member of the Virginia Beach Little Theater and has participated in several plays such as Music Man as Eulalie Shinn, Once Upon A Mattress as Queen, Guys and Dolls as General Matilda B. Cartwright and The Unsinkable Molly Brown as Mrs. McGonigle. She is also a soloist and member of The Virginia Beach Chorus as a first soprano. She has studied in Munich Germany at an extension of the University of Maryland, then onto ODU to complete her BS and MS in Elementary Education. In 1979 she directed a group called Show Timers Inc., working with children from the fourth through twelfth grades, presenting The Wizard of Oz at the Center Theater. When she is not traveling to various parts of the world such as Egypt, Israel, Italy, Greece, Germany, or Denmark to name a few, she works with the TESL program instructing migrant children. Mary Daniels said "this was an especially talented group of young people, I really enjoyed working with them, I believe the parts were well cast and they gave all they could to their individual characters."

Sue Frost, art teacher, provided the scenery through the efforts of many students. Mrs. Frost has taught in Virginia Beach for thirteen years and been at ten of the Virginia Beach Schools. She is an active member of the Virginia Beach Art Center, a member of the Virginia Museum and is very involved in the City Wide Art shows. Mrs. Frost has her BFA from UNC and her MS from ODU.

VBEA Looks At Staff Development

who's going to be trained? Obviously we're going to have some concern there."

"Establish a staff development academy that includes continuing education and recertification opportunities for all personnel and focus on the key curricular and instructional directions."

"That's an intriguing idea. Four or five years ago we had worked on a proposal with the administration on a concept very similar to that; setting up a place for teachers within the system to go for training and inservice programs. Right now we have a Media Center that deals with enrichment in the media area."

"They're trying to say that they aren't cutting back on their current level of training," Chapman continued. "Obviously that's something we're going to want to pay close attention to. Is there going to be a cutback on it?"

"Explore creative means to recognize and reward class room teachers who demonstrate superior teaching skills and to provide staffing options that best use their talent and ability."

"Some people can look at that and say, 'oh my gosh, that's merit pay.' The overall experience of merit pay has not been favorable for the classroom teachers. It's a very easy thing to conceptualize: 'well, that makes really good sense. Let's reward the really good teachers.' But when it comes down to doing it, it becomes really difficult. We don't want to just take a knee-jerk reaction and say that's necessarily the only thing that there's to talk about. There's other ways of doing this; real positive alternatives. This can be done without necessarily getting into merit pay. We say let's be sure everybody takes a really good look at it and understand what people care talking about."

Chapman said he understands what the "merit pay" recommendation says, and adds he hopes it "means exactly what it says." His main concern is that local teachers and the public are well informed over the issues before and during the school board's deliberation of them.

All of the above activities are described in the city's OHCD Ninth Program Year (1983-84) Application, which will be officially submitted to HUD by June 6, 1983. The activities include new and continued projects. These planned projects are to improve the quality of Community Development target neighborhoods, and the quality of life for low and moderate income persons, and do not require additional environmental review at this time. The legal effect of the "Release of Funds Certification" is that upon its approval by HUD, the City of Virginia Beach may use the Block Grant funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases: a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the Chief Executive Officer or other officer of the City approved by HUD; or b) the City's environmental for the projects indicate omission of a required decision, finding, or step applicable to the projects in the environmental review process. Objections to the release of funds on bases other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. Any objections should be sent to Mr. John LeVay, Jr., Director, Community Planning and Development, U.S. Department of HUD, 701 East Franklin Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219. Once the City's request for release of funds has been received by HUD, there will be an additional 15 day period in which HUD will consider any objection to the City's request. A copy of the 1983-84 Community Development Application can be reviewed at the Office of Housing and Community Development, 302-22nd Street, Virginia Beach, Virginia.

State Assessment

Student Achievement Climbing

The achievement of 4th graders in Virginia Beach public schools has climbed significantly during the past year, according to data from the Virginia State Assessment Program. Results of the 1982-1983 SRA achievement test also show that all Virginia Beach students tested--4th, 8th, and 11th graders--continue to excel when compared to national averages.

The SRA test results report that Virginia Beach students in the 4th grade improved over last year's excellent scores in all test areas with the exception of social studies, which stayed the same as last year. The test data also shows that Virginia Beach students in the 8th and 11th grades continue to score well above the national average in all test categories. All 8th and 11th grade percentile scores this year are either exactly the same as last year or show a one percentile difference from last year.

The SRA achievement tests are the primary component of the Virginia State Assessment Program which reports to the Virginia General Assembly, to the State Board of Education, and to the general public how school systems compare nationally and within the State of Virginia. A 69th percentile average level of performance, for instance, means that Virginia Beach student achievement is higher than 68 percent of students nationwide. The Virginia Beach school division goes beyond the use of the test for purposes of comparison; teachers and principals are encouraged and taught to use the test results to identify program strengths and weaknesses and to diagnose individual student learning needs.

The 1983 Virginia Beach SRA scores confirm the indication of earlier measures of program performance and student achievement; Virginia Beach students perform at levels higher than the averages for their national, state, and local counterparts.

Student Writing

A Blaze of Fire

It broke loose from natural chains that held it back; running through the forest like a young stag, on the loose, getting brighter, hotter, and more fierce every minute. Like a beast it destroys everything in its path. It comes to the edge of the forest to meet its mortal enemy. It challenges it to a fight. The dense blue waters accept.

The clash between them both is unreal. It's good versus evil all over again. Ashes and vapor spurt out between them. The blue water finally, with all its force, makes a sharp blow at the fire. It descends to the ground. The water covers the fire, and the dead fire floats gently on the wind as vapor and joins the heavenly clouds to stay there for all eternity.

By Amy Kennedy, 12, a sixth grader at Windsor Woods Elementary School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Kennedy.

Sea Adventure Books

hearing. Both books are especially good at describing the shock and disillusionment which accompanied the sinking of a vessel that was designed to last forever.

The same sense of surprise and helplessness seems to pervade other books about sea disasters. "Saved! The Story of the Andrea Doria" by William Hoffer, Robert Hennings "Cales of November: The Sinking of the Edmund Fitzgerald" and "The Lusitania" by Colin Simpson all have this tragic theme. This idea is perhaps the most frightening in personal narratives such as "Almost Too Late: The True Story of a Father and His Three Children Shipwrecked Off the Coast of Wintery Alaska" by Elmo Wortman.

One book that conveys a sense of adventure, rather than shock, is "Graveyard of the Atlantic" by David Stick. This engrossing book described shipwrecks and rescue attempts in the waters off the North Carolina Outer Banks between 1526 and 1945. It is truly an interesting and enjoyable book to read, especially since the events described happened so close to home.

In addition, members do a great deal for the community at large. Each year, the club selects one of the Virginia Beach libraries and donates several books chosen by the manager of that particular library. The club also works closely with Social Services of Virginia Beach and donates a Christmas food basket to a selected needy family each year. Members also designate a scholarship to a deserving government student each year and also donate money to the state party, city party and all Republican candidates.

Members serve on state boards and commissions and city boards and commissions. The majority are elected as delegates to Republican city conventions and many to state conventions. Each spring, several members attend a Virginia Federation of Republican Women convention as delegates and alternates and bi-annually, two members are elected as delegate and alternate to attend a National Federation of Republican Women convention. This year, the National Federation convention will be held in October in Louisville, Kentucky.

Bi-annually, Beach Suburban Republican Women's Club has won the Diamond Award, the outstanding achievement award from the National Federation of Republican Women since 1967 and it has won the Elephant Award, the outstanding achievement award from the Virginia Federation of Republican Women each year since 1966.

Ocean Park Women Meet

The Ocean Park Woman's Club will hold a picnic at the home of Mrs. Sam Martinette on Bayville Road in Baylake Pines on Wednesday, June 8, at 11 a.m.

Keep America Beautiful Week was April 17-23. The Ocean Park Woman's Club sponsored an anti-litter program at Green Run Elementary School in observance of this week.

The first grade children were given litter bags and were encouraged to participate in a cleanup campaign around the school grounds, on field trips, and in neighborhoods. Each child was given a pen and pencil for each bag of litter collected. They are also collecting aluminum to feed the "Golden Goat." Money from this endeavor will be used to beautify the school grounds.

The children will continue this for the remainder of the school year. Mrs. June Ambrose is chairperson for Conservation in the Ocean Park Woman's Club.

The Hint Man

By CHUCK FAULKNER

Fresh Flowers - Never stand them on a television set or near a stove or oven. The heat from either will kill them very quickly. A cool, well lighted spot is best.

Also, if cutting them yourself, always cut the stems in a long slant, never straight across. It'll double their life.

Fresh cut flowers love fresh air. Airing the room daily is great for them. However, keep them out of drafts.

Frost On Windshield, Preventing - Purchase a heavy but supple, not stiff, sheet of plastic about twelve feet long. Put one end inside the door on the driver's side, then close the door. Pull it across the windshield, holding it in place with the wipers, then open the door on the passenger side. Put the other end inside and close the door.

Note: This works very well and is also very handy in snowy or icy weather.

Frosting - Unless specifically instructed in the recipe, never frost a warm or hot cake. A cold cake is much easier to apply frosting to.

Frozen Pipes, Thawing - Use your hair dryer to thaw frozen pipes. Hold it about two or three inches away from the pipe and let it run hot. This works, usually, in a few minutes.

Notes To My Friends

By JIM KINCAID

June 2, 1980

According to a little feature the Associated Press runs every day to keep us up to date, we've used up a hundred fifty-four days of 1980...leaving two hundred twelve in which to accomplish whatever we have plans to do with this particular year.

I would have figured that even Congress might be able to do something useful with two hundred twelve days; then I did some checking.

Those fellows on the Hill will take off:

nine days this month...

...eighteen days in July;

...twenty days in August;

...eight days in September.

And then it's time to adjourn and take to the campaign trail.

The way I figure it, Congress has - at a generous estimate - seventy-two days to deal with inflation, come up with an energy policy, address massive unemployment, tackle our Middle East and other foreign policies, and get re-elected.

That last isn't a problem, though; that sort of work can even be done on one's day off.

Chuck Faulkner is brought to you through the courtesy of The Donning Company, a local publishing firm, and Chuck Faulkner. The book is available in most book stores.

Satisfy Dad With Spicy Beef Brisket

Looking for a sure way to make Dad feel extra special this Father's Day? He'll know just how great you think he is when you make him the guest of honor at a family cookout featuring Texas-Style Beef Brisket.

Dads from coast to coast will enjoy this man-pleasing beef entree served up with Western flair. While the beef brisket is naturally less tender, the National Live Stock and Meat Board has developed a cooking technique that will enable you to cook this full-flavored cut on the grill with tender and tasty results. The brisket is first sealed in a cooking bag, then wrapped in foil, allowing it to cook leisurely in moist heat on the grill.

To accent the beef with robust Western barbecue flavor, the brisket cooks in the bag with a spicy tomato coating. Then as serving time approaches, more flavor punch is added as the already-tender brisket is brushed with the easy-to-make barbecue sauce and briefly broiled over the coals.

You can bank on this flavorful beef brisket to satisfy not only Dad but the whole clan as well. The brisket is an excellent choice for a crowd as it is boneless with little waste. When carved into thin diagonal slices, it's easy to stretch its outstanding beef flavor a long way.

Texas-Style Beef Brisket
4 to 5-pound boneless beef brisket*

1 cup catsup
1/4 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons flour

Combine catsup, brown sugar, prepared mustard, Worcestershire sauce, hot pepper sauce and cinnamon. Combine 1/4 cup catsup mixture with flour. Cover and refrigerate remaining sauce. Place brisket in large cooking bag and brush catsup-flour mixture over both sides. Press air from bag and tie securely. Place bag containing meat in center of a double-thick rectangle of heavy-duty aluminum foil (twice the circumference and 8 inches longer than brisket). Bring 2 opposite sides of foil together over top of meat. Fold edges over 3 to 4 times, pressing crease in tightly each time. Flatten foil at one end, crease to form triangle and fold edge over several times toward package, pressing tightly to seal. Repeat procedure on other end.

Place on grill and cook at low temperature 4 1/2 to 5 hours, turning every hour.

Carefully open foil packet and cooking bag; pour off thoroughly heated. Brush brisket with sauce and place on grill. Cook 10 to 15 minutes, turning and brushing with sauce occasionally. Carve in thin slices diagonally across the grain. Serve sauce with slices of brisket. 12 to 15 servings.

*A boneless chuck pot-roast, cut approximately 2 inches thick, can be substituted for the brisket.

Beef is a natural choice for Dad's special meal not only because it's his favorite meat, but also because it offers him and all the family outstanding nutrition. The protein in beef is especially important for it is complete; that is, it contains all the essential amino acids in the amounts needed by the body everyday. Also, essential are the B-vitamins in beef which include thiamin, niacin, riboflavin, B-6 and B-12. Two of beef's most important minerals are iron and zinc.

One sandwich, please, and hold the bread!

Who says you need bread to make a sandwich? With a Saladwich, a recipe from the Kraft Kitchens, your "bread" is a slice of iceberg lettuce.

It's actually an open-faced sandwich that tops the lettuce with a slice of brick cheese, tomato, boiled ham and green pepper rings. Since most open-faced sandwiches are topped with a sauce, try Kraft creamy cucumber dressing to enhance your ingredients. It's made with real cucumber and sour cream that adds a delightful flavor to any of your saladwich combinations.

White House Ceremony Honors Local Winner During Small Business Week

William W. Moseley, President of Moseley-Hening Associates, Inc. of Richmond, who took part in National Small Business Week as the outstanding Small Business Person of the Year from Virginia, heard President Reagan call America's small business men and women "...the Pioneers in America's continuing best and endless frontier—the free enterprise system."

Moseley heard the President during a White House Rose Garden ceremony on Wednesday, May 11, when the President named Louis and Fred Ruiz of Tulare, California, as the National Small Business Winners of the Year.

While at the Rose Garden, Moseley heard the President congratulate all of the State Small Business Persons of the Year.

"You're here today because you've been selected from the millions of small business owners around America, representing the best of the entrepreneurial spirit in our nation," the President told the gathered crowd under a flawless, blue spring sky. "And you have each in your own way proven the American dream of economic independence, of individual initiative, of personal excellence, can still be achieved through small business," the President added.

Moseley also heard Vice-President George Bush, prior to introducing the President, state that while a National Small Business person of the Year would be selected, "All of you are winners in the real contest—the market place. In naming the Small Business Winner of the Year and the two runners-up, we are really honoring all of the small businessmen who make this country vital and prosperous."

SBA Administrator James C. Sanders, during a breakfast address prior to the White House honors, praised America's small business men and women for their contributions to the country. "You are the driving thrust of our economy," he told the gathering. "What you will see from this Administration is an increasing effort to provide an environment which rewards those who dedicate their labor and their genius to building small businesses which provide jobs to other people," the Administrator added.

Similar praise and honor was bestowed on Moseley and the other state winners by other Washington luminaries, including Senator Bob Dole of Kansas and Representatives Jack Kemp of New York and Andy Ireland of Florida.

John Rousselot, presidential special assistant and the newly installed deputy director of the Office of Public Liaison in the White House pledged to the small business winners that they were an identifiable and important constituency, and their special needs would be pursued.

Other events during Small Business Week which Moseley participated in were talks by Frank Swain, the Chief Counsel for Advocacy for the SBA, and Heriberto Herrera, the Deputy Administrator of the SBA. While in Washington Moseley was treated to a nighttime tour of the Nation's Capital with stops at the Lincoln, Jefferson and two Jimi memorials.

In closing National Small Business Week, Moseley joined the other state small business winners in a quiet wreath-laying ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery, and the placing of a single rose at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

Mrs. Hurst was chosen for recognition by the members of Central Chesapeake Republican Women's Club.

Planned as an annual event, the Virginia Federation's first "Tribute to Women" is one of a series being held nationwide to recognize outstanding service to the Republican Party. Each honoree receives a certificate of appreciation and a glass tray engraved with the seal of the National Federation of Republican Women, which originated and co-sponsors the program in each state.

The Over Use of Credit

There are many horror stories about the overuse of credit. Families run out of money without ever knowing how it happened to them. George Katona, a psychological economist, explained what happens to cause these horror stories.

People feel that if they have received a pay raise they can and should live better. They are tempted to buy more goods and services as their incomes rise. But, inflation often outruns pay raises with the result that people have less real income.

Most individuals feel that when they receive a raise in pay it is due to their merit, sweat, ability and productivity. They believe that raises in the costs of items they buy are related to outside influences which are erasing their purchasing power. Hence, they feel they are being cheated of what is their rightful share, if they cannot buy more.

The strong inflationary rise in the mid 1970's created a buy-in-advance psychology. Before the 1970's, consumers saved during an inflationary period, cutting back expenditures, particularly for durable items like automobiles, in order to be prepared for the uncertainties in employment.

In the late 1970's, consumers seemingly adopted inflation as a way of life and began buying in advance. This strategy worked well in certain investments, such as real estate, antiques and jewelry.

It was tragic, however, if the individual household was caught with insufficient income and reserves.

Inflation was particularly hard on families, since such necessities as food, fuel, rent transportation and medicine increased more than others.

Some individuals, seeing the apparent wealth of their contemporaries who invested heavily, plunged to catch up.

Credit is readily available. Consumer credit nationally is up about one sixth from a year ago—roughly $282.4 billion, according to the Federal Reserve System. Banks, attempting to expand their marketing areas, advertise that credit is a key to the good life. The public is succumbing.

Readily available credit appears to be a difficult feature for many consumers to handle. Some 200,000 individuals or households go broke annually. The figure could be higher, but many individuals are aided by debt counselors, social service agencies, bankers, lawyers, friends and others.

The following are several symptoms of too much indebtedness:

- More than 20 percent of the take-home pay goes for installment payments.
- The family argues, destructively, about spending money.
- Money has to be borrowed to live throughout the pay period.
- Savings are used to pay regular bills.
- The savings reserve is less than the equivalent of three months take-home pay.
- Net worth is less than it was five years ago.

Those families that show symptoms should review their personal consumer economics practices. Those that have three or more of these symptoms should consider seeing a financial counselor.

Lower Natural Gas Prices

In some battles the middle ground is not worth claiming. But, for lowering consumer natural gas prices, the middle ground offers a workable and constructive solution.

A bill has been introduced in Congress that provides a middle ground solution to gas pricing which does not embody decontrol of old gas prices, the restructuring of the natural gas industry as sought by the Reagan Administration or the proposals to freeze and re-control new natural gas prices.

The Natural Gas Policy Act Reform Amendments of 1983 was introduced by Rep. Jim Slattery (D-Kan.) and Rep. Dan Coats (R-Ind.). It will assure gas consumers of abundant natural gas supplies at reasonable prices. The American Gas Association estimates it will save consumers $6 billion over the years 1984 and 1985.

The legislation: -Encourages gas producers and pipeline companies to renegotiate lower priced contracts and authorizes a "market out" or cancellation of high priced natural gas contracts if such renegotiation does not occur.

-Limits take-or-pay obligations in gas-purchase contracts to 50 percent of gas deliverability for three years.

-Outlaws "favored nation" price escalation clauses, which are anti-competitive and can artificially drive prices up.

-Requires the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) to study rate designs which would make interstate pipeline rates more responsive to changes in end-use markets.

Also, the bill encourages exploration and development of new natural gas and removes most of the federal marketing restraints on natural gas supply by American industry.

Most important, the Slattery/Coats bill does not decontrol old natural gas prices which will help make it possible to lower consumer prices, and does not recontrol or extend controls on new gas which would jeopardize development of new supplies. Nor does it force a massive restructuring of the gas distribution and transmissions industry through mandatory contract carriage. Such a restructuring would require greater government control of the gas industry by requiring FERC to make planning, operational and service decisions for pipelines which would eventually be costly for all gas consumers.

The United States has an abundant supply of natural gas resources. This domestic energy potential can be utilized to fire the nation's economic recovery. It would be poor economic and poor national energy policy to fail to develop out nation's gas supplies or to artificially force consumer prices up.

Just as the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 (NGPA) provided the incentives to increase natural gas exploration and development to record levels, so the Reform Amendments of 1983 will ease the burden of rising prices while assuring future supply and provide the urgently needed orderly transition to a deregulated field market for developing new supplies.

Congress should pass legislation to lower consumer prices while assuring future supply. The Slattery/Coats bill will achieve both of these objectives.

The A.L. Williams organization of Atlanta, Ga., is a national company that expanded into the Tidewater area 2½ years ago. Their latest office was opened recently in Churchland. The two-time Virginia Governor Mills E. Godwin Jr. officiated at the ribbon cutting ceremonies for Lee Lovell, the division manager in charge of this latest expansion from his main office in Virginia Beach. Senior Vice President Richard Drovia has opened 10 offices of which 6 are in Tidewater with the other 4 in Northern Virginia, Maryland and South Carolina.

Highest Median Prices On East & West Coast

Homebuyers are finding the highest median prices for existing homes on the east and west coasts, according to a survey of 31 metropolitan areas by the National Association of Realtors.

At $122,800, San Jose, Calif., had the highest median price for a single-family previously occupied home during the first quarter of 1983, the survey found. San Jose was followed by San Francisco at $122,000, Los Angeles at $111,900, Washington, D.C., at $87,900 and New York City at $81,600.

The lowest median resale prices were Albany, N.Y., with $46,100, Detroit with $46,800 and Providence, R.I. with $50,400.

Nationwide, the median existing single-family home price was $68,500 during the first three months of 1983. Milwaukee's median of $66,100 was nearest to the national number.

"In most areas home prices have been increasing at a slower pace than the rate of inflation because of the decline in resale activity that resulted from unaffordably high interest rates," said Dr. Jack Carlson, chief economist and executive vice president of the association.

For the nation as a whole, prices in the first quarter this year were only 2.6 percent higher than the corresponding period a year earlier, he noted.

Resale prices in metropolitan New York City recorded the largest annual jump, rising 15.1 percent to $81,600.

Rochester, N.Y., San Jose, Calif., and Kansas City, Mo., also recorded double-digit increases in median prices, 13.2 percent, 12.1 percent and 10.3 percent, respectively.

In Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Indianapolis, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Salt Lake City, and Tampa, Fla., resale prices in the first quarter were slightly lower than the levels recorded one year earlier.

The biggest dip occurred in Boston where prices fell 2.7 percent. Prices in Los Angeles were off 2.2 percent while Chicago and Salt Lake City recorded declines of 1.9 percent and 1.4 percent, respectively.

The smallest decrease occurred in Detroit, where prices slipped 0.6 percent from the first quarter last year.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, represents 600,000 members involved in all phases of the real estate industry.

RESTAURANT Dining GUIDE

Genghis Khan

John and Shoney Wagenblass recently opened a unique restaurant in Virginia Beach. With a name like that, it had to be "different". Believe me, it is. It is a fun place to eat! John, an eleven year military officer, picked up on the idea when he had similar food served him at the officers club in Hawaii.

His decision to bring this very special style of cooking to Tidewater was primarily based on the strong appeal it had for him. Mongolian Barbecue is a delightful way to eat. You are in for an exciting and pleasant surprise that will tantalize your appetite and send you back time and time again. It is a simple method of cooking that dates to 1211 AD during the invasion of China by Genghis Khan. Originally the meal consisted of spicy oil and meat. The Chinese later added an assortment of vegetables.

You select the meat and vegetables and you combine the oils and special sauces for the cook, (while you watch, if you care to), on a special flat top Mongolian grills fired by charcoal.

It is totally your concoction, and as big or as small as you care to make it, with as little or as much meats and vegetables as you care to add — with the great variety of waters, sauces and spices you yourself pour over it before handing it to the cook.

Here's the great part! 40 cents per ounce! And, look at what you choose from:

4 Meats — Beef, Pork, Turkey and Chicken
18 Vegetables — Bean sprouts, Onions, Green

Peppers, Cabbage, Celery, Tomatoes, Parsley, Mushrooms, Watercress, Coconut, Bamboo Shoots, Pineapple, Raisins, Almonds and Water-chestnuts

9 Sauces — Soy Sauce, Sugar Water, Ginger Water, Garlic Water, Sake, Lemon Water, Rice Wine Vinegar, Sesame Seed Oil and Hot Pepper Oil

Here's how you do it! Have fun!

1. Make your selections from the meat and vegetable line.

2. Pay according to the number of ounces you take.

3. Make your selections from oils and special waters (no charge).

4. Take your creation to our chef.

5. Your delicious and most healthful meal will be ready in about 5 minutes.

Oh, yes, take out service is available seven days a week.

Crime Solvers Seek Robbery Information

Virginia Beach Crime Solvers is seeking information about an armed robbery that occurred Feb. 23, 1983, in the Lake Placid Shopping Center.

On that Tuesday at 8:35 p.m., a 28 year old female was standing outside the Jr. market at 1807 London Bridge Road when she saw a black male walk by her. Seconds later, this same man grabbed her from behind and drug her to the rear of the store. While behind the building, the robber and the victim struggled for the woman's purse and he threatened several times to shoot her. After getting the purse, he was frightened off by several people passing by. He then fled southwest toward a fenced area behind the shopping center. The purse contained a small quantity of money and two rings valued at more than $1,600.

The robber is a black male, whom the victim said appeared to be an albino, as being 6'-6" tall with short light brown or blonde hair and freckles. At the time of the robbery he was wearing a bright red sweat shirt, pullover type with a round collar.

Anyone with information about this or any other robbery is asked to call Crime Solvers a 427-0000. Callers are eligible for cash rewards up to $1,000 when an arrest is made.

The Crime Solvers program pays cash for information about any crime, and for information that leads to the arrest of wanted persons or the recovery of drugs or stolen property. You do not have to give your name to collect a reward.

Little Theatre Yard Sale

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach will hold a yard sale in the parking lot on Friday and Saturday, June 10 and 11 from 10 a.m. until dark. All proceeds from the sale will be used to reduce the mortgage debt on the Theatre building.

If Virginia Beach residents have items to donate to the theatre for the sale, call and arrange for delivery or for the theatre to pick up the items. Anything is acceptable.

"If you know anything about running a yard sale or if you would like to learn about running a yard sale - we need your help. Please call and volunteer," said VBLT president R. Edgar Hurd. "If you don't have anything to donate but wish to help in this project, please send a donation. Remember: your donation whether cash or merchandise is tax deductible.

"The Little Theatre, which is over 30 years old and provides a much needed service to our community, is being stifled by high interest rates on our remaining mortgage. If we can reduce or eliminate this burden, we can release funds which will enable us to grow and provide a better theatre. We hope that you will help us with this project," Hurd added.

New Curriculum Changes

Stricter Summer School; Teachers' Role Expanded

By Greg Goldfarb
 Sun Editor

Dr. Ben Troutman, Curriculum Director

As school officials prepare to begin implementing some of the 138 recommendations of the recently adopted Curriculum Assessment and Development Project, Task Force Report, Dr. E.E. Brickell, division superintendent, is expected to play a big part in getting the city's plan for "school renewal" into swing.

"If there's one thing that I would point out as the most significant immediate action that the superintendent intends to take, it is to work with principals in a personal way to establish and articulate clear goals and expectations for all students," said Dr. Benjamin I. Troutman, director, Office of Curriculum Assessment and Development, Virginia Beach City Public Schools. "I think you will see a difference starting in September in terms of what principals will expect of students and in how they support and help teachers to accomplish these goals."

Specifically, Troutman said Brickell has given "preliminary indications of what he would like to see addressed first." There has already been public discussion over which recommendations, designed to address educational needs through the year 2000 and recently adopted by the school board 10-1, will be implemented first. The Virginia Beach Education Association, for example, is concerned over recommendations related to rewarding and recognizing exceptional teaching efforts, and in-service training. Parents and students, on the other hand, may be concerned over graduation requirements and grading periods.

Troutman said the following are some of the items which Brickell is expected to bring before the school board in the near future for approval:

- Student guides for the secondary schools' curriculum which clearly state course objectives, academic expectations and prerequisites, including program requirements.
- Standardization of formats for curriculum guides and moving the school system forward in a kindergarten through 12th grade approach so there's more integration of the curriculum among the various grade levels. "This way," Troutman said, "each teacher, no matter what grade level he or she is operating in, can see the connection."
- Begin working on an administrative center.

• Involve teachers and all staff personnel in ways and means of increasing teacher recognition. "Dr. Brickell will set up committees very shortly involving teachers and administrators in this regard."

• Determining cost factors and implementation concerns with the city's graduation policy, including developing new math and science courses. New guidelines are not expected until the 1984-'85 school year.

• Making sure that summer school requirements are as rigorous as regular school requirements, beginning next summer. "That's an important thing for parents to understand," Troutman said, "so students will not be able to sit in school all year long and pass a course in summer school very quickly; which they are doing. We want to move immediately with teachers and principals in establishing a school culture that stands for high achievement and high expectations in academic matters."

• Move immediately to work on developing and expanding the school system's advanced placement program. "Our emphasis here is on academic expectations," Troutman noted.

• Conduct some preliminary analysis of staff development needs.

• It is also expected that by the 1984-'85 school year, all fifth and sixth graders will be well on their way to becoming computer literate.

Leading The Wave

There is no formal timetable for the implementation of the aforementioned items, but the school system is moving ahead toward that end.

"The Virginia Beach Curriculum Assessment and Development Project is entering a totally new stage: Implementation," Troutman said. "We do not have a time line established for the implementation. Dr. Brickell is working on that right now."

Troutman anticipates it will be as many as a dozen to 14 years before the public feels the full impact of the program," Troutman continued, "because we're talking about a comprehensive school renewal effort, K through 12. I think the public will see many changes the following year and progressively more and more things will be brought on-line. Therefore, the impact will be greater in successive years."

Troutman said that as new avenues in the education curriculum are amphibious craft operated by both the Navy and the Army.

Three of the four sites selected by the Navy for being considered, want the Navy program located there, but Councilman H. Jack Jennings Jr. told Council Monday afternoon at an informal session that the Navy has not agreed to Cape Charles.

In the meantime, Jennings said, the city may have a problem with the Army's craft, the LACV-30's operating out of Fort Story.

City Manager Thomas H. Muehlenbeck, in a letter dated May 23, relayed concern that the ### Coming Changes

"I think what we need to do is to be certain that the same level of involvement that was utilized in developing the recommendations is used when we implement the recommendations" - Dr. Benjamin Troutman.

The preceding sentence explains why the Virginia Beach public school system will not prematurely enact any of the approved recommendations on revitalizing the city's education curriculum.

School officials are proud of the fact that thousands of Virginia Beach residents had input into the Curriculum Assessment and Development Project, Task Force Report. The information gathering process took two years to complete and no one should expect any of the recommendations to be casually approved.

A summary of involvement in regard to public input into the Task Force Reports includes 72 orientation meetings for staff members that involved 5,405 school system employees; 106 meetings with staff, students, and community members that involved 1,646 persons and 198 hours; 624 suggestion forms or letters received with 1,684 suggestions; and three public hearings with a total of 65 speakers giving 117 suggestions. A total review of the report included 40 meetings, involving 486 persons and 166 hours.

The new curriculum for Virginia Beach students will be more rigorous than ever before. It's not that tests will be that much harder, or teachers will become that much stricter, but the whole attitude towards education and learning will be carried forth with a renewed emphasis. Dr. E. E. Brickell, division superintendent, is expected to carry the touch to light the way so others may follow. School principals will be the first recipients of the new light. But ultimately, the classrooms and the teachers will feel much, if not most of the illumination.

When speaking about the Task Force Report and its implementation, Troutman continually refers to teachers, principals, students and parents, collectively. Rarely does he refer to just one group. He knows that for this package to work, school officials must go out to their way to keep the public and the educators informed every step of the way as the different recommendations come before the school for approval.

The new educational curriculum for Virginia Beach contains no secrets, or dark mysterious passages to challenge speculation. If everyone is patient, understanding, and inquisitive, any questions parents or teachers have will be answered.

House Identity

"Emergency services, Officer Kellogg" might be the response Virginia Beach residents when they dial 911 for police, fire or rescue. For the next 30 seconds or so Communications Officer Kellogg will ask the nature of the problem, the street address, etc., and dispatch the type of emergency equipment necessary to handle your problem. Kellogg has done her job and the emergency response is in progress.

Did you do your job?

Is your address properly displayed on your home in accordance with the city ordinance? If not you are in violation of the law, but more importantly, your life or that of a loved one could depend on those house numbers.

If we can't find you we can't help you!

As you ride through the many neighborhoods that make up Virginia Beach you will see addresses on various parts of the home, yard, mailbox, etc. The house numbers must be displayed on the front of the home so as to be plainly visible from the street. House numbers on mailboxes are fine for the mail carriers but not sufficient under the law. You may by law put your street address on the curb in front of your home. If this is done the numerals must be in block form and painted black. They must be at least four inches high and three-quarters of an inch in width. Additionally, they shall be no more than two inches apart.

The Crime Prevention Unit of the Virginia Beach Police Department recommends placing light colored numbers on a dark background and dark numbers on a light background. The numbers should be mounted on or near the porch or front door. In a neighborhood where house numbers are few and far between a police, fire or rescue unit responding to an emergency must first find a house number and then determine the number sequence on that street. On some it may be two, four, or six numbers separating one home from the next. Once this is determined the count begins to find your home. Precious minutes are lost and so may a life.

We urge realtors and builders to make a new homeowner aware of the law regarding the proper placement of house numbers and we urge you the public to heed this warning: "The life you save may be your own!"

By Sergeant D. H. Kappers, Coordinator,
Crime Prevention Unit,
Virginia Beach Police Department

"Don't worry, I'm fine Mr. Beecher. It was just a piece of dirt in my eye but I had to have a doctor remove it. I'm fine, really. What have you and Sandy been doing this afternoon?"

"Oh my, your eye! Are you all right? What happened?"

"She's fine dear. Don't get your blood pressure up."

"I'm fine Sandy. I just had a piece of dirt in my eye and the doctor had to remove it. Technically, I had a foreign particle embedded in my cornea. But don't worry. I'm fine."

Praise For Brandon

Editor:

Thank you so much for the front page coverage of the Brandon Lady Chargers who won their third city soccer title. They are indeed ladies in every way. In games that were really physical, they never behaved in an unsportsmanlike way. We have observed these young ladies for three years and have enjoyed watching soccer talent, teamwork, and behavior on the field.

We are still in an age where boys' sports get all the headlines and the girls receive little if any publicity. There are hundreds of girls in Virginia Beach in all the sports available to them who give their all for their schools. They spend just as much time before and after school as the boys do and receive the least amount of recognition.

As parents of one of those Brandon Lady Chargers, we thank The Virginia Beach Sun for your coverage of a super group of girls. They bring honor to Brandon, and we are very proud of them!

We are also proud of our #1 fan, Mr. Charles Atkinson, principal, who attended all the 'away' games every Brandon team played! He was there when the Lady Chargers played Virginia Beach Junior "soccer in the snow".

We applaud all the Brandon teams for their efforts - a great group of young people! Also the coaches, school, and parents for their support.

Books For Teens

Approximately 23,000 twelve to fifteen-year-olds live in Virginia Beach according to projections based on the 1980 census. The number of kids in this age group is predicted to stay about the same through the end of the decade. Many of these teenagers are among the library's heaviest users. They spend hours researching reports and projects and looking up answers for homework. But when it comes to reading for pleasure, there has been no collection especially for them.

Lots of novels are written for this age group. In fact, the three best known authors in Tidewater all write young adult fiction. Katherine Paterson has long been a favorite for her insights into growing up. Recently Stephanie Tolan and Patricia Hermes have written excellent novels dealing with concerns shared by teenagers. The popularity of films based on young adult

WVC Appoints Guest Conductor

The music director and conductor of the Portland, Maine, Symphony Orchestra, Maestro Bruce Hagen, will serve as guest conductor for the thirteenth annual Virginia Wesleyan College Orchestra Workshop this summer, August 7-13, according to an announcement by Dr. Lambuth M. Clarke, college president.

19th Century Music Concert

The Adult Choir of Eastern Shore Chapel Episcopal Church, Virginia Beach, will present a program of rarely-performed late 19th Century music in a concert service on Sunday, June 12 at 10 a.m. in the church.

The performance will feature a full professional orchestra and will be conducted by James H. Justice music director of Eastern Shore Chapel. The church is located at 2020 Laskin Road.

The major work to be presented is "Messa di Gloria," a Mass for Mixed Voice and Orchestra by Italian composer Giacomo Puccini (1858-1924). The Mass will be sung in its entirety in Latin, and will feature soloists Henry Bernick, tenor, and David Clayton, baritone.

Written by the composer at age 20, "Messa di Gloria" is the only major ecclesiastical work Puccini created. He went on to achieve fame principally for his operatic compositions, which include "La Bohème," "Tosca," and "Madame Butterfly." After its initial performance to high critical praise in 1880, the Mass was all but forgotten until 1951, when it was rediscovered among Puccini's papers by a biographer.

Also on the program will be two shorter works by French composer Gabriel Faure (1845-1924), "Cantique de Jean Racine" and "Pavane, Op. 50," to be sung in French with orchestral accompaniment.

Presented as cultural outreach, the concert is funded in part by the Parish Bookstore of the Diocese of Southern Virginia and by the Endowment Fund of Eastern Shore Chapel. The public is invited. There will be no admission charge, but offerings will be accepted.

Beginning at 8 p.m., Part One will be an audio/visual presentation to explore the mandala motif as it appears in the heavens, nature and the art and symbolism of different cultures and religions, including Buddhism, Christianity, Native American groups, and the work of psychologist, Carl Jung.

Part Two, beginning at 8:40 p.m. will be a 90-minute creativity workshop, designed to help participants create personal mandalas and learn how to use them as problem-solving tools, and for self-expression and understanding.

Participation in "Out from the Center" is by donation to benefit the Guild of Asaph, an organization founded in Virginia Beach by Robert Wm. Kragenke to encourage creative expression. novels like "The Outsiders" is proof that teens are interested in these books. But, until now, if you wanted to read "The Outsiders," you would have to look on the same shelves where you would find "Winnie-the-Pooh." Now these are both great books, but the fact remains that they are not for the same reader.

Recognizing this, the Virginia Beach Public Library System has divided "Y" fiction into two sections. Books written for children in the upper elementary grades will continue to be marked with a "Y." Fiction for readers approximately seventh through ninth grades will be marked "YA." Picture books and books for the primary grades will still be marked "E" just as they always have been. All three categories apply to fiction books, those with a Dewey number, are all shelved together by subject and those especially intended for kids are marked with a "Y" in front of the number. If this seems a lot to remember, the library staff is always ready to help you find what you're looking for.

Here are some of the new "Y" novels you can find in the public libraries. "The Divorce Express" by Paula Danziger tells of Phoebe's efforts to adjust when her Mom falls for a guy she can't stand. Jamie Callan's story, "Over the Hill at Fourteen" explores the hard work and loneliness of being a teen model. In "Hot Wire" by W.E. Butterworth, Tony thought he would be a hero for rescuing a trucker from a shorted 220,000-volt power line but instead the power company wants to fire him. Huckleberry Finn is in trouble with both students and parents in "The Day They Came to Arrest the Book" by Nat Henoff. "Beach Towels," a "skinny" book by Marilyn Sachs about a summer romance is short enough to read at the beach without getting sunburned. "The Ghosts of Departure Point" haunts the dangerous curve where car crashed in Eve Bunting's new book.

While the "YA" collection is made up of fiction, the libraries are renting a few nonfiction books of special interest to teens. These books are marked with an orange stripe and over current celebrities, this year's sports records, and other hot topics. Advice and self help books like "Making Friends with Yourself and Other Strangers" by Dianna Booher are also included. If there are subjects of interest to teens on which the libraries need more books be sure to let the staff know.

School System To Demand More

paved, more and more effort will be expected from those who use the roads.

"What we're really talking about here is a school system that's going to demand more from everyone," Troutman said. "It's going to demand more from students. It's going to expect more from teachers. It's going to request more from parents and it will also expect more from its administrators and supervisory personnel."

Philosophically speaking, education is administered now much the same way as it was thousands of years ago: teachers present the information and students memorize it and are tested on it. Troutman said the future will hold a broader role for teachers.

"What we're trying to do now is to shift some of that emphasis to make the teacher more of a facilitator of learning," Troutman said, "and to get into some of the higher order, more extensive thinking, reasoning and reading skills; so young people are more prepared to deal with the complex, technological future. That will not be easy."

The Task Force Report, the first of its kind in the city, has given school officials clear goals to pursue. The recommendations have been designed to make an already good school system better.

"I think the Task Force Report is seen by the superintendent as a clear and comprehensive vehicle to lead the school system in its renewal effort," Troutman observed. "I think for too long we have perhaps even coasted on a reputation for doing things well. And now we need to revitalize the entire school system; and I see this climate being reflected nationally. But fortunately for us, I see Virginia Beach being in the lead of a crest. It's almost like there's a whole wave of school renewal and school reform hitting the country nationally. I see Virginia Beach being the crest leading this wave."

Editors' Note: This is the second in a series of articles on the implementation of the Virginia Beach City Public Schools' Curriculum Assessment and Development Project, Task Force Report.

Notes To My Friends

By JIM KINCAID

April 21, 1980.

If the cost of vacations is getting you down, hang on for this one. The fifteen-cent stamp may soon be a thing of the past.

The Post Office folks say they need another five billion dollars a year to fight inflation, and they propose to get it by raising rates.

For you and me, the average letter writer, the stamp for a first class letter would go up a nickel, or about twenty-five percent, if my math is right.

For those wonderful folks who send us junk mail, advertisements for all sorts of things we probably don't need, and can't afford, the bill would go up two percent.

I'm sure that must be fair, or the postal service wouldn't have suggested it.

This series of excerpts from "Notes To My Friends" is brought to you through the courtesy of The Donning Company, a local publishing firm, and Jim Kincaid. The book is available in most book stores.

Rub it in well, then polish with a soft cloth or chamols. Furniture, Repairing Cracks - Beeswax is excellent for filling such cracks. Apply it to the affected spot, then polish with a piece of silk. Furniture And Frames, Gold Leaf, Cleaning - Mix together one cup of denatured alcohol with two cups of cold water. Apply with a soft cloth that has been soaked in the mixture, then dry immediately.

"TAKE-ALONG" SALADS FOR BUSY DAYS

Did you ever have "one of those days" at the office? You just can't get away from your desk, and lunchtime is rolling around. "Brown baggers" have the advantage on days like these. They can enjoy lunch at their desks without venturing into busy restaurants or carry-out counters. With recipes from the Kraft Kitchens you too can get your work accomplished and enjoy a satisfying meal.

"Lunch to Go" salad is a healthy mixture of cherry tomato halves, cucumber slices, garbanzo beans, cheese, and Kraft Italian reduced calorie dressing. The salad is marinated overnight and carried to work in a portable container. Its portion is perfect for satisfying these noontime hunger pangs without slowing you down for your busy afternoon schedule. Weight conscious folks take note: Italian reduced calorie dressing has only 6 calories per tablespoon compared with 80 calories per tablespoon in regular Italian dressing.

Another convenient salad idea is this recipe for Take 'N Toss Salad which can be assembled and served in a plastic sandwich bag. Assorted greens, cherry tomatoes, and cucumber slices are tossed with Kraft golden caesar or golden blend Italian dressing that you add just before eating.

Just carry it to work and enjoy!

"LUNCH TO GO" SALAD

1/2 cup cherry tomato halves
1/2 cup cucumber slices, halved
1/2 cup garbanzo beans
3 tablespoons Kraft Italian reduced calorie dressing
1/2 cup shredded Swiss cheese, cubed

Place vegetables in portable container. Pour dressing over vegetables. Cover, marinate in refrigerator overnight. Add cheese; mix lightly.

TAKE 'N TOSS SALAD

1 cup assorted greens
1/2 cup cherry tomatoes
1/2 cup cucumber slices

South Norfolk To Go The Way Of Ghent & Old Town?

Sandra Allen of Sandra's Exclusives, located at 211 Poindexter Street in South Norfolk is betting South Norfolk will go the way of Norfolk's Ghent and Portsmouth's Old Towne. She is "tremendously optimistic and looking to the future" from her new store which is situated in the old Mademoiselle Store across from the South Norfolk Post Office.

Because she sincerely believed "the area needed a reasonably priced clothing store offering brand name and designer clothing," she jumped at the chance to "move in and open the doors to Chesapeake." Not without some good reasons of course, because the Director of Industrial Development, Hunter Cox Jr. has sold parcels of land that are scheduled for renovation and redevelopment, in much the same way Chesapeake's sister cities have in Ghent and Old Towne. Also, the Federal Housing Authority is making available low interest loans for the renovation of many of the attractive older homes in the area. Specializing in second cycle designer jeans and low-mileage, one-owner clothing for women of all ages and sizes, Sandra buys brand names in sell-out seasons and turns the profit to the consumer in the form of prices that offer excellent savings. Professional alterations are completed on premises. Save a lot at this one!

Fully Immersible All-in-One Appliance

Newlyweds and others setting up kitchens welcome news of a new cooking appliance that does everything but broil. This one pot can serve you in dozens of ways and save space had expense by eliminating many unnecessary pots.

The same basket doubles as a steamer for vegetables and also turns out nifty noodles, lasagna, spaghetti and kreplach. This versatile appliance is energy-wise, too. "By using this Chef's Pot from the Daze Company for counter-top cooking, you can use far less electricity or gas than for range or oven."

That's really a bargain!

Announcements

A USS Forrestal crewmember reunion will be held at the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard on July 15, 16 and 17, 1983.

The Forrestal is presently resting in drydock in Philadelphia. All past and present shipmates are invited to attend the reunion. For further details, call 804-461-1940, or write: CDR. Grant G. Gullickson, USN (Ret), P.O. Box 12287, Norfolk, Virginia 23502.

June - Dairy Month

Milk: The Choice Is Yours

Remember when the milk left on your doorstep was whole milk? That was the kind most people knew and wanted.

But times have changed in more ways than one. There are almost no more home delivery routes left, and, as a result, few milkmen who leave milk on your doorstep. Now, most of us must make our selection from the dairy case variety at the local store.

The latest kind of milk to reach some stores throughout the country isn't even kept in the dairy case. It comes unrefrigerated and sits on a shelf in a package that doesn't resemble a milk carton as we know it. This is UHT (Ultra High Temperature) milk meaning it's been heated to a higher temperature than refrigerated milk: 280°F vs. 160°F. Packaged in a new type of carton made of paper, polyethylene and aluminum foil, it lasts three months without refrigeration. Since milk tastes best when cold, it's a good idea to refrigerate UHT milk before drinking. However, once the carton is opened, it must be refrigerated when stored.

This convenient milk is available in quart and half-pint containers and offers flavor varieties in addition to whole and lowfat white. UHT processing insures long shelf-life without harming any of the essential vitamins, minerals and other nutrients found in refrigerated milk.

Sweet Acl...What?

The name's a tongue twister, but the effect is beneficial, especially if you have digestive problems. The milk is called acidophilus, which comes from the name, Lactobacillus acidophilus, the beneficial natural ingredient that's activated once the milk is consumed. Due to the nature of acidophilus milk, it should be consumed cold since heating will destroy its effectiveness.

This milk is available in many areas of the Southeast in whole or lowfat form, packaged in quart and half-gallon containers.

Whole, Lowfat or Skim Milk

Whole milk has the biggest share of the market and comes in a wide variety of container sizes ranging from quart to half-gallon and gallon. Whole milk is sometimes called "vitamin D" milk because this vitamin is usually added to fortify it. Without the help of vitamin D, your body could not absorb and use the calcium it needs and gets from dairy sources.

Most of the recipes you see in newspapers, magazines and ads have been tested with whole milk, unless otherwise specified. If families are buying 2% milk, they can use it in cooking except for special recipes calling for cream or half and half.

For those who have to keep calories at lower levels, there's skim milk. This also has been called nonfat milk, but that's not strictly true. Milk fat has been removed to bring the level to less than 0.5%.

When milkfat is removed, as in the case of skim or lowfat milks, vitamin A is added. This must be done to offset the loss of the vitamin, which is contained in milkfat.

Lowfat milks, those labeled 1% and 2%, have milkfat content of that amount. If they're also labeled, "protein fortified," that means nonfat milk solids have been added. Vitamin D is added to almost all of these milks.

Lowfat milk comes in quart, half-gallon and gallon sizes just like whole milk.

Types of Chocolate Milk

When children or teenagers have a special occasion or need a treat, let them have chocolate milk.

Just as you have options for whole milk, so, too, you have them for chocolate. Chocolate milk may be made from whole milk with chocolate or cocoa and sweeteners added, or may be made from 1% or 2% white milk with the same additions.

There's even a chocolate skim milk! Vitamin A is added to fortify them, while vitamin D is optional for all of them. Chocolate milks are generally packaged in the smaller, quart containers.

Other Real Milks

Those who want to save additional money and calories can mix their own milk. Reconstitute nonfat dry milk and water and use, or mix equal parts of it with fluid milk. Nonfat dry milk comes boxed or in individual packets.

Evaporated milk comes in cans. It starts out as whole milk, which is then concentrated by evaporating the water; it's homogenized and fortified with vitamin D, packed in cans, sealed and sterilized. Add water according to label directions if you want to reconstitute it. Evaporated skim milk with vitamins A and D is also available.

Sweetened, condensed milk is also canned—but it's completely different from the evaporated kind. It's whole milk concentrate to which nutritive sweetener has been added and it is used mainly for desserts.

Buttermilk is made by adding a culture to milk for tangy flavor and special consistency. Sometimes you'll find flecks of real butter for extra flavor.

So you see, the choices are yours: whole, skim, lowfat, white, chocolate or buttermilk. UHT or acidophilus, nonfat dry or evaporated in cartons, can or an occasional bottle. You can even get the smaller cartons in school, cafeteria, restaurant or vending machine. There's always a milk to suit your need or mode and mild should never be overlooked when fitness is your goal.

The Beechers

"Have you heard from the boys lately?"

"Cocoa called Sonny the other day. We haven't heard from Palm in about a week, and we haven't heard from Melbourne in about a month. You know, of them all, he's the one about whom I worry the most."

"I know Sandy, but you know he's being well taken care of. And they told us to wait six weeks before calling him again."

"I know. I just wish there was something I could do to help him. He was such a fine boy. Then, all of a sudden he snapped."

"Anybody want some mixed nuts?"

"Oh Sonny, you're so funny, how you make me laugh."

"I'm sorry but we're out of fruitcake."

"It's not a joking matter, Sonny. What of Cocoa and Palm had turned out like Melbourne? And how about sweet Wendy? Submitting to Mel's wish for a divorce; living here with us until he recovers."

"He's all right. Don't you two understand that. There's nothing wrong with him, really. He's as normal now as the day he married Wendy. Wendy, tell the truth. Did you think Mel was perfectly normal when you first met him?"

"Well, yes. I mean, he was no stranger than a lot of the men I had met. Of course, he always was a little weird; a little eccentric. But show me, pass the nuts please, Sonny, anybody who isn't."

"Well if you ask me he takes after his father."

"Me?"

"I just wish they'd let me, his ex-wife who still loves him very much, see him. I mean, just because he was living with me when he had his breakdown doesn't mean I triggered it, does it? Does it? Come on now, tell me. Does it?"

"Would you girls like some more tea?"

VWC Ground Breaking

A Virginia Beach builder broke ground this week for a scholarship house for Virginia Wesleyan College.

R. G. Moore, developer of Campus East and Wesleyan Pines across Baker Road from the Virginia Wesleyan campus, will give to Virginia Wesleyan's Endowment Fund the profits from the sale of a single family dwelling in Wesleyan Pines, as well as the entire proceeds from the sale of the lot for the dwelling. Officials indicate the gift could be as much as $50,000.

"Virginia Wesleyan means a great deal to this area, and I want to help in the college's development," says Moore.

Virginia Wesleyan president Lambuth M. Clarke calls this "a generous gift which will assist the college at this time when a special effort is being made to raise adequate scholarship resources." Clarke said, "Mr. Moore, in his development activities, has shown his concern for the quality of life in our community, and he is now extending that concern for the training of tomorrow's leaders. Our goal is to raise $5,000,000 for Pines, as well as the entire proceeds from the sale of the lot for the dwelling. Officials indicate the gift could be as much as $50,000."

Virginia Wesleyan is located on a 300-acre tract astride the Norfolk-Virginia Beach line. The new developments will bring several hundred new families into the rapidly growing area around Wesleyan's campus.

VWC senior Julia Kuhn Wallace receives the Northside Norfolk Rotary Club Award from Robert A. Hardesty.

Germaine Elaine Kinzig, a senior elementary education major from Virginia Beach, receives the award for academic achievement in elementary education from Dr. Victor I. Culver.

STUFFED SHIRT

You've met this man before! Remember him? What grand airs he liked to assume! What vain boasts poured from his lips! He was forever trying to make an impression, but most people saw through his false front. They called him a STUFFED SHIRT!

Airs and vanity rarely fool us. We look for the inner qualities of a man's character. Only when those inner qualities are just as fine as the external impression he makes—only then are we sure we have met a man of the highest caliber.

Our sanctuaries build character! Into the life of the individual and of the community it pours those moral and spiritual influences which develop man's innate nobility. Through religious education and the worship of God, they point young and old to the high goals and rich resources of Christian living.

Army is planning to increase the number of these vehicles at Fort Story "with no apparent evaluation of the impact they will have on the environment, the tourist industry, the sport fishing industry and the general quality of life in Virginia Beach."

He believes that a separate detailed environmental impact statement is required under the National Environmental Policy Act for the permanent basing and operating of the LACV-30's at Fort Story and that this EIS should also address the synergistic impacts associated with joint operation and training activities involving the LACV-30 and the Navy's LCAC as well as other amphibious vehicles.

He says this has never been done and should be done before any decision is made to increase the number of LACV-30's at Fort Story.

Assistant to the City Manager David Grochmal told Council he disagreed with an environmental impact statement issued in 1976 and 1978 which concluded that the operation would not have significant impact on the city.

Also a legal city staff was a glaring notice published on June 3, 1983 in the Virginian-Pilot by the Army in which it announced that four LACV-30's will be tested in a realistic operational environment using trained troops at Fort Story during July and August of this year.

Although the tests will involve four vehicles, Grochmal said that the Army expects to have 14 vehicles by the end of the year. He said the environmental impact statement is not accurate.

In his letter addressed to Maj. Gen. Harold I. Small, Muehlenbeck said Council "is very concerned about the impact of the basing and training of the LACV-30's at Fort Story."

We are concerned that the Army is planning to increase the number of these vehicles stationed at Fort Story with no apparent evaluation of the impact they will have on the environment."

He said the 1976 Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) was done for an operational test of the LACV-30 to be conducted from March 1976 through March 1977, primarily at Fort Story. He noted that the document states that the LACV-30 is expected to be operated at Fort Story only during the test period. "The installation where LACV-30's will be permanently stationed has not yet been determined and hence, secondary environmental impacts of the craft cannot be evaluated at this time."

An addendum to the deis in August 1978 notes that additional testing would be conducted from August 1978 through January 1981 which would involve only two LACV-30's. Only a short-term adverse noise impact was forecast.

Muehlenbeck maintained that there has never been an environmental of the permanent basing of LACV-30's at Fort Story and an evaluation of their operating activities in the waters off Virginia Beach.

In addition to saying that the number of LACV-30's will increase to 14 by the end of the year, Col. James Blewster, in a letter to Muehlenbeck stated that the noise level should be minimal. Unfortunately, Muehlenbeck said, "there are no studies to support this contention. In fact, the evidence we have seen indicates they will be quite noisy and disruptive."

Jennings also reported on a meeting of May 26 to discuss the LCAC program. Attending the session, in addition to Jennings, Muehlenbeck, Grochmal, Jack Whitney, of the Virginia Beach Planning Department, and Councilman Harold Heischouer were LTCDR Donald Cosgrove, Naval Facilities Engineering Command, CDR Robert Gronenack, head, Facilities Planning and Real Estate Department, Atlantic Division Naval Facilities Engineering Command, Norfolk; Pam Anderson, Atlantic Division, Naval Facilities Engineering Command, Norfolk; Art Collings, Southeastern Virginia Planning District Commission; LTCOL Craig Steinmetz, CNO's Office in Washington, LCAC coordinator, and William C. Zegel, W.A.R., Inc.

At the meeting, Cosgrove said that while the city would have an opportunity to make its concerns known, the Navy has the final decision under federal law.

Jennings said that during a visit in Panama City where the LCAC's are located, an inspection committee which included Jennings was told that the operations would be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and that now the hours of 7 to 10 p.m. including weekends are being considered.

Jennings said that he thought Virginia Beach's best interests would be served if the training were conducted at Cape Charles.

Steinmetz said that the decision has not been made.

Gronenack said that each of the four sites is being fully evaluated.

Cosgrove advised the local representatives to wait until the next document comes out which should be in a month or six weeks.

A resolution by Council opposing the basing of the program at the Beach has been deferred pending the outcome of discussions with the Navy.

Olympic Committee Meets

The Virginia US Olympic Committee will host a luncheon on Wednesday, June 15, 1983 at the new Pavilion Tower, Virginia Beach, it has been announced by J. Burton Harrison, Jr., president of the Bank of Virginia Beach.

In making the announcement Harrison, who is a vice chairman of the Virginia USOC Committee stated that the purpose of the luncheon is to present the objectives of the US Olympic Committee for the 1984 games, and to enlist the financial support of businesses and individuals in the Tidewater area.

The featured luncheon speaker will be Chief Petty Officer Bill Renton, a member of the elite SEAL team based at Little Creek Amphibious base. Renton, a member of the 1976 and 1980 US Bobsled Team, begins training this summer for competition in the 1984 Winter Olympics in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia. ## Guidelines To Intelligent Investing Enclosed is a list of 10 guidelines to help the investor enhance his return on investments. Hopefully these general rules will give a better understanding of how to outperform the normal investor.

1. Be extremely cautious about following the consensus attitude. It is easy to be swayed by the media and public opinion. Try to be objective and consider all possibilities before making a decision.
2. Do not fall in love with stocks no matter how well they have done in the past. The technological changes can quickly alter an industry outlook. Ask yourself if you would still be comfortable buying the stock at its current level. If so, hold on to the stock. If you would rather put the money in other industry areas do not be afraid to switch out of the stock that has performed so well.

3. Do not fight momentum. It is much easier to row with the tide instead of against it. A good example of fighting momentum is Joseph Granville. This investment advisor has been fighting the current market surge since last year. His advice has been to short stocks in hope of profiting from declining prices. Needless to say his investment record has been one of the worst in the business in the last year.

4. Be sure to diversify in your overall investment planning. The 1970's brought considerable appreciation to home-owners as inflation dramatically increased. The 1980's may be remembered as a period of exceptional growth to stockholders as inflation cools off. Spread your investment dollars around to take advantage of as many potential growth vehicles as possible.

5. Take advantage of the few breaks the government is willing to give you. There are always ways to reduce your tax bracket so explore the possibilities until you find an investment you are comfortable with. You are cheating yourself if you have not invested in an I.R.A. Explore all possibilities in I.R.A. investing. Do not be satisfied with a return of less than 10% on your

I.R.A. There are too many other I.R.A. investments vehicles earning much more than 10%.

6. Investing in out of favor areas can often bring excellent appreciation. Chrysler is the perfect example of a company nobody wanted anything to do with in early 1982. The investor who bought 100 shares of Chrysler at $4.00 a share has made over $2,000 in one year. Do not be afraid of buying depressed stocks.

7. Buy value rather than sparkle. Too often you pay too high a price for the glamor stocks. A regional bank such as Bank of Virginia is a good example of this. This stock could have been bought for $14.00 a share in 1982. The stock is now $28.00 a share because the market realized it was undervalued when its earnings, management, and growth rates were taken into consideration.

8. Educate, educate, educate! You should continually read financial publications and keep up to date on changing trends and technologies. If you do not have time for this, find a professional money manager with a good track record that you can trust.

9. Be flexible and willing to change your investment philosophy as economic conditions dictate. The 1980's will be a decade of greatly increased volatility. A good example of this is the purchase of gold, silver, or copper stocks as a hedge against increased inflation. If inflation does rise substantially, natural resource stocks will outperform the general market. Your portfolio should have an increased participation in this area if you feel the country will return to 102 inflation in the near future.

10. Periodically review your investment goals and what you are doing to accomplish these objectives. If there is a need for more income as opposed to growth, your portfolio should be altered to reflect a change in these investment goals. If your current investment advisor is not accomplishing your goals, do not be afraid to seek other advice.

Chesapeake Firm Plans Chesapeake's Growth

As the days become warmer and more pleasant, most people will be spending more time outdoors. But after a hard winter, most yards will need some work to look their best again. Edward Gosman & Associates, Inc., can help.

Starting its third year of business the locally owned company has a goal of providing quality services at competitive prices. Most of the work is in landscape planning, grading, seeding, sodding, yard clean-ups and maintenance for homes and businesses.

The company also can provide landscape design and can help with almost any project outside the home.

Edward Gosman, owner and manager, is a lifelong resident of Chesapeake and has 14 years of experience in landscape contracting.

Alan Coker and F. Keith Warrick are both landscape architects and have designed many interesting planting and site construction projects for Tidewater homes and businesses. Graduates of the University of Georgia and V.P.I. & S.U. respectively, both have many years of expertise in the area, and can help with the simplest planning to the most complex project.

Catherine Howland and Sandra Johnson are secretaries for the company and always happy to help customers on the phone. Both are longtime residents of Chesapeake.

The company is a member of the Virginia Nurserymen's Association and has three Virginia Certified Nurserymen on the staff.

The company has plans to keep growing with the City of Chesapeake, which has such a great potential for growth. "We have been very fortunate, with many fine customers in Chesapeake and many referrals, as well," Mrs. Howland said.

Graduating MBAs Face Tough Job Market

Major corporations have cut hirings of recently graduated MBAs by 25-50 percent, in some cases. Hardest hit are the transportation, construction and manufacturing industries. But MBAs who specialized in management consulting, electronics, banking or accounting at the better-known schools are faring better—particularly those who have combined work experience with technical training.

Tax Trap For The Unwary

1982's "Tefra" tax act considerably broadened the "alternative minimum tax" provisions for individuals. Tax advisors are still working out the full implications of the AMT, which is effective for 1983 and later tax years.

One thing is certain: The AMT—which is a tax on certain "tax preference" items—bears ominous overtones for taxpayers who are subject to it yet do not understand it.

If you are involved in any types of tax shelters, check with your tax advisor to see if you are potentially subject to the alternative minimum tax for 1983. If so, find out now what the implications will be. You could be in for some nasty surprises if the AMT catches you off-guard at tax filing time.

Recover Attorney Fees On IRS Challenges

Effective for proceedings begun on or after March 1, taxpayers who win against the Internal Revenue Service in Tax Court can recover up to $25,000 in attorney fees. Other litigation expenses, key the taxpayer must be able to prove that the IRS' position was unreasonable.

On the other hand, the government may be awarded up to $5,000 in damages from taxpayers who use Tax Court as a delaying tactic or whose claims are deemed to be "frivolous."

Declines In Interest Rates Alter Financing Of Homes

Recent declines in mortgage interest rates have significantly altered the way people are financing their existing home purchases, according to an April survey by the National Association of Realtors.

"This spring the use of creative financing techniques in resale transactions fell dramatically in light of more affordable financing from institutions," Dr. Jack Carlson, chief economist and executive vice president of the association, said.

When home mortgage interest rates soared to 15-16 percent and even higher during 1980-82, there was sharp increase in the use of creative financing, the so-called "people-to-people" financing in which all or part of the home loan amount came from the seller or other non-institutional sources. But as interest rates have fallen to the current 12-13 percent range homebuyers are increasingly turning back to a traditional loan sources such as savings and loan associations.

Since last summer there has been a significant shift back to increased use of first mortgages and less reliance on second and third liens, Carlson said.

Nine months ago, only six out of every 10 resale transactions were financed with just one mortgage, according to the 800 Realtors who responded to the association's nationwide survey.

"As a direct result of lower interest rates, there has been a dramatic resurgence in the use of traditional, fixed-rate, instruments—now almost eight in 10 are of the traditional type, he added.

"Clearly, the traditional fixed-rate, fully-amortized 30-year mortgage is not extinct," Carlson said. "The improving health of the nation's leading institutions, combined with the strong consumer demand for these traditional mortgages, is likely to keep homebuyer demand for fixed-rate mortgages strong for many more years," he added.

Along with changes in the types of financing techniques used, there has been a major shift in the sources of first mortgage loans, the economist noted. Financial institutions now originate more than 60 percent of all first mortgages—more than double the market share of a year ago.

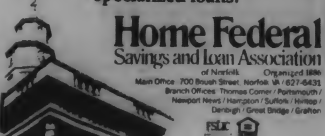

Overall, Carlson added, seller-financing and mortgage assumptions are now utilized only half as much as they were a year ago.

The association's spring survey also revealed a significant decrease in the use of balloon payment mortgages—short-term loans which become due at maturity in one lump sum payment.

"One year ago, almost one-fourth of all first mortgages involved balloon payments," Carlson said. "Now, only 4 percent of all firsts involved balloons."

Affordability Still A Problem

By ROGER PYLE

In spite of lower interest rates, today's homebuyer still faces affordability problems. Lower mortgage rates cannot, alone, close the affordability gap. Mortgage rates are down about four percent lower than they were last year but there is no guarantee that home loan rates will go any lower. Savings institutions, the main source of residential mortgages, now must pay market rates on nearly all of their savings deposits. That means loan rates will now be more sensitive than ever to money market conditions.

The possibility of increased mortgage rates is

Good News On Home Front

By James M. Woodward

After three years of receiving and reporting dismal, discouraging news for home buyers and sellers, it's a real delight to see good news reaching my desk.

Interest rates are down. Home prices are down. And there's a lot of homes to choose from.

There is strong new activity in the marketing of resale (used) homes, it was reported by the National Association of Realtors (NAR). This is true both in regard to numbers of people looking for homes to buy and actual sales, according to NAR.

The National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) is even more jubilant.

"A 30 percent increase in new home sales and housing construction is now forecast for 1983," an NAHB report stated.

"There's been a turnaround in all key housing indicators in recent months," the NAHB report continued. "Mortgage interest rates have plummeted from 18 to 12 percent levels while housing construction starts, building permits and home sales show new signs of life and are heading in the right direction for the first time in three years."

Prices of homes, while appearing to be gradually increasing, are really decreasing. Some analysts say those real price reductions are substantial.

The NAR report listed the current median price of existing homes at $67,500, that's 2.3 percent higher than one year ago.

However, as NAR concedes, when creative financing concessions are taken into account, home prices actually are lower than they were a year ago.

Some real estate researchers believe the effective reductions in home prices are very significant.

"If inflation and creative financing' are considered, there may be a real decrease in home prices of as much as 25 percent during the past years," said Stephen Roulac, president of Questor Associates in San Francisco.

In Roulac's opinion, the most significant factor is that home builders and sellers are contributing a part of the sale price to "buy down" the mortgage rate to make a house more attractive to prospective buyers. Last year, he added, U.S. Home Corp. (the nation's largest builder) paid out 11 percent of its $1 billion revenues for buy-downs.

In the wake of sharp reductions in mortgage interest rates, the use of various forms of "creative financing" are diminishing somewhat. But they are still an important factor in the home marketing picture.

Assuming an existing mortgage is part of about 48 percent of home sale transactions — down from 60 percent a few months ago. And many sellers are still carrying back first or second mortgages (or trust deeds), sometimes at low interest rates, in their quest to find and close a buyer.

Q. In what part of the country are home prices increasing or decreasing most rapidly?

A: Prices are increasing most rapidly in the West — 6.2 percent gain during the past year. But keep in mind that the real or effective change is a price decrease, as explained above.

Q. What do the letters CMI after a real estate person's name mean?

A: This is a new designation for persons with documented expertise in the area of real estate taxes. It's granted by the Institute of Property Taxation. The letters stand for Certified Member of Institute.

The Builders Block

Luxury High Rise In Portsmouth

Wednesday, May 25th, marked the official opening of Harbor Tower Apartments.

The tallest highrise in Tidewater, Harbor Tower is twenty five stories high and is built on 37 acres of waterfront property along the Elizabeth River in Portsmouth. An octagonal shape is employed, which allows each apartment to have two different views, with one always of the river. There are 190 units including four penthouses. All have one or two bedrooms, with one to two baths, with the exception of the penthouses, which have 2½ baths, a fireplace and roof deck for a total of 2,195 sq. ft.

Roughly 100 of the 190 units have balconies, which to me plays a large role in the appeal of these luxury units. Also for your convenience is 24 hour concierge service, tennis courts, swimming pool, saunas and exercise room.

The $15 million building was built by Blake Construction Co., Inc., of Washington, D.C. designed by architect Araldo Corsutta of New York City and developed by Ronald A. Nicholson, also of New York.

Management is by S.L. Nusbaum of Norfolk. The financing for this project was arranged through Virginia National Bank, with the Portsmouth Redevelopment and Housing Authority issuing Industrial Development Revenue Bonds. Also, a $3 million Urban Development Action Grant was awarded by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Portsmouth's waterfront and downtown is no stranger to improvements. The new City Hall, housing along Crawford Bay, the Virginia Chemicals Building, the $4 million expansion of the Holiday Inn, and the $5 million, 780 car Harbor Street Garage built by the city adjacent to Harbor Tower, are all commitments to the revitalization of Portsmouth.

Also planned for the waterfront is a ferry to run between Norfolk and Portsmouth every fifteen minutes beginning July 15th, touring trolleys, walking tours of Old Towne, and an Old Harbor Market.

Portrait Of A Successful Thirty One Year Old.

A lot has happened at Goodman Segar Hogan since we first opened our doors in 1952. We spent our early years building a strong foundation, laying the groundwork that made our success possible. We expanded rapidly in the '70s to become the largest real estate company in the marketplace.

But with the '80s came our greatest challenge. In the face of rising interest rates we grew phenomenally. We knew there could be said and we knew what we had to do to sell them. Last year's sales totaled well over $200 million, but we're not resting on our laurels.

Our future includes growth, change and diversification. Our success is built on the efforts of our dedicated people. And it will continue to be. It's hard work that made us the number one real estate company in Southeastern Virginia. It's hard work that will keep us number one in Great Bridge.

Ocean Park Women Are Winners

The General Federation of Women's Clubs, Ocean Park Women's Club, has completed a year of hard but rewarding work. At the recent meeting of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs' convention in Richmond, the Ocean Park club won awards in performing art, first place; visual arts, second place; and the club also received recognition for membership increase.

In creative arts a blue ribbon was won by Kathleen Cooper for a knitted sweater. Red ribbons were won by Sarah Ann Davis, candlewick pillow; Flora Gattuso, a knotted afghan; and Geneva Kinzie, a woven afghan.

A program was presented by Joyce Whitaker, leadership development chairman. Highlighting the history of the Federation, club members participating in the program were June Ambrose, Anna Mae Brickhouse, Kathleen Cooper, Shirley Emerson, Marjorie Gwaltney, Judi Kittall, Josephine Pharp, Dickie Tubbs and Bea Wagner.

The program also included a demonstration given by the city's registrar office on the city's new electronic voting machines.

The "Ear Ring" Lady

Virginia Beach resident, Arethia Yancey has, in the past 43 years collected more than 400 pairs of earrings -- 406 to be exact. Her collection started in 1940 when "people started giving them to me," the veteran Naval Air Rework Facility worker commented. Yancey has worked as an Aircraft Instrumentation Worker for 17 years.

"I've seen a lot of changes," she pointed out. "Used to be so many people here you'd practically be sitting on somebody's lap."

The collection of earrings, enough to change daily for 13 months at a crack, has become a passion with Yancey, who said she loves them all. "Never know which pair I will wear until I decide what I am going to wear to work."

Some of her earrings are from Naples, Spain, Brazil and England, but most are "from right here in the U.S. I have almost everything you see in the stores...besides, they just don't make them the way they used to."

Yancey will go on collecting earrings and remain the legend she has become in her shop here at NARF. Her co-workers call her the "Earring Lady". She doesn't mind. She has the right to be different.

Crowe Wins Society Prize

Richard L. Crowe, a 1973 graduate of Princess Anne High School and now a graduate architectural student at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, edged out 223 other Virginia architectural students to win the Fourth Annual $1000 Virginia Society Prize.

This is the fourth consecutive year a student from VPI and SU has come up the winner in the competition, which is open to students from the architecture programs at the University of Virginia and Hampton Institute as well.

The competition, sponsored by the Virginia Society of the American Institute of Architects, involves a weekend design sketch problem distributed simultaneously at each of the three schools. Problems are selected to be as realistic as possible, providing competitors with some rigid constraints while at the same time allowing for creativity. To maximize the realism, actual sites are often selected as the basis for the problem.

This year's problem was to design a new structure on a vacant lot on Queensway Mall in downtown Hampton. The structure was to provide up to 2,500 square feet of retail space for specialty shops plus additional space for offices, storage, and conference facilities. A key element of the problem was to design the structure to maximize the property as a pedestrian link from the mall to a major parking lot. Although adapted from reality, some aspects of the problem were hypothetical.

Unanimous
Crowe's entry was unanimously selected by a jury of six Virginia architects and architectural educators as demonstrating both the best design solution and a highly commendable presentation technique. Jurors included John H. Spencer, FAIA, of Hampton Institute, K. Edward Lay, Jr. of the University of Virginia, Jann Holt of VPI and SU, David R. Rosenthal, AIA, of Fairfax, Robert S. Fry III, AIA of Roanoke, and Carlton S. Abbott, FAIA, of Williamsburg.

June Weddings, Libraries

Couples occasionally choose unusual places and ways in which to get married: during hot air balloons rides, parachute jumps, at bluegrass festivals, and other perhaps less exotic settings. They seldom, if ever, choose libraries. The library, however, can be an invaluable partner in the planning of a wedding.

Elizabeth Post's book entitled "Emily Post's Complete Book of Wedding Etiquette" begins with the engagement and offers advice concerning the bride's trousseau, expenses and budget, invitations and announcements, clothes for the bridal party, prewedding events, the ceremony, weddings in special situations, remarrying, gifts, flowers, music and menus. Information to the bride is detailed and quite specific. Did you know such details as: in a marriage before a justice of the peace, it is incorrect to wear a wedding gown and that the bride should wear a corsage rather than carry a bouquet? That at a home wedding there is not a recession? That it used to be considered bad luck for the bride to take part in her own wedding rehearsal? That large cities may have bridal rental stores where the bride can rent her dress?

"Check List for a Perfect Wedding" by Barbara Lee Fottett is a step-by-step listing of all the activities which need to be considered in planning a wedding. Fill-in-the-blank forms designating the time period for completion of a variety of activities allow the bride and here family to note what has been arranged as they proceed. Checklists are included for bridesmaid's duties, ushers' and ring bearer's duties, etc. Rules for addressing invitations and guidelines for hiring a florist, musicians and caterers are given in detail.

Other titles available at the Virginia Beach Public Library include: "Wedding Book: alternative ways to celebrate marriage;" "Wedding Flowers: decorations and etiquette drawings;" "Wedding photography for today;" "Wedding: what every bride should know about wedding etiquette and arrangement;" "Bride's book of etiquette;" and "Bride's book of showers."

The Windsor Woods Are Library offers two music books "This is my wedding day" and "World's greatest book of wedding songs" as well as the recording "Music from a royal wedding" to play while you make your arrangements.

While you may not choose to be married in a library, please remember that a wealth of helpful information is available there which will help you organize and plan.

Simpson Recognized As Eagle Scout #3000

At its recent Executive Board Meeting, Eagle Scout Christopher Simpson was recognized for being Eagle Scout #3000 in the Tidewater Council. The first Eagle Award was earned in 1915 by (the later Colonel) Richard E. McCord.

To earn his Eagle Award, Simpson had to earn 21 merit badges in diverse fields. Among his 10 elective Badges were American Heritage, canoeing, genealogy, sports, and pets. His 11 required merit badges included three in citizenship, first aid, environmental science, safety, camping, and communications.

A service project of benefit to the community was completed by the Eagle candidate. He developed a plan to canvas local subdivisions and to collect food. This was done with the assistance of nine other boys whom he directed.

To fulfill the requirement of demonstrated leadership, Simpson served in Troop 378, Virginia Beach United Methodist Church, as Patrol Leader and Senior Patrol Leader. His Scoutmaster is Ernest Allen, a longterm Scouting leader, at Virginia Beach United Methodist Church.

Simpson is in the eighth grade at Cape Henry Collegiate, where he is on the Headmaster's List. He hopes to continue his schooling at Hargrave Military Academy in Chatham, Virginia, following his Eagle Scout brother David. He plays soccer and basketball, and runs cross-country.

High Marks On Competency Testing

The attitude of Virginia Beach Public Schools toward minimum competency testing has continued to pay off again this year; 97 percent of those taking the tests for the first time passed the reading test, and 97 percent passed the mathematics test.

From the time that the minimum competency tests were mandated by the Virginia General Assembly, the Virginia Beach school system has taken the tests seriously. Virginia Beach developed its own tests originally, and portions of both the reading and mathematics tests were later adopted by the State Board of Education for use statewide. Each locality is also responsible for developing and administering a social studies competency test that meets the unique needs of that locality; Virginia Beach began administering its social studies test a full year before the test was required.

Under State law, students who are not considered ready to take the tests are not required to do so in the tenth grade. While some school divisions take advantage of this provision in the law, the policy of school officials in Virginia Beach has consistently been to administer the test to everyone as soon as the student is eligible. In this way, teachers have been able to use the tests as diagnostic tools as early as possible and to provide remediation before a retest. As a result, no student of Virginia Beach Public Schools has failed to pass the required test eventually.

This year, 98 percent of those eligible to take the tests for the first time completed both tests. The two percent who missed taking one or both tests because of illness or other absences will be scheduled for the tests at a later date.

The importance of being in school on the days the tests are given is stressed by school officials; the two percent who missed the tests is well below the six percent average absenteeism in senior high schools in Virginia Beach.

The social studies test may be given even before the tenth grade. Those students who take a social studies course in junior high school are given that test as early as the eighth grade to allow for remediation if needed.

The school system prepares a comprehensive booklet annually which is sent home to parents with students about to take the test. The booklet explains the minimum competency tests and their importance; it also includes sample questions to be used by parents and students in preparing students for the tests. For those few who fail the first time, immediate remediation efforts are begun.

The percentage of Virginia Beach students who passed the tests this year compares favorably with those of other years.

RESTAURANT Dining GUIDE

Genghis Khan

John and Shoney Wagenblass recently opened a unique restaurant in Virginia Beach. With a name like that, it had to be "different". Believe me, it is. It is a fun place to eat! John, an eleven year military officer, picked up on the idea when he had similar food served him at the officers club in Hawaii.

His decision to bring this very special style of cooking to Tidewater was primarily based on the strong appeal it had for him.

Mongolian Barbecue is a delightful way to eat. You are in for an exciting and pleasant surprise that will tantalize your appetite and send you back time and time again. It is a simple method of cooking that dates to 1211 AD during the invasion of China by Genghis Khan.

Originally the meal consisted of spicy oil and meat. The Chinese later added an assortment of vegetables.

You select the meat and vegetables and you combine the oils and special sauces for the cook, who cooks your meal, (while you watch, if you care to), on a special flat top Mongolian grills fired by charcoal.

It is totally your concoction, and as big or as small as you care to make it, with as little or as much meats and vegetables as you care to add — with the great variety of waters, sauces and spices you yourself pour over it before handing it to the cook.

Here's the great part! 40 cents per ounce! And, look at what you choose from:

4 Meats — Beef, Pork, Turkey and Chicken
18 Vegetables — Bean sprouts, Onions, Green

9 Sauces — Soy Sauce, Sugar Water, Ginger Water, Garlic Water, Sake, Lemon Water, Rice Wine Vinegar, Sesame Seed Oil and Hot Pepper Oil

Here's how you do it! Have fun!

1. Make your selections from the meat and vegetable line.

2. Pay according to the number of ounces you take.

3. Make your selections from oils and special waters (no charge).

4. Take your creation to our chef.

5. Your delicious and most healthful meal will be ready in about 5 minutes.

Oh, yes, take out service is available seven days a week.

Fellowship Center Concert

Recently the Fellowship Center, 620 14th Street, hosted theater star Chris Van Cleave and former Miss Virginia Beach 1976, Jan Hafling in concert. They were accompanied by Jack Spitz on drums, Eric Wilson of New York City on guitar, and Rusty Aven on bass.

Chris Van Cleave is perhaps best known for his starring role as Jesus in two national road tours out of New York of "Jesus Christ Superstar," and the leading role of Claude in a national tour of "Hair."

Van Cleave will perform again at the Fellowship Center on Monday, July 4 at 8 p.m., this time with Mahoteh, a flutist, guitarist and vocalist best known for his ability to improvise. They will be performing original music of both Van Cleave and Mahoteh. There is no admission charge, but donations will be collected after the performance.

Van Cleave, Hafling, Aven and Spitz are all professional musicians and residents of Virginia Beach.

Green Run Parade Set

A big parade is gearing up for the Fourth of July at Green Run.

The event, while hosted by the Green Run Homes Association, will be open to the public. Tidewater's only Fourth of July parade will be honored with Congressmen G. William Whitehurst as Grand Marshall. Thirty-five craft booths, along with Italian, French, German and American food concessions will also be part of the festivities. The Green Run pool will be open to the public for this day only.

Several dignitaries will be there to celebrate, among them: Joseph Canada - State Senator; William (Buster) O'Brien - State Representative; Glenn McClanahan - Virginia House of Delegates; Paul Sciorino - Commonwealth's Attorney; and Thomas Muehlenbeck - City Manager - Virginia Beach.

City Council and city departments will also be well represented. Some of the major events in the parade will include:

Silk-N-Chutes sky divers; Fort Eustis Co. E. 2nd Battalion, U.S. Army Transportation School; Nightingale helicopter; McDonald's "Little Critters"; USS ALABAMA float; Uncle Sam; Green Run High School Band; General Lee car; Little Miss Neptune; clowns, magicians, jugglers, drummers, baton twirlers; military units; horses; children's games; auction; and four music bands.

The Green Run parade has been planned by Mrs. Priscilla Beede, assisted by the Green Run Fourth of July Committee. The events are free.

Parking is available at Green Run Elementary School on Green Garden Circle, and cars may also be parked on nearby streets.

The parade is set for 10 a.m. commencing at the Green Run High School, followed by opening ceremonies at Green Run Elementary School. The celebration will end at 10 p.m.

For Exceptional Efforts

How Should Teachers Be Rewarded?

By Greg Goldfarb
Sun Editor

The Virginia Beach public school system does not have a merit pay plan for its almost 3,000 teachers, nor is it likely to adopt one.

And neither does the Virginia Beach Education Association, the local teachers' union, eagerly embrace the task of trying to set up a system to evaluate and reward teachers based on teaching performance.

But both groups agree that teachers need, in some way special achievement for special achievement.

In the recently published and school board-adopted Curriculum Assessment and Development Project, Task Force Report, one of its 138 recommendations reads: "Explore creative means to recognize and reward classroom teachers who demonstrate superior teaching skills and to provide staffing options that best use their talent and ability."

Jamie Chapman, executive director of the VBEA, agrees that classroom teachers need to be rewarded and recognized for exceptional teaching, but he also thinks a "merit pay" plan is not necessarily the best means to accomplish this goal.

"Some people can look at that (recommendation) and say, 'oh my gosh, that's merit pay,'" Chapman recently said. "The overall experience of merit pay has not been favorable for the classroom teachers. It's a very easy thing to conceptualize...but when it comes down to doing it, it becomes really difficult."

Chapman says there are several other ways of rewarding teachers without using merit pay, such as weekly, monthly or annual awards for exceptional teaching performances.

"No Magic Formula" Dr. Benjamin I. Troutman, director, Office of Curriculum Assessment and Development, Virginia Beach City Public Schools, said that really good teachers should be rewarded. But he doesn't like the term "merit pay" and thinks the key to this question is not hung on money but on involvement.

"It's very clear to me, and I think the national scene bears me out on this, that the public and many professional people want to see differentiated recognition and reward for teachers, based not on longevity but on demonstrated performance and merit," Troutman said.

"What is important is how performance is rated and by whom."

"Any plan that would be developed by this school system would very naturally involve students, teachers and parents in the development of a plan. We do not have a plan right now," Troutman continued.

The city's public school system has three salary schedules from which teachers may draw their salaries. During the first three years of a teacher's employment in the school system, teachers fall under the "probationary schedule," and employment contracts are up for renewal yearly. Wages begin at $14,070 for a teacher with no experience, to $24,144 for teachers with a master's degree who is coming into the system with 15 years experience. After three years, teachers are switched to a "continuing contract schedule." Salaries here range from $15,469 to $25,870 depending on experience and education. Contracts are automatically renewed. The final schedule for teachers, with 10 years experience in the city's school system, is the "career schedule" which has a top salary of $28,020. But before teachers may be placed on this schedule, they must first make application and also meet a page and a half of requirements for placement on the career teacher schedule. The application is reviewed and final approval comes from the school system's personnel office.

School officials plan to actively involve the educators and the community in devising a plan under which good teachers, no matter how much or little experience they may have, can be rewarded.

"We intend to extensively involve people in the development of the plan, but we will move forward with the development (in the interim)," said Troutman. "In other words, there's no magic formula for what we intend to do right now. It will be long, hard work to get teachers, principals, parents and students to agree on what is the best way of doing things."

Troutman foresees a lofty summit to reach, but because of advancements in the science of education, a resolution may be brought about logically and systematically.

"I think, and let me make this point clear, that the state of the art, and science of teaching is much more advanced now than it was a decade ago," Troutman said. "You have much clearer and better, more objective indicators of performance. Therefore, we can devise a fairer, more objective, more comprehensive means to reward effective teaching behavior. This is something that's long overdue."

Asked specifically about the Task Force Report's recommendation, Troutman said, "I'd say the intention of the recommendation is to look at all ways for recognizing and rewarding teachers. That would include economic remuneration as well as other means."

Troutman doesn't like to use the term "merit pay" because of its connotations.

"I don't use the term 'merit pay,'" he said. "It causes people to react before they think."

In Denver, Mayor Jones Accepts Award For City

By B. J. Sessions
Sun Correspondent

DENVER—The City of Virginia Beach received a special award at the United States Conference of Mayors this week for efforts by its citizens to keep the rate of unemployment far lower than the national average.

"We are fortunate to receive a special recognition award for volunteerism on the part of our citizens," said Mayor Louis Jones.

"It is now our objective to work toward reducing what we already consider the very low unemployment rate of 5.7 percent."

The award was sponsored by the Xerox corporation and was one of only 20 given out at the conference, which hosted over 200 mayors from around the country.

Jones and the mayors of Chesapeake, Portsmouth, Norfolk and Hampton attended the conference from the Hampton Roads area.

The mayors served on small committees which hammered out resolutions which were to be presented Wednesday to the entire group. Resolutions which passed are to be forwarded to Congress as representative of the feelings of all the nation's city mayors.

Jones, along with Chesapeake's mayor Sid Oman, served on committees dealing with energy and the environment and transportation and communications.

Jones was instrumental in deleting a clause from the transportation resolution which would have called for opening all railroad lines for use by competing railroads.

"My position was that this was unfair to the owners of the railroad in question. The rival railroads would be able to 'piggyback' on their sizeable capital investments."

Annual VBA Convention

Virginia Attornies Convene At Beach

An examination of antitrust problems in the health care industry - including discussion of how competition affects the cost of health care services and of the federal government's role in promoting such competition - will be one of the 11 programs offered by Virginia State Bar sections on Friday, June 17, during the 45th Annual Meeting of the VSB, in Virginia Beach. The State Bar currently has 13 sections, each of which consists of Virginia attorneys interested in a specific field of law. The VSB's Annual Meeting, June 16-19, will be conducted at the Cavalier and Holiday Inn hotels.

The State Bar's Antitrust Law Section will sponsor the program on "The Bar and the Health Care Industry: The Reasons Why Lawyers Should Know about Antitrust Problems in the Health Care Field" (11 a.m., Falso Cape Room, Holiday Inn). This panel program will feature Washington, DC lawyer H. Robert Halper, chairman of the Health Care Committee of the American Bar Association's Antitrust Section; Dr. Geraldine Alpert, a senior consultant with National Economic Research Associates in New York City; and Arthur N. Lerner, assistant director for health care in the Federal Trade Commission's Bureau of Competition.

Halper will discuss the antitrust issues and problems most commonly faced by local hospitals, doctors and other health care providers. Dr. Alpert, an economist, will examine the pros and cons of government regulation of the health care field, and then Lerner will discuss the FTC's views regarding the preservation and promotion of competition in the health care industry.

Moderating the program, which will be open to all interested persons, will be State Bar Antitrust Law Section Chairman Jerry W. Boykin of Arlington; Section Secretary Thomas G. Slater, Jr. of Richmond; and Section Vice-Chairman Anne Marine Whittemore of Richmond.

Another timely program, sponsored by the VSB's Litigation Section, will examine "Legal Crisis - The Ever-Increasing Time and Expense of Litigation." To be conducted at 9:30 a.m. on June 17 (Coral A & B Rooms, Cavalier Oceanfront), the program will examine the reasons behind, and some possible solutions for, the spiraling costs and time associated with court cases.

The panel discussing this issue will consist of John F. Kay, Jr., a Richmond lawyer; Virginia Beach Circuit Court Judge Austin E. Owen; Roanoke lawyer William Rosenberger, Jr.; and Judge James C. Turk of the U.S.

District Court for the Western District of Virginia. University of Virginia Law School Professor Laurens Walker will moderate the program.

The Bomber Maps Strategy For Title Fight

"I'll try to hurt him downstairs," said Ric "The Bomber" Laihart. "He's got nothing in his head. It's empty."

That's part of the strategy Laihart will use as he tries on Tuesday, June 21 to improve his record to 9-4-0, and at the same time win the Southern States championship title from its current holder, Danny "Smiley" Sutton, from Spartansburg, S.C. The fight will take place at Rogue's.

Sutton has fought several world class champion boxers and is now ranked 18th in the world. "He's never been knocked off his feet," Laihart, a heavyweight, said. "So I'm not saying I'm going to knock him out. He's got a granite jaw. But I'm not intimidated by who he's fought. I expect a tough fight."

Laihart said he plans to take advantage of Sutton's weaknesses. "Him being a southpaw makes him susceptible to my right hand, which is my hardest punch," Laihart said. "I'm going to take it to him the whole

Teacher Benefits

It's not fair to discuss teachers' salaries without discussing the benefits afforded to the teachers by the city's school system. In most cases, if the monetary sum of the benefits was tacked on top of the educators' salary, it would total thousands of dollars.

Some of the benefits full-time Virginia Beach teachers receive are, professional insurance; professional leave; hospitalization; sick leave; participation in a sick leave bank, where, for example, if a teacher needs to have a medical operation he or she can "tap the bank" for the needed time; workman's compensation; death benefits, which is like an insurance policy good for about one-half of the teacher's salary; sabbatical leave, with school board permission; in-service training, as part of the teaching calendar; parental leave of absence of up to 18 months, after which the teacher can return to work at the same status as when the leave began; and the school system pays 5% of the teachers' salary to the Virginia Supplemental Retirement Fund.

Prior to 1978 teachers paid this themselves.

Nowadays you can hear on the street, "if you want a good job, work for the government; civil service; or for the city." The proposition carries its weight with the unmentioned benefits such employers provide for their employees.

Finding a man or woman on a company or corporate payroll who is entirely happy is as rare as a snowstorm in July. But oftentimes you'll hear someone complain about their jobs but confess the company has good benefits.

Sure. Teachers want more money. They want to be recognized for what each of them consider "a job well done." But heck, who doesn't want the exact same thing? There used to be a saying, "If you're good at something, you don't have to tell people. They already know it." If a teacher does an exceptionally good job, he or she will know, as will their professional peers and friends. But people are also only human, and a slap on the back can still feel pretty good.

Who's Hungry, She Asks

I had just finished some work when the phone chimed.

"Would you like to have a snack service?" a female voice inquired in a tone indicating it was obviously supposed to be a rhetorical question.

Off The Record

By Greg Goldfarb

It was about 3 p.m. on a weekday afternoon; the perfect time, from a vendor's vantage point, to ask an office worker or he or she were experiencing any borborygmus manifestations (stomach growlings).

"Beg your pardon," was my reply, acting dumb and figuring the solicitor would divulge a few more details without me appearing to be interested, which I wasn't, in her query.

"Would you like to have a snack service?" She believed that I was dumb because she asked the exact same question again.

She added, "do you have at least six or eight employees in your office?"

What? It's not bad enough that this stranger, thinking I might be hungry, wants to know if I want a snack service. Next she wants to know if there are at least a half dozen other in the office who also might be hungry.

Well, if I'm not going to tell her about my appetite, who am I to tell her if others are sitting around tightening their belts? Apparently this lady watches too many Snickers commercials where the actors say their stomachs are roaring like jets around 3 p.m.

"I don't think we're interested," I told the lady. In a disappointed tone of voice, she said goodbye.

Snacks might be good in the middle of the afternoon, but if this lady really wanted to get my attention, instead of asking if I wanted a snack service, she should have called and if I wanted a roast beef and melted cheese on toasted rye with a pickle and chips. Even if I had just eaten lunch, she might have gotten at least some conversation if she had gone right to the point, food, rather than ask me about a "snack service."

Do I want a snack? Sure! Give me an apple, nectarines, cheese, grapes and Perrier water. But don't offer me a "snack service." The problem was I didn't know what she meant by her terms and I wasn't hungry enough to ask. Maybe she meant, Zeus forbid, potato chips. See SNACK, Page 4

Drug Controversy

The Fed Promises To Crackdown On Look-A-Likes

(Note: This article has been submitted by the Office of the Attorney General, Gerald L. Baliles, Commonwealth of Virginia.)

RICHMOND—Federal Food and Drug Administration officials have told Virginia Attorney General Gerald L. Baliles that they will consider legislative and administrative efforts to ban the manufacture and over-the-counter sale of so-called combination drugs.

Baliles went to Washington recently to ask for federal assistance in curbing the growing problem with the caffeine-ephedrine combination drugs, which are being heavily marketed to young people in some parts of the state.

"This is a combination with no known therapeutic value," Baliles said. "The only thing it does is make money for the people pushing it in our schools and in video arcades."

Baliles told the FDA officials that a loophole in the current law allows the combination to be sold with little or no control. He asked that the combination be declared a "new drug" under federal regulations, effectively banning the manufacture and sale until makers can prove the safety and efficacy of the caffeine-ephedrine mixture.

Baliles was joined by Attorneys General James Maddox of Texas and John Steven Clark of Arkansas on his visit to the Food and Drug Administration. Also meeting the delegation of state officials were senior administrators from the Postal Service and the Drug Enforcement Administration.

The combination drugs began to be marketed in Virginia last year, when a business advertising the sale of legal stimulants opened in Tidewater and Central Virginia. Since then, several other facilities have opened in Tidewater and Central Virginia. The pills are marketed under such names as Pink Footballs, Black and Reds, and White Molles. They have been tied to several overdoses reported in Southeastern Virginia, and reportedly have been sold in schools and public places where young people gather, as substitutes for more powerful illegal drugs.

The drugs are also heavily advertised in drug culture magazines, with advertisements aimed at young people.

The operation of the retail facilities have come under heavy fire from parent groups in Virginia Beach, Hampton and Portsmouth. - By David Hatcock.

For Beach Children

Summer Reading Program

Library SUNlines

By Beach Librarian Carolyn Caywood

The Virginia Beach Public Library System will launch its annual Summer Reading Program on Monday, June 20. All children who can read independently are encouraged to spend the following eight weeks participating in this program. Participation will be a big help in maintaining and perhaps improving their reading skills at the same time that they stretch their imaginations through books. It will provide well over 2,000 children with the opportunity to discover for themselves the rewards of reading.

The structure of the program is simple. Beginning June 20, children can pick up a reading folder at any one of the area libraries or the Bookmobile. As books are read they should be recorded on the folder and the folder should be brought on trips to the library. Each three books entitles the child to a "Reese's Pieces" sticker to add to the trail across Virginia on the folder. Certificates will be awarded to all children who finish at least six books. Each week there will be special game or activity handouts and at each stage of the child's reading progress he or she will receive another incentive. Through this program the library hopes to get children started on a lifelong habit of reading.

This summer's theme is "Step Into The Unknown—Read Your Way Home." This statewide theme brings together the entire spectrum of literature, from the extraterrestrial to our own state of Virginia. Many of the activities will feature literature from or about Virginia. Others will encourage children to explore new kinds of books. Programs in the area libraries will reinforce this theme. Watch for announcements of them in this paper.

Last year over 13 thousand books were reportedly read by children who joined in the program. That's a lot of reading practice. Our concern this year is for the children who didn't participate. The Virginia State Library has asked each library to set a goal for this year's program. Our goal is to reach children who have, so far, missed this opportunity. We hope you will help by making children aware of what the library has to offer them this summer.

If you have children participating in the Summer Reading Program here are some suggestions for encouraging them.

• Be sure to show interest in what your child reads. Let him or her tell you the story or read you the "good parts."

• Since you know your child best, you may want to work out a special reward that will be really important to him or her. Later, reading will be its own reward, but incentives are important to get a child started.

• Visit the library with your child. You can help choose books that are at the right level so that they will be enjoyed. Pick out some for yourself, too, so that your child will know that reading isn't just for children.

• If your child is not enjoying a book, you can suggest trading it in on another one. There's nothing wrong with not finishing a book, though if it happens often, it may mean that your child needs more guidance in picking books.

• Remember the whole point of the Summer Reading Program is fun. Successful readers enjoy reading.

The tournament is also open to charter and private boats at an entrance fee of $25 and $15 respectively.

Upon completion of the tournament, there will be an awards ceremony at 6 p.m., July 23, at the Virginia Beach Sport-Fishing Center, Rudee Inlet.

The Virginia Beach/Norfolk Bluefish-Bluefin Tuna Tournament was started in 1964 by a group of individuals interested in promoting saltwater sport fishing in Virginia. Since that time, anglers have caught thousands of bluefish and bluefin tuna during the tournament.

Robb To Address Va. Lawyers

Virginia Governor Charles S. Robb and Virginia Supreme Court Chief Justice Harry L. Carrico will culminate proceedings at the 45th Annual Meeting of the Virginia State Bar with separate addresses at the Annual Luncheon on Saturday, June 18, at 1 p.m. at the Cavalier Hotel Beach Club in Virginia Beach.

The appearance by Robb, a lawyer, will be especially timely in light of several recent significant changes which have taken place in the state's legal system, including the creation of an Intermediate Court of Appeals by the General Assembly during its most recent session. The appearance by the Chief Justice will be equally timely in light of the Court's adoption on June 1 of a revised Code of Professional Responsibility, the rules which govern the conduct of lawyers in the state.

In addition to the scheduled remarks by Robb and Carrico, the VSB Annual Meeting will feature professional development workshops on topical issues in various fields of law on Friday, June 17, and a panel program on Saturday, June 18, entitled "Smile, Senator, You're on Candid Camera: Fair Play or Entrapment?" This program will focus on recent government "sting" operations aimed at recording wrongdoing by U.S. congressmen.

Another featured attraction at the meeting will be an address by Virginia attorney General Gerald L. Baliles during the Annual Membership Business Session on Saturday morning, June 18.

The State Bar Annual Meeting, June 16-19, will be conducted for the sixth straight year in Virginia Beach, at the Cavalier and Holiday Inn hotels. This year's attendance figure is expected to surpass that of last year, which featured a record turnout of more than 620 Virginia lawyers and judges who, with their spouses, families and guests, ballooned the total attendance figure to nearly 1,300 persons.

Carrico, 66, assumed the office of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Virginia in 1981, becoming the state's 23rd chief justice. Carrico succeeded Lawrence W. P'Anson, who retired after more than 23 years on the Court, the last six of which he served as chief justice.

A native of Fauquier County, Carrico attended public schools in Fairfax County and was graduated from George Washington University Law School in 1942. A year later he was appointed as a trial justice of Fairfax County at the age of 26. In addition, he served as a naval officer during World War II.

In 1951, Carrico resigned his judgeship to take up the private practice of law, and five years later he returned to the bench as associate judge of the 16th Judicial Circuit. His ascension to the highest judicial post in Virginia came almost precisely 20 years after he was appointed to the Supreme Court of Virginia by then-Governor J. Lindsay Almond, Jr. on Jan.

Carrico is Episcopalian and a member of numerous professional, civic and fraternal organizations.

Robb, 43, became the first Democratic governor elected in Virginia in 16 years when he won the 1981 governor's race over Republican J. Marshall Coleman. Robb served as lieutenant governor from 1978-81.

By bucking a Republican trend in the South with his victory in 1981 and by establishing himself as a political moderate, Robb, despite his personal disavowals of interest in such a position, has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Vice-Presidential slot on the 1984 Democratic national ticket.

Born in Phoenix, Arizona, Robb has strong roots in Virginia, having been graduated from Mount Vernon High School in Alexandria in 1957 and from the University of Virginia School of Law in 1973. He studied chemical engineering for one year at Cornell University before transferring to the University of Wisconsin at Madison, from which he received his undergraduate degree in 1961.

From 1961-70, he served in the United States Marine Corps, including a tour of duty in Vietnam from March 1968 until April 1969. He was released from active duty as a major, and currently serves as a lieutenant colonel in the Marine Corps Reserves.

Following his graduation from law school in 1973, Robb served one year as a law clerk for Judge John D. Butzner, Jr. of the Fourth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. He then joined the Washington, DC law firm of Williams, Connolly and California, with which he practiced until his election as lieutenant governor.

An associate member of the Virginia State Bar, Robb is married to the former Lynda Byrd Johnson, daughter of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson. The couple has three daughters.

The four-day Annual Meeting gets underway on Thursday, June 16, with an all-day Continuing Legal Education program on "Recent Developments in the Law" from 9:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. at the Cavalier Hotel Beach Club. The State Bar's governing Council will conduct its business meeting at 9 a.m. on Thursday, June 16, in the Cape Henry Room of the Holiday Inn Hotel, 39th Street and Atlantic Ave.

The panel program entitled, "Smile, Senator, You're on Candid Camera: Fair Play or Entrapment?" will examine the legal and ethical implications of FBI and other enforcement agency attempts to record congressional wrongdoing. The most famous example of this was the recent FBI filmed several U.S. senators and representatives illegally accepting money from FBI agents posing as Arab sheiks desiring various political favors.

Sponsored by the VSB Young Lawyers Conference, this panel program

Lainhart said he will "do whatever I have to do to win. I'm going to bring Virginia Beach a title."

There will be several other fights on the June 21 card, but Lainhart predicts his match against Sutton will be particularly good.

"He comes out and fights, he doesn't move around a lot," Lainhart said. "It'll be a hell of a fight."

The fight is scheduled for 12 rounds. Lainhart had never gone past six.

Also, the Virginia State Bar's Military Law Committee will sponsor a special program on "Family Law and the Military Family" on Friday, June 17 (2 p.m., Coral B Room, Cavalier Oceanfront).

The Virginia State Bar is the administrative arm of the Supreme Court of Virginia responsible for overseeing the practice of law in the state. Its 17,300 members include all lawyers and judges in Virginia.

More than 600 State Bar members will be in attendance at the Annual Meeting, to be conducted for the sixth straight year in Virginia Beach.

be careful in considering this issue.

"We don't want to just take a knee-jerk reaction and say that's necessarily the only think there is to talk about," he said. "There's other ways of doing this; real positive alternatives. This can be done without necessarily getting into merit pay. We say let's be sure everybody takes a really good look at it and understand what people are talking about."

peanuts, candy, hot dogs. Or maybe she was offering to go to the candy and drink machines in the Sun Building for me. That would be nice. I wouldn't pay her for it.

But seriously, ideas are ideas and as the gnome goes, nothing ventured nothing gained. There might be enough desk-bound late afternoon snackers in Virginia Beach to keep a sweet wagon rolling. Maybe not.

The whole idea reminds me of the old Dick Van Dyke shows, when Rob, Buddy and Sally used to send out to the deli for lunch.

If You're Going To Drink, Be Careful!

By Paul J. Lanteigne, V.B.P.D. Traffic Analyst
Virginia Beach residents may have noticed that it's beginning to take a little longer to drive from one place to another. They may have seen more cars broken-down by the side of the road. And, if you think that you've been seeing more traffic accidents lately, you're probably right.

With the summer comes an increase in road use by local residents as well as the tourist population. All too often we find out the hard way that two vehicles cannot occupy the same space at the same time.

Driving requires an individual's complete and undivided attention. The distractions of summer are bad enough, but when alcohol is consumed by body's reflexes are slowed considerably. The best advice is to avoid mixing drinking and driving. If you must drink and drive, be responsible, know the four defenses everyone has.

FOOD: Eat before and/or while drinking. The absorption rate for alcohol can be slowed by as much as one-third. High-Protein foods such as cheese and meats are best because they stay in the stomach longer.

RATE: The amount of alcohol consumed per hour determines the blood alcohol concentration, (BAC). Remember that a 12 oz. beer, 3 oz. glass wine, and 1 oz. shot of whiskey all have about the same alcohol content.

TIME: Once an individual's blood alcohol concentration has been established time is the only thing that can reduce it. The body eliminates alcohol at an average rate of about .015% per hour.

BELTS: Safety belts reduce the chance of serious injury or death by 60%. Your chances of surviving an accident are 25 times greater if you are secured in the vehicle by a safety belt.

With your cooperation, we can all have a safe and enjoyable Summer season.

City Plans Nighttime Parking Crackdown

The City of Virginia Beach is planning to eliminate nighttime parking at municipal parking areas at Rudee Inlet to halt activities which have become a nightmare for enforcement officers and neighboring establishments.

Councilman W. H. Kitchin III told Council Monday afternoon, at an informal session that the municipal lot in the 300 block of Atlantic Avenue and small city parking area on the east side of the Rudee Loop have become problems at night. He said the areas attract young people in cars who do "whatever they do — what comes naturally" to the disturbance of the surrounding areas.

Kitchin produced letters from Dr. Frederic R. Levin, vice president and house committee chairman of Dolphin Run Condominium, and Melvin A. Koch, president of the Tourist Bureau asking that the city lot be closed after dark.

Police Capt. W. W. Baker also stated that since the beginning of the summer of 1980 and 1982 former commanding officer Capt. E.F. Buzzy requested the lot be closed at night because of the continuing problems encountered by citizens and the police.

The larger lot accommodates about 25 cars and the smaller area 15 cars. The areas were established by the city about five years ago for approximately $30,000 as a service to the people. At night, however, Koch said, a "very large group of unruly young people in cars, vans and trucks gather at the Loop Parking Lot and also across the street at the paved property to the east. There is a great deal of gunning of motors, fast take-offs with screaming tires, blowing of horns and much raucous shouting and screaming." This type of behavior, he said, is not conducive to family-oriented tourism. Much of the time, he said, it is pure bedlam, although by day the area has developed into a "nice boat watching and fishing and crabbing spot."

Kitchin said that Captain Buzzy said he would not walk there with his wife at night.

Kitchin said the city has been adamantly opposed to shutting the lot, expecting instead to control the situation. However, he said, the city apparently has not been able to handle it. After talking with Baker and surveying the surrounding property owners, he said he believes the problem can be solved only by closing the lot at night. He said the city could erect a sign and a chain and keep the lot open only during the day when people can use it for valid reasons.

Kitchin suggested the lot be closed between 9 p.m. and 5 or 6 a.m. The Police Department will establish the times and an ordinance will be pre-

Lawyers To Discuss Health Care Problems

An examination of antitrust problems in the health care industry - including discussions of how competition affects the cost of health care services and of the federal government's role in promoting such competition - will be one of the 11 programs offered by Virginia State Bar sections, June 17, during the 45th Annual Meeting of the VSB, in Virginia Beach.

The State Bar currently has 13 sections, each of which consists of Virginia attorneys interested in a specific field of law. The VSB's Annual Meeting, June 16-19, will be conducted at the Cavalier and Holiday Inn hotels.

The State Bar Antitrust Law Section will sponsor the program on "The Bar and the Health Care Industry: The Reasons Why Lawyers Should Know about Antitrust Problems in the Health Care Field" (11:00 a.m., False Cape Room, Holiday Inn).

This panel program will feature Washington, D.C. lawyer H. Robert Halper, chairman of the Health Care Committee of the American Bar Association's Antitrust Section; Dr. Geraldine Alpert, a senior consultant with National Economic Research Associates in New York City; and Arthur N. Lerner, assistant director for health care in the Federal Trade Commission's Bureau of Competition.

Halper will discuss the antitrust issues and problems most commonly faced by local hospitals, doctors and other health care providers. Dr. Alpert, an economist, will examine the pros and cons of government regulation of the health care field, and then Lerner will discuss the FTC's views regarding the preservation and promotion of competition in the health care industry.

Moderating the program, which will be open to all interested persons, will be State Bar Antitrust Law Section Chairman Jerry W. Boykin of Arlington; Section Secretary Thomas G. Slater, Jr. of Richmond; and Section Vice-Chairman Anne Marie Whittemore of Richmond.

Another timely program, sponsored by the VSB's Litigation Section, will examine "Legal Crisis - The Ever-Increasing Time and Expense of Litigation." To be conducted at 9:30 a.m. on June 17 (Coral A&B Rooms, Cavalier Oceanfront), the program will examine the reasons behind, and some possible solutions for, the spiraling costs and time associated with court cases.

The panel discussing this issue will consist of John F. Kay, Jr., a Richmond lawyer; Virginia Beach Circuit Court Judge Austin E. Owen; Roanoke lawyer William Rosenberger, Jr.; and Judge James C. Turk of the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Virginia. University of Virginia Law School Professor Laurens Walker will moderate the program.

Other State Bar section programs on June 17 will be: Administrative/Business Law Practice - "The Road to Wealth Management for You and Your Clients!" (9:00 a.m., Coral C&D Rooms, Cavalier Oceanfront); Family Law Practice - "What is Equitable (so far?)" (covering Virginia's experience with the Equitable Distribution Act since it became effective in the state last July 1, this program will be conducted at 9:30 a.m., Cape Henry Room, Holiday Inn); Criminal Law Practice - "One + One = Five: When Am I Eligible for Parole?" (10:00 a.m., Coral E Room, Cavalier Oceanfront); Patient, Trademark and Copyright Law Practice - "Computer Technology vs. Intellectual Property Rights" (10:00 a.m., Amphitheater, Holiday Inn); Real Property Practice - "Views of Institutional Lenders of Long-Term Financing and Interest Rate Projections" (10:30 a.m., Skytop Room, Holiday Inn); Taxation/Trusts and Estates Practice - "Death Benefits and the Unlimited Marital Deduction: Pitfalls and Opportunities" (10:30 a.m., Croatian Room, Holiday Inn); Construction Law Practice - "The Mechanics of Reading Plans, Estimating and Scheduling Construction Projects" (2:00 p.m., Cape Henry Room, Holiday Inn); and International Law Practice - "The Responsibility of General Practitioners for Knowledge of Foreign Law" and "Municipal Governments and Interstate and International Commerce" (2:30 p.m., Croatian Room, Holiday Inn).

Also, the Virginia State Bar's Military Law Committee will sponsor a special program on "Family Law and the Military Family" on Friday, June 17 (2:00 p.m., Coral B Room, Cavalier Oceanfront).

The Virginia State Bar is the administrative arm of the Supreme Court of Virginia responsible for overseeing the practice of law in the state. Its 17,300 members include all lawyers and judges in Virginia.

More than 600 State Bar members will be in attendance at the Annual Meeting, to be conducted for the sixth straight year in Virginia Beach.

50-Year Lawyers To Be Honored

The year 1933 may have been a bad one for the economy, but it was a good one for lawyers, as evidenced by the 37 members of that year's law school graduating class who will be honored for their 50 years as members of the Virginia bar in a special ceremony during the Virginia State Bar's upcoming 45th Annual Meeting, June 16-19, in Virginia Beach.

These 37 individuals will each receive a 50-year Certificate of Appreciation at 11:45 a.m. on Saturday, June 18, in the Cavalier Oceanfront Hotel's Coral Reef Room.

To be eligible for the half-a-century honor, a lawyer must have been a member in good standing of the Virginia bar for 50 consecutive years.

Among those scheduled to receive the golden anniversary certificate are two judges: Edward P. Simpkins, Jr., of Mechanicsville, who is a retired judge of the 15th Circuit Court and who served as president of the Virginia State Bar in 1965; and Albert G. Peery of Tazewell, who is a retired judge of the 29th District Court.

Nighttime Parking

sented to Council for consideration.

Captain Baker said the lot is always crowded at night with cars, vans and four-wheel drive vehicles. The people tend to stand outside the vehicles and drink in public, litter, turn up the volume of their stereo systems, talk loudly and yell to vehicles passing on Atlantic Avenue. They consume considerable amounts of alcohol, he said, and throw the empties on the ground and into the street. Numerous arrests have occurred and many summonses have been issued, he said, for drinking in public, drunk in public, littering, excessive noise from vehicles, urinating in public and disorderly conduct.

He said every weekend since April 16 the police have assigned additional officers to patrol the parking lot and the area around the Loop. On one Monday, May 23, over 580 empty beer bottles had cans were posted. Police have been curtailing the activities because they have to actually see someone drinking to make a charge stick in court. He added that because of the 6.1 percent increase in calls over this period last year, officers are constantly being called from this area to answer other calls.

One resident has sued the city because it has failed to stop the disorderly activity on the lot. This action will probably be dropped with the nighttime closing, City Attorney Dale Bimson said.

Levin said the Dolphin Run Board is incensed about an attack on a night guard by a couple of people loitering in front of the building at 303 Atlantic Avenue. The guard had approached them for urinating on the Dolphin Run property and trespassing, he said. He pointed out that there isn't a restaurant, motel or condominium on the lot that needs the parking spaces after 9 p.m. He also suggested that the owners of lots used for parking of patrons during the day secure them at night and that the city restrict the city lot at night to fishermen only.

Presidential Proclamation

Honor America-21 Day Salute

Honor America During National Flag Week, 1983

*By the President of the United States of America
A Proclamation*

Two hundred eight years ago, the first distinctive American flags were flown over the colonial defenses during the Battle of Bunker Hill. One flag was an adaptation of the British Blue Ensign while the other had a new design. Both flags bore a pine tree, symbol of the struggle colonial Americans undertook to wrest their land from the British.

As the colonials moved toward a final separation from Britain, other flags with various symbols appeared to inform the world of the hopes, dreams, and challenges of the new Nation. Many of the early American flags carried such mottoes as "Liberty or Death" or "Don't Tread on Me" to reflect the courage and quest for freedom which motivated our forefathers and gave birth to our Nation.

Two years after the Battle of Bunker Hill, the Continental Congress chose a flag which, tellingly, expressed the unity and resolve of the patriots who had banded together to seek independence. The delegates voted "that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field representing a new constellation." Two centuries later, with the addition of thirty-seven stars, this flag still symbolizes our shared commitment to freedom and equality. It carries a message of hope to the downtrodden, opportunity to be oppressed, and peace to all mankind.

As challenges face our Nation today, the "Stars and Stripes" continues to remind each of us of the sacrifices and determination which built this Nation. It signals the great land of opportunity that our forefathers carved out of the wilderness and gave their lives to make free so many years ago.

Now it is our responsibility to remember the great price that has been paid to keep our flag flying free today and our privilege to ensure that it will keep flying free for future generations.

To commemorate the adoption of our flag, the Congress, by a joint resolution approved August 3, 1949 (63 Stat. 492), designated June 14 of each year as Flag Day and requested the President to issue an annual proclamation calling for its observance and the display of the flag of the United States on all Government buildings. The Congress also requested the President, by a joint resolution approved June 9, 1946 (60 Stat. 194), to issue annually a proclamation designating the week in which June 14 occurs as National Flag Week and calling upon all citizens of the United States to display the flag during that week.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate June 14, 1983, as Flag Day and the week beginning June 12, 1983, as National Flag Week, and I direct the appropriate officials of the Government to display the flag on all government buildings during that week. I also urge all Americans to observe Flag Day, June 14, and National Flag Week by flying the "Stars and Stripes" from their homes and other suitable places.

I also urge the American people to celebrate those days from Flag Day through Independence Day, set aside by Congress as a time to honor America (49 Stat. 211), by having public gatherings and activities at which they can honor their country in an appropriate manner.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this 10th day of May, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and seventh.

Ronald Reagan

The Program To Honor America Started In 1970

The American Historic and Cultural Society, Inc. was established in June 1970 under the laws of the District of Columbia as an educational and charitable organization.

The Honor America program of the Society was designed to increase the knowledge of the American public about its cultural heritage, constitutional form of government, and history, and to commemorate the anniversary of the independence of the United States of America.

This is accomplished by the dissemination to the public of educational materials on historic sites and state or federal government public facilities and by the conduct, sponsorship or dissemination of information about musical and cultural events available to the public featuring examples of American art, music and culture.

The events included in the programs suggest development of local historic ceremonies, parades, erection of monuments, band concerts, festivals of American folklife, viewing of historic documents in public buildings, contemporary musical entertainment and fireworks displays.

Help knit the ties of responsibility and fellowship that strengthen the foundations of America, particularly during the 21 days—FLAG DAY THROUGH INDEPENDENCE DAY.

—J. Willard Marriott
Chairman

21-Day Salute

The flag is a visible symbol of America's history. Some forty-two different flags have flown over a land which has grown from a loose collection of colonies to a country of states united in a common goal: the preservation of the freedom which is the cornerstone of American tradition.

The American Historic and Cultural Society chose twenty-one banners from the Great Flags of America (Franklin Mint 1974) to outline our nation's progress and history through the flags that have flown over it. The series may be used singly, one each day during the twenty-one day Salute to America, or grouped into weekly features. It may be run in local newspapers, read at meetings, used in school programs, or in any other way which is meaningful to your community in honoring America from June 14 to July 4.

We hope these vignettes demonstrate the influence that early international and regional flags had in forming a basic tenet of our American history, that we are truly a country founded in the spirit of the Latin motto, E Pluribus Unum...One out of Many.

—J. Willard Marriott
Chairman

SALUTE THE BANNER OF HOPE

The flag of the United States, waving proudly in a spring breeze, projects to an observer a sense of self-esteem. Without dramatic words or martial music, this banner conveys a message of stability and constancy.

For virtually all U.S. citizens living today the flag has always existed, and most of us believe it always will exist. For citizens of other countries, particularly those behind the iron curtain, the Stars and Stripes kindle hopes of liberty and independence.

Flag Day, June 14, marked the beginning of the Honor America program, a 21-day salute, reaching its climax on the Fourth of July. This event was officially authorized by a joint resolution of Congress and signed into law by President Ford in 1975.

The guiding force behind this legislation was the American Historic and Cultural Society, Inc., which strives to make each year's Honor America activities more significant than those of the past.

Back in the 19th century Henry Ward Beecher wrote, "A thoughtful mind; when it sees a nation's flag, sees not the flag only, but the nation itself...he reads chiefly in the flag the government, the principles, the truths, the history that belongs to the nation that sets it forth."

Centuries ago, flags or banners as we know them today did not exist. But the Egyptian armies introduced streamers or colored ribbons to mark the progress of their forces. From these, flags eventually evolved.

To capture an enemy's flag was a triumph. Men fought desperately—and gave their lives—to protect their standards from falling into hostile hands. To "rally round the flag" was a literal fact.

Are we rallying strongly around the flag today? In times of stress every American may well try to reassess his niche in our country's well-being or absence of well-being. One simple way to convey a sense of commitment is to display the Stars and Stripes prominently on Flag Day.

Let's consider further steps. Did you vote in the most recent national, state and local elections? In 1984 will come the primaries and the presidential election that will have major impact on the future of the U.S. government. Becoming well informed on the issues and the candidates will call for a bit of effort, but it is a long stride toward good citizenship.

In your neighborhood affairs are you providing a helpful voice or a note of guidance? Perhaps you could steer some confused youngster on a party toward responsible adulthood.

You could find a note of personal satisfaction in performing a small service or voicing a comforting word to cheer up an aged indigent person. Scores of opportunities exist through which a willing volunteer can create a turning point for the better in a troubled life.

A father's love is one of life's greatest joys. Though a son or daughter grows up all too quickly, there are wonderful memories of many good times spent together.

Our Heavenly Father showed how much he cares for each of us by sending his own beloved son to lay down his life for us that we might have eternal life.

Find the strength for your life in the power of that divine love. Worship this week.

The Significance Of This Symbol

In tribute to the judgment of the Founding Fathers, a variation of this eagle figure was adopted by the American Historic and Cultural Society as the insignia of its continuing program to Honor America.

The characteristic emblem, containing the nation's colors, is an eagle in red and white profiled against a bell-shaped blue background dotted with 13 white stars representing the original American colonies, and all encircled in a ring of 50 gold stars.

"One flag, one land, one heart, one hand, One Nation evermore."

—Oliver Wendell Holmes

HONOR AMERICA

The American's Creed
I believe in the United States of America as a government of people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.
I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies.

Said parcels contain 1.8 acres. LYNNHAVEN BOROUGH.

"This year's show is not only the largest in the event's 28-year history, but perhaps the best in quality art show as well," said Frederick Schmidt, director of the Virginia Beach Arts Center, organizers of the show. "We have selected the artists from the greatest number of applications received since the show's conception in 1956. This is a tribute to the national recognition the show has gained over the years."

Indeed, the outdoor art show is the largest of its type on the Eastern Seaboard of the United States. Last year the show drew a crowd in excess of 300,000 with art sales topping the $500,000 mark. Artists are attracted to the show by the strong sales potential and over $7,500 awarded in cash prizes. The top award, a Best-in-Show purchase price, is $2000 given to the artist who exhibits the most outstanding work in the show selected by a panel of three judges. The top award becomes part of the Virginia Beach Arts Center permanent collection.

Other awards include the Virginia Governor's Trophy — a $1,500 cash prize to be presented by Governor Charles Robb at the awards ceremony Saturday, June 25. Also, a $1000 Award of Excellence, a $500 Award of Distinction, five $200 Awards of Honor, five $100 Awards of Merit and 10 $25 Sand Dollar Awards will be given to selected artists. In addition several special awards will be given in specific art categories.

"All of our cash prizes have been sponsored by local businesses, organizations and individuals," said Joseph White, chairman of this year's show. "I attribute so much of the success of this show to this type of support and the many hours given over the past year by many dedicated volunteers."

Boardwalk Art Show Gearing Up

For the past 27 years, artists and artwork along the Virginia Beach Boardwalk have been as commonplace as tourists and bathing suits. This year the 28th Annual Boardwalk Art Show, June 23-27, will maintain the tradition with the largest show in the event's history.

A total of 612 artists have been selected from over 1,400 applications to exhibit their wares along the Boardwalk from 9th through 22nd Streets. The artists represent 32 states across the Union. Charles Minetti, a French painter, is the first European artist to participate in the show. He is among 244 artists from Virginia, 85 from Florida, 50 from North Carolina, 41 from New York and the balance from as distant as California.

"This year's show is not only the largest in the event's 28-year history, but perhaps the best in quality art show as well," said Frederick Schmidt, director of the Virginia Beach Arts Center, organizers of the show. "We have selected the artists from the greatest number of applications received since the show's conception in 1956. This is a tribute to the national recognition the show has gained over the years."

Indeed, the outdoor art show is the largest of its type on the Eastern Seaboard of the United States. Last year the show drew a crowd in excess of 300,000 with art sales topping the $500,000 mark. Artists are attracted to the show by the strong sales potential and over $7,500 awarded in cash prizes. The top award, a Best-in-Show purchase price, is $2000 given to the artist who exhibits the most outstanding work in the show selected by a panel of three judges. The top award becomes part of the Virginia Beach Arts Center permanent collection.

Other awards include the Virginia Governor's Trophy — a $1,500 cash prize to be presented by Governor Charles Robb at the awards ceremony Saturday, June 25. Also, a $1000 Award of Excellence, a $500 Award of Distinction, five $200 Awards of Honor, five $100 Awards of Merit and 10 $25 Sand Dollar Awards will be given to selected artists. In addition several special awards will be given in specific art categories.

"All of our cash prizes have been sponsored by local businesses, organizations and individuals," said Joseph White, chairman of this year's show. "I attribute so much of the success of this show to this type of support and the many hours given over the past year by many dedicated volunteers."

One of the highlights of this year's show are the return of six past Best-in-Show winners. Carlton Abbott, a Williamsburg architect and 1972 winner joins, David Itchikawich (1975), Steven Jordan (1982), Richard Bayberry (1977), Terence Roberts (1981) and Edward Roebuck (1970).

Lowell Nesbitt, the 1972 winner, returns this year as one of three judges. He is joined by Robert Cardinale, Professor and Director of the Program in Artisanry at Boston University and Patricia Myers, a Washington, D.C. art consultant. Nesbitt is an internationally recognized painter and printmaker working out of his New York City studio. His works are included in major public and private collections throughout the United States and Europe. Recently, the Thomas H. Bayly Museum in Charlottesville purchased 203 of Nesbitt's prints spanning his 30-year career for a study and touring exhibition collection. He is also a member of the NASA "Art Team" observing the Challenger II space shuttle this month.

The hours of the Boardwalk Art Show are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. The awards ceremony is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, June 25 on the Boardwalk at 13th Street. A 28-page souvenir program listing all artists and locations will be given away free. Souvenir visor caps and t-shirts will be sold as part of the fund raising effort in tents on 13th, 16th, 17th and 18th Streets.

Architect Hosts Chinese Guests

Henry V. Shriver of Shriver and Holland Associates, Architects, with offices in Virginia Beach and Norfolk, was the local host for a delegation of diplomats from Beijing, China who recently visited Virginia Beach and Norfolk. The delegation, from the Chinese Ministry of Urban and Rural Construction and Environmental Protection, was led by Mr. Xu Ronglie, China's Senior Engineer and Director of the Bureau of Science and Technology. The delegation's mission is to investigate the U.S. urban planning procedure, housing development and building techniques. Mr. Shriver was selected to host the Chinese visit to Tidewater because he visited China last August on a similar fact finding mission as a member of an eight person U.S. delegation led by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Samuel R. Pierce Jr., and because of his affiliation with the National Council of U.S. China Trade.

As part of their tour of Virginia Beach and Norfolk, the delegation visited several projects designed by Shriver and Holland Associates including the recently completed Westminister Canterbury retirement complex in Virginia Beach, and Virginia Wesleyan College.

Pontiac 1000

A Car With Something For Just About Every Driver

The New Pontiac 1000 has plenty of practicality and lots of excitement. And, perhaps best of all, the lowest price of any '83 Pontiac.

3-Door Hatchback
The nifty little number you're looking at here is the Pontiac 1000 3-door Hatchback.

It's fun. It's fresh. And for 1983, it's featuring a slick new appearance package you can order this year, to make Pontiac's 1000 3-door Hatchback even sportier.

Ease back in the standard reclining front buckets and you're ready to enjoy the view around you. The spoke steering wheel is standard, but there's an available Formula wheel if you wish. The floor-mounted 4-speed stick is there on your right, the handy multi-function lever is there on your left. And both are ready to do their thing.

When you're ready to do your thing, and head for the highway, this little beauty will show you a great time. Its rack and pinion steering and full coil suspension help to take care of just about any bend or bump. Very nicely.

Feeling pretty cool in your Pontiac 1000? Well maybe it's because you've got the available swing-out rear windows open (3-door only). Or the available custom air conditioning turned on. Then again, maybe it's because you're driving one neat little car. The exciting Pontiac 1000 3-door Hatchback. Go for it!

5-Door hatchback

Like the 3-door, our 5-door Hatchback is another great way to have a great time.

A 4-speed is standard, but there's an available automatic transmission to help make your trips even smoother.

Under the hood there's a 1.6 liter overhead cam 4-cylinder engine that's designed to be both responsive and fuel efficient. Under the hatch, there's 28.6 cubic feet of cargo space with the rear seat down, to help you carry a few things across town or across the country try. Carpeted, of course.

You also get reclining front bucket seats. Sporty steering wheel. And full cut-pile carpeting. All standard!

Parkway Adds New Dimension

Ruth Cowling Albert

Deborah Connor

In another move to provide excellent service and customer satisfaction, Parkway Pontiac's president, Tommy Gibbs recently added four qualified professional saleswomen to his outstanding sales force.

While women in automobile sales is nothing new, Tommy feels the addition to his staff will enable Parkway to add a new dimension to the sales staff and provide an opportunity to customers that might feel more comfortable talking to another woman.

As an example of their excellent qualifications, Gibbs cited the vast experience of his new sales manager Ruth Cowling Albert. Ruth has been in the automobile business for 14 years. She spent 4 years in a loan office at one of the major banks handling car loans; spent three years in car sales and in the F & I Department; General Sales Manager at a local import dealership for four years and three years in the training division recruiting and training sales personnel.

Ruth has a degree in Psychology, is a licensed pilot and an amateur photographer.

As you can see, Ruth is no stranger to the automobile business and a very qualified businesswoman.

The other new staff members include Barbara J. Mellinger, who comes to Parkway with 15 years of prior retail sales experience and who believes there's a great future for women in car sales. Barbara loves working with people and feels the automobile business will give her a challenge and a opportunity to help people with their automobile needs.

Rounding out the staff is Deborah Connor, a Virginia Beach resident and mother of two children. Deborah attended Old Dominion University and has a background in retail sales. They would all like to extend an invitation to come in and let them help you with your automobile needs.

Marketing Innovations

By ROGER PYLE

Marketing and advertising are fields that provide a large area of latitude for creativity and imaginativeness.

The hula hoop of some years back turned out to be a very successful venture. Its popularity was short but its success, profit wise, was great. Innovative marketing was the difference between a successful venture or just another gadget.

In the area of residential real estate a very innovative marketing tool has recently been brought to the local scene - the talking house! There is a subdivision in Virginia Beach where you will see a sign instructing you to tune your car radio to a certain AM frequency and receive a message from the model home. Inside the model there is a transmitter, approved by the FCC, that gives the consumer a very informative (3) minute message about the product. There are a lot of gadgets on the market but I believe this sort of well designed, well researched, useful product is the sort of innovative marketing that can be the key to success!

VSE Corp. Holds Annual Meeting Of Stockholders

The stockholders of VSE Corporation held their Twenty-fourth Annual Meeting on Saturday, May 14, 1983, at the corporate headquarters in Alexandria, Virginia. VSE also has an office in Chesapeake.

Directors reelected to serve for the ensuing year were A.G. Chase, Managing Partner, Trammell Chase Lambert & Martindale; F.H. Michaels, Consultant, USN (Ret.); D.M. Onos, Senior Partner, Arent, Fox, Klatner, Plotkin & Plotkin; R.E. Schully, President, Design and Production Incorporated, a wholly-owned subsidiary of VSE Corporation; J.B. Toomey, President; A.N. Jackman, Executive Vice President; M.A. Riebe, Executive Vice President; and H.P. Weinberg, Senior Vice President.

The stockholders approved an amendment to the Corporation's Certificate of Incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of Common Stock of the Corporation from two million to five million shares.

VSE Corporation is an engineering, development, testing, and management services and graphic communications company with offices in nine states. It reported 1982 sales of $50.6 million and earnings of $1.6 million ($1.11 a share). In May, 1983, VSE Corporation sold 502,000 shares of its Common Stock at $17.50 a share, pursuant to a public offering registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

This addition to a Tudor-styled home doesn't look like one. The Concept IV-designed sunspace blends perfectly with the existing house. Even the Andersen casement and awning windows with optional grilles are faithful to the Tudor tradition.

Well-Designed Sunspace Should Pay For Itself

Sun, and the warmth it produces, has long been one of man's favorite and most necessary friends.

Unlike "fun in the sun" vacations, however, a homeowner's link with solar doesn't have to be broken. A well-designed sunspace lets you enjoy the benefits of sunlight year round by providing supplementary heat in winter, comfort in summer and lots of natural daylight year round.

A well-designed sunspace shouldn't drain the rest of the house for its energy either, says Andersen Corp., of Bayport, Minn. If a homeowner follows the principles of good window management, a sunspace can be used to warm other areas of the house, making the sunspace - in effect - a source of energy gain that should pay for itself many times over. These principles have been incorporated by Andersen into a detailed program called, "Concept IV."

Plan Sunspace

Homeowners needn't worry that their home isn't suited for an energy-efficient sunspace. It works no matter what your home's style, location, climate or your family's lifestyle. Useful for almost any purpose, a sunspace can also function as a TV room, exercise center or home office. All it needs is sufficient double-pane insulating glass - somewhat like a greenhouse - to collect heat and enough mass to store the heat. Heat loss at night should be kept to a minimum. To assure a design that will permit peak efficiency, says Andersen, consider these guidelines:

- Design the sunspace so it will receive sufficient passive solar heat in winter, yet limit heat gain in summer. Keep in mind that the south-facing windows shouldn't be obstructed between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. because 95 percent of the rays of the low winter sun enter during these hours.

- Insulate Well
- Create a good "thermal envelope" that will hold the heat of the sun in. Your sunspace should have proper insulation in addition to the insulating qualities of Andersen windows and gliding patio doors.

- The thermal mass should be large enough to keep the sunspace from being dependent on the home's heating system, but it should also share its energy with the rest of the house. Brick, flagstone, ceramic tile and concrete are frequently used as mass in floors and interior walls.

If the job is done right, a sunspace can be a beautiful, practical, livable and energy-efficient investment no matter what the season.

Toyota Dealers

Checkered Flag Among Nation Top

Edward B. Snyder, of Checkered Flag Toyota in Virginia Beach, received a dual honor recently by being named a member of two of Toyota's top dealer bodies - the President's 1000 Club and the Truck Task Force.

Snyder is one of only 69 Toyota dealers nationwide honored with membership in both groups. The President's 1000 Club consists of Toyota dealers who have sold at least 1,000 new units during the year while the Truck Task Force is composed of dealers who have sold between 250-500 trucks during the year.

"The hard work, dedication and teamwork of these dealers sets an example for all Toyota dealers and has helped Toyota capture the Import Triple Crown for the fifth straight year while establishing a new truck sales record," said Isao Makino, president of Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc. during recognition ceremonies held at the company's national headquarters in Torrance, Calif.

Formed in 1975 as a means of recognizing Toyota's top dealers in the U.S., the president's 1000 Club has evolved into one of the company's most prestigious organizations. The 193 dealers who comprise the club represent less than 20 percent of Toyota's corps of nearly 1,100 U.S. dealerships, but they accounted for nearly 50 percent of all Toyotas sold in 1982.

In this its charter year, the Truck Task Force has 99 members.

"Penny Ante"

With the upward rush of the stock market in recent months, some very interesting trends have developed. One of those trends which is characteristic of a strong bull market is the relentless search for an inexpensive stock on its way to becoming an expensive stock. Once again the visions of instant success and instant wealth prevail.

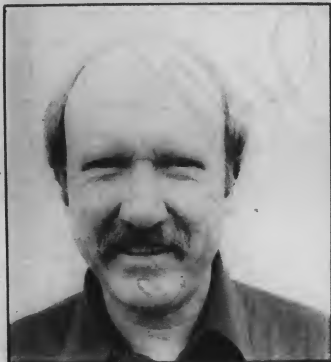

The nurturing of such thoughts seems to be a simple enough thing. The process goes something like this. Let's buy 1000 shares of a particular California Savings & Loan at seventy five cents per share. At the end of the week let's sell those same 1000 shares at around 17 1/4. It does not take a mathematics wizard to determine your original $750.00 is now worth approximately $17,000.00. The natural question -- "How can I get a piece of that action?"

The only surefire answer is once you see this happen, simply turn back the clock, enter the market at a nice low price and then allow the clock to run forward. If this is not in your bag of tricks, you are not alone. For those of us condemned to read about this type of thing the following day, there is one other hope. With a great deal of work you may be able to ferret out an unresearched, unknown potential success story of your own. The best odds I will give you is one in one thousand.

Nothing frustrates those of us that claim we are professionals like trying to research "penny stocks". It seems as though nothing can be found on these potential "Fortune 500" companies. This has led to a basic theory about penny stocks. Either no one knows they exist or they are really worth exactly the price for which they are selling. The first half of that theory lacks some credence when you see a stock, that sells for twenty five cents, trade an average of three hundred thousand shares per day. That breaks it right down to the second part of the theory. Penny stocks are generally worth what they sell for on the open market.

One point needs to be restated, due to the lack of information available on these stocks and the lack of predictability they should be considered highly speculative. That is not to say, there is no such thing as a good penny stock. They are just a rare item. Please remember, a penny does not buy as much today as it did twenty years ago. Did you ever wonder why they are referred to as "Penny Stocks"?

Virginia State Bar Norfolk Lawyer to Take Office

Lawyer Alex T. Mayo, Jr., 40, of Portsmouth, Virginia, will be installed as the new President of the 17,300 member Virginia State Bar on Saturday, June 18, during the 45th Annual Meeting of the State Bar, in Virginia Beach.

Mayo, currently President-elect of the State Bar, will receive his gavel as the incoming President for 1983-84, succeeding Walter H. Horsley of Richmond, during the Annual Luncheon (1:00 p.m.) at the Cavalier Oceanfront Hotel's Beach Club.

The annual election for a successor to Mayo as President-elect will be conducted at 11:45 a.m. on June 18, during the general membership Business Session in the Coral Reef Room of the Cavalier Oceanfront Hotel.

Under Virginia State Bar bylaws, the President-elect automatically ascends to the office of President at the close of the Annual Meeting following the one at which he or she is chosen as President-elect. Both offices carry a one-year term.

A native of Portsmouth, Mayo received his bachelor of arts degree in English from Princeton University in 1966 and his J.D. degree from the University of Richmond's T.C. Williams School of Law in 1970.

Mayo is a member of the Norfolk firm of Kaufman & Canoles.

Extremely active in the Virginia State Bar, Mayo has been a member of the governing Council since 1976, and of the Administration & Finance Committee since 1980, serving as chairman during the past year. He served on the State Bar's Executive Committee from 1980-82. He also served as secretary of the Second District (disciplinary) Committee in 1975-76, on the Evaluation and Long Range Planning Committee in 1976-77, on the Committee to Study Election Methods in 1978-79 and on the Committee on Scope and Correlation of Bar Activities from 1979-81.

Perhaps his most important post was as chairman from 1980-82 of the Legal Ethics Committee. During his tenure as chairman, Mayo oversaw the development of dozens of informal legal ethics opinions developed in response to queries from Virginia lawyers as well as several notable formal legal ethics opinions, including two adopted in 1981 permitting Virginia lawyers to accept credit cards in payment for their services and to impose finance charges on unpaid balances in certain situations.

Mayo is also affiliated with numerous other professional organizations, including membership in the American Bar Association, the Norfolk and Portsmouth Bar Association, the Portsmouth Bar Association, the Virginia Trial Lawyers Association, the American Society of Hospital Attorneys, the American College of Legal Medicine, the Virginia Society of Hospital Attorneys, The Virginia Bar Association and the Virginia Association of Defense Attorneys.

Mayo and his wife, Nancy, have two children, Taylor, 16, and Ellen, 12.

The Virginia State Bar is the administrative arm of the Supreme Court of Virginia responsible for overseeing the practice of law in the state, and to which all 17,300 lawyers and judges in Virginia must belong.

BBB Consumer Assistance Increases Insurance Companies Top Inquiry List

Courtesy of the Council of Better Business Bureau

More than 7.6 million consumers contacted the Better Business Bureau for assistance during 1982, an increase of ten percent over the previous year. According to an annual Statistical Summary released today by the Council of Better Business Bureaus, the nation's BBB's received six million consumer inquiries and 1.6 million complaints during the year.

More consumers inquired about Insurance Companies than any other type of business last year, an increase of 28 percent over 1981. Inquiries about General Mail Order Companies, ranked second on the list of most active business categories, were up 40 percent.

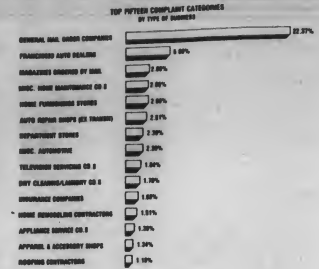

The largest increase occurred in the third-ranking Franchised Auto Dealers category which jumped a record 160 percent above 1981 year-end totals. Calls about the fourth-ranked Home Remodeling Contractors category were up over 30 percent.

Consumers also checked out numerous Work-at-Home Offers. Inquiries about this fifth-ranked category climbed more than 40 percent.

General Mail Order Companies continued to maintain the top-ranking position in terms of complaint volume with over 22 percent of all complaints processed by BBB's, a ten percent increase over 1981. Franchised Auto Dealers ranked a traditional second, but registered a 34 percent increase in volume.

While no other significant changes occurred among the top fifteen complaint categories, complaints about the 17th-ranked Health Studios category rose 66.2 percent.

The average settlement rate for all types of business in 1982 was 70.1 percent, but ranged from a high of 87.9 percent (Department Stores) to a low 49.7 percent (Paving Contractors).

Unsatisfactory service, of the type unrelated to repair, was the most prevalent complaint type, at 21.8 percent. These were complaints about the inadequacy of business performance in such matters as installation, craftsmanship, job completion, or failure to generally meet customer expectations.

Complaints involving delivery were second on the list with 20.6 percent of the total. Repair problems ranked third, accounting for 15 percent of the total, followed by complaints concerning credit and billing (12.2 percent). Complaints about product quality/performance ranked fifth with 10.4 percent.

The Council of Better Business Bureaus and the 154 local BBB's are supported by business in the interest of promoting voluntary self-regulation and better business-consumer relations. The non-profit Bureaus handle consumer inquiries, complaints, monitor advertising claims to assure truth and accuracy, and operate programs of consumer education throughout the United States.

Investors Savings & Loan Association sent their emissary of good will to all Chesapeake, Virginia Beach and Portsmouth locations last week to spread the good news, warm the heart and cheer the children of patrons. Goodies were served in the lobbies and passed out by Sandi Cahoon, the squirrelly-smile ambassador of good will. Pictured above at the Battlefield Blvd. location, El Squirrel also trekked on over to the Crawford Street and Frederic Blvd. branches in Portsmouth and the Va. Beach Blvd. and First Colonial Road branches in Virginia Beach.

Eileen Caddy To Speak At A.R.E.

Eileen Caddy, co-founder of the Findhorn community in Scotland, will speak on Tuesday evening, June 14, at 8 p.m., at the A.R.E. Library/Conference Center, 67th Street and Atlantic Avenue, Virginia Beach. Admission is $3.50 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens. The lecture on "Building Spiritual Community" is part of A.R.E.'s conference, Visions and Prophecies for a New Age, which runs from June 11-17.

Mrs. Caddy's Findhorn Foundation is well-known for its experimental live-in community along the coast of Scotland, where the application of metaphysical principles to gardening has reportedly brought exceptionally bountiful harvests, usually large fruits and vegetables, and freedom from pests without the use of pesticides. Findhorn's emphasis on cooperative living among members of the community will be part of the conference week's look at possible social structures for the future.

Comparing Edgar Cayce's prophecies for times ahead with those of other prophets, Visions and Prophecies for a New Age will explore ways that each individual can work constructively with times of change. In addition to Mrs. Caddy, featured speakers include: Harmon Bro, Ph.D., psychotherapist, minister, and author; Charles Thomas Cayce, Ph.D., President of A.R.E.; and Mark Thurston, Ph.D., Director of Enlightenment Services at A.R.E. and author of the book, Visions and Prophecies for a New Age, which is based on the Edgar Cayce readings.

For additional information on full and partial registrations for the week, as well as the complete evening lecture schedule, contact the Registrar at 428-3588.

A.R.E. Bible Conference Features Clergymen

Virginia Beach...Two clergymen will be the keynote speakers at the conference, "Journey of the Soul," to be held at the Association for Research and Enlightenment, 67th St. and Atlantic Ave., during the week of June 19-24. Theologian Richard Drummond,

Ph.D., professor of Ecumenical Missions and History of Religions at the University of Dubuque Theological Seminary, will be presenting a five-part series on the ministry of Jesus. Harmon Bro, Ph.D., who is a practicing psychotherapist as well as an ordained minister with the Disciples of Christ, will take an in-depth look at the Gospel of Mark.

Dr. Bro will also present the evening lecture at 8 p.m., Monday, June 19th, on "Spiritual Guidance in Dreams: Biblical and Modern." Admission for the single lecture is $3.50.

Other conference topics to be covered during the week on "Journey of the Soul" include the Essenes (a sect believed to be the originators of the Dead Sea Scrolls) and the theological implications or reincarnation for Christianity.

For information on registration for this conference or any of its evening lectures, contact the registrar at 428-3588.

Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Names Martin Agency

Richmond, Va. -- The Martin Agency Inc. was named advertising agency for Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company (RARCO) effective June 1, David N. Martin, agency chairman, announced today.

Assignment of the account to The Martin Agency followed presentations from six agencies.

Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company pioneered consumer recycling of aluminum in the 1960s. Today it operates the largest consumer recycling business in the world. Its parent company, Reynolds Metals Company, introduced the first all-aluminum cans.

"Reynolds Aluminum Recycling is exactly right for us, and we're absolutely delighted," Martin said in making the announcement. "As an innovator and leader, it is to recycling what our clients General Motors (Electro-Motive -- Chicago), Borden (Pet-Ag -- Chicago), Mobil Oil (U.S. Marketing -- Fairfax) and CILCO (intraocular lenses -- Huntington, W. Va.) are to their fields. We're proud to serve this major Richmond-based company."

Other Richmond-based firms served by Martin include Kings Dominion, Vepco, Bank of Virginia and Whittaker General Medical.

The account will be supervised by Dale P.

Brown, vice president.

The Martin Agency, whose billings are expected to reach $22 million in 1983, is a full-service marketing, advertising and public relations firm serving a wide variety of clients in the Eastern and Central parts of the country.

It is headquartered at 500 N. Allen Ave. in Richmond and has offices in Washington, D.C. and Norfolk/Virginia Beach.

Notes To My Friends

By JIM KINCAID

November 2, 1979.

I gained some moral assistance from an unusual quarter today.

Pearl Bailey...

It works this way. My wife grew up in that part of Luxembourg that identifies with France.

Therefore she cooks in the French fashion, which is good. But she also describes the dishes in French, which is bad.

I never know what's for dinner until I get there. I always enjoy it but I can't pronounce it. Until recently I thought "coq-au-vin" was some sort of chocolate dish. Imagine my surprise when it turned out to be chicken.

So, how does Pearl Bailey figure in all this?

Well, Pearl recently signed up for some courses at Georgetown University. Originally, she took French, but dropped that course and took theology instead.

Says God is easier to understand than French. I couldn't have said it better myself.

The Hint Man

By CHUCK FAULKNER

Furniture Odors, Preventing - Buy about two pounds of red cedar shavings (furniture manufacturers of mills have them). Put a pound each in two old nylon stockings and place them in two bottom drawers. If the furniture has no drawers, lay the cedar shavings in the bottom.

Furniture Polish, Making Your Own - Mix one cup of sweet oil (odorless olive oil) with one-half cup of turpentine. Apply with a soft cloth, then polish briskly.

Or mix together equal parts of linseed oil, white vinegar, and turpentine. Apply with soft cloth, rub briskly, then polish with a second soft cloth.

Furniture Scratches, Removing - First, if the scratch is not too deep, try and cream wax or furniture polish. If this doesn't work try linseed oil, a matching colored crayon, or a melted candle. Polish well.

Or try iodine, applied with a cotton swab, if it's dark furniture. Melted shoe polish in a matching color is another solution.

Or rub the scratch with the meat of a Brazil nut.

Furs, Cleaning - If the fur is white, rub equal parts of salt and flour into it. Wait twenty minutes, then shake the fur vigorously and finish it with a good combing and brushing.

Julie White, former director of the Institute of Management at Old Dominion University, has announced the formation of White and Associates, a management, consulting and training firm located in Norfolk.

As president of the firm, White counsels and trains professional women throughout the country on image and power-building.

The newly established firm has just signed a contract with Career Tract Seminars Inc. to conduct a national series of workshops on such topics as appearance, personal power, self-projection and image. A former director of ODU's Women's Center, White received a bachelor's degree from the University of Texas at El Paso and a master's from Michigan State University.

In 1977, she became the first woman to head ODU's Institute of Management, and was instrumental in establishing its advanced management training program for business professionals and associate's program.

White and Associates is located at 1878 E. Ocean View Ave., Suite E, in Norfolk. The telephone number is 588-5005.

An Unlikely Mother

This beautiful ole' "Dawg" answers to the name of Tawny, and is one of the best "mothers" you'd ever want to know. Having found these cute little critters, called rabbits somewhere in the woods, when they were yet unable to walk, and knowing the real "Mama" was not around anymore to care for them, she brought them one by one to the doorstep of her master, Mr. Ray Ricks of Chesapeake and has "watched over them with a mother's protective eye" ever since, according to Ricks.

Buying Your Own Phone

Be sure to shop around before buying telephone equipment. Phones now are being sold in many communities by department, discount and electronics stores, as well as by the phone company. Price and quality may vary depending on the outlet selling the telephone and the quality standards established by the equipment manufacturer.

Here are some shopping guidelines from the BBB on buying a telephone:

1. Compare purchase prices. How long is the "pay-back period" for each telephone? Can the telephone be purchased by a payment plan? If a payment plan is available, what is the associated interest rate? Does the quoted sales price include sales tax? What is the total sales price, including sales tax and interest?
2. Compare the warranty and repair arrangements. Does the seller or manufacturer offer repair service? If the manufacturer does, how does the telephone get by/from the manufacturer's repair center? If the seller does, is a loaner phone available during repairs?
3. Consider need. Will the telephone being considered satisfy the current need? Will it satisfy future needs, say two-to-five years from now?
4. Consider installation. Is the home/office equipped with plug-in outlets? Does the seller offer installation equipment and instructions?
5. Consider value. Is the telephone of durable construction and designed to last for several years? Is the outside of the telephone (the plastic shell) made from high impact material? Is the working part of the telephone constructed with state-of-the-art electronic components? Are the components easily replaceable? Is the price of the telephone such that replacement would be more logical than repair?
6. Consider convenience. Is the sales price for the telephones currently leased from the telephone company reasonable? Is it convenient and less costly to return the telephone company's phone and purchase another through some other outlet? Where is the telephone company's return center? Will telephone service be affected if the telephone is returned?

"Let-it-All Go" At Fantastic Fenwicks

Sometimes the name is misleading, but not at F-A-N-T-A-S-T-I-C Fenwicks in Virginia Beach at Witchduck Road and Independence Boulevard. The decor ranges from early-american barber to far-out crazy. With entertainment nightly and bands on the unlikely nights of Monday and Tuesday, there's always somewhere to let-it-all-go in Tidewater.

You will not believe the sandwiches. You'll need help to handle their "average" size! And, the menu includes every conceivable fare. There is very little you can't get here and we haven't found anything lacking.

The friendly folks at Fenwicks really do make you feel at home, from the minute you walk in the door 'til closing, (there's no reason to go anywhere else).

Owner, "Spanky" Macher knows what it takes to satisfy. The opening of his new gourmet delicatessen and wine bar at Waterside on June first caps his latest venture, and, if you've been there, you'll know why Fenwicks is FANTASTIC too!

Macados in Blacksburg and Roanoke, as well as "Fantastic Fenwicks" in Charlottesville and Harrisonburg.

His credentials include Graduate work at James Madison University, continuing education at the Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, N.J., and Rich's Bake Off School in Appleton, Wisconsin. He has attended Tennessee Wesleyan College where he majored in Business Administration and holds many credits and awards in the Restaurant business. Active in the Community, "Spanky" makes his home in Virginia Beach. A cook and manager of fine restaurants extraordinaire, Spanky has made F-A-N-T-A-S-T-I-C Fenwicks what it is today. A fun place to be, a great place to eat and a relaxing, cordial atmosphere everyone can enjoy.

Try the Waterside shop of course, but, you've got to be a regular at Fenwicks, and you will want to be after one visit.

Department Honors Special Officers

The Virginia Beach Police Department recently honored seven officers and two civilians at ceremonies held at the Public Safety Building, Virginia Beach Municipal Center.

Civilian commendation awards were presented to Jeffrey A. Kandare, FA, S8 Division, USS Independence, CV62, FPO N.Y., N.Y.; and Jerry W. Hardin, MM3, S8 Division, USS Independence, CV 62, FPO N.Y., N.Y.

The special commendation award is presented to any member of the police department, including auxiliary and civilians, for an act or achievement above that which is normally required or expected.

The civilian commendation award is presented to a civilian who performs some act involving personal danger above and beyond that which is normally required or expected of a citizen.

Award recipients and their heroics are as follows:

Special Commendation Award Officer Lindsey M. Campbell, Third Precinct

On Dec. 25, 1982, Officer Lindsey M. Campbell responded in answer to a call at 3020 Watergate Lane regarding a mentally disturbed subject. The man had threatened the life of his family, his own life and any police officer that came within his sight.

While some of the officers were exchanging fire with the deranged man, Officer Campbell left his cover and exposed himself to protect his fellow officers. After the subject was shot and disarmed, Officer Campbell started emergency first aid treatment to save the man's life.

Special Commendation Award Officer Michael T. Carey, Third Precinct

On Dec. 25, 1982, Officer Michael T. Carey and Officer Douglas M. Williams responded to a call at 3020 Watergate Lane regarding a mentally disturbed subject. The man had threatened the life of his family, his own life and any police officer that came within his sight.

Officer Michael Carey was responsible for alerting other units as to the danger involved at the scene, directing them to safety and provided the communication and support necessary to enable the subject to be taken.

Special Commendation Award Communications Officer Deborah Cartino

On Dec. 13, 1982, Communications Officer Cartino was involved in a series of telephone calls with a mentally disturbed subject who was threatening to himself and to police officers surrounding his house.

Communications Officer Cartino exhibited a tremendous amount of tact, diplomacy and professionalism in conversing with this subject during a potentially volatile situation. Her actions quite possibly prevented a serious confrontation.

Special Commendation Award Officer Dana W. Johnson, First Precinct

On the morning of Feb. 27, 1983, Officer Johnson was awakened by the smoke detector of his neighbor who lives in the downstairs apartment at 600 Freemac Drive. When Officer Johnson went to investigate the noise, he saw smoke in the kitchen of his neighbor's apartment. Officer Johnson awoke another occupant to call the Fire Department then entered the smoky apartment through the window. He found food, that had been left in the oven, burning. He cut the oven off and extinguished the burning food in the kitchen sink. Officer Johnson was attempting to awaken the occupant of the apartment, who was lying asleep in bed, when the Fire Department arrived.

Special Commendation Award Communications Officer Cathy Smith

On Dec. 25, 1982, a man at 3020 Watergate Lane became mentally deranged and violent. It was his intent to take the life or lives of police officers in order that they, in turn, would take his life.

The man talked with Communications Officer Cathy Smith telling her he had a shotgun and would not hesitate to use it on himself or police officers. Officer Smith calmly talked to the subject keeping him on the phone to give the officers time to evacuate any people in the area and get in a position to disarm the subject.

Special Commendation Award Officer Rick A. Smith, First Precinct

On Dec. 25, 1982, a white male of 3020 Watergate Lane became mentally deranged and violent. It was his intent to take the life or lives of police officers in order that they, in turn, would take his life.

Officer Rick A. Smith and Officer Richard L. Styles placed themselves in extreme danger putting the helicopter, Air Three, in a position to give needed information on the position and condition of the deranged man.

Special Commendation Award Officer Richard L. Styles, Spot Bureau

On December 25, 1982, a white male of 3020 Watergate Lane became mentally deranged and violent. It was his intent to take the life or lives of police officers in order that they, in turn, would take his life.

Officer R. L. Styles and Officer R. A. Smith placed themselves in extreme danger putting the helicopter, Air Three, in a position to give needed information on the position and condition of the deranged man.

A female employee pursued the suspect as he fled from the store with the merchandise in hand. The employee requested the assistance of Jerry Hardin and Jeffrey Kandare who immediately initiated a foot pursuit of the suspect, causing the suspect to drop the stolen merchandise.

The commercial will feature different people or groups in the state which have been active in an ongoing campaign against drugs in public schools.

4,600 To Attend Summer School

Just a few days after the current regular school session ended in Virginia Beach, about 4,600 students are expected to return to the classroom for some type of summer school program. Some of those students will be there because they want to be; some will be there because they have to be.

Two secondary centers

On the secondary school level, senior high students will attend the senior high center which serves the junior high attendance zone in which they live. All junior high summer school students will attend Plaza Junior High.

The Bayside High center will serve the attendance zones of Lynnhaven, Virginia Beach, and Bayside junior highs, as well as the Independence Junior High attendance zone, with the exception of those areas south of Virginia Beach Boulevard.

The Green Run High center will serve all of the attendance zones of Brandon, Kempsville, Princess Anne, and Plaza junior highs, as well as the Independence zone south of Virginia Beach Boulevard. The only exception to the above is for seniors who need only two credits to graduate and will be eligible to graduate in August; all such students will attend Green Run High.

Courses to be taught

Virtually all subjects will be taught in summer school depending on interest and need as determined by student registration. Some courses will be taught during both summer school sessions; some will be taught during one or the other session only. Information concerning courses to be taught is available at all secondary schools.

Tuition, fees

Tuition of Virginia Beach residents taking new courses in summer school is $65; the fee for repeat or audit courses for Virginia Beach residents is $35. For non-residents, the new course tuition is $110; for non-residents, the repeat course tuition is $55.

The textbook rental fee for new courses is $5; for repeat or audit courses, the rental fee is $2.50. The health and physical education fee is $3 for grades 8, 9, and 10, taught as a repeat subject; $5 for grades 11 and 12, taught as a new subject. All fees and tuition will be collected at the time of registration.

Registration

Registration will be held at the summer school centers the student will attend for all new courses and for the first sessions of repeat classes on Wednesday, June 15, and Thursday, June 16, from 9 a.m. to noon. Classes for the seven-week new course session will begin on Monday, June 20. Registration for the second four-week repeat session will be held at the summer school centers on Friday, July 15, and classes will begin that same day.

Morning classes are held from 7:30 a.m. to noon. Afternoon classes, for seniors only and only at Green Run High School, are held from 12:30 p.m. to 2:40 p.m. Students must provide their own transportation to and from school. A modified 30-day attendance rule will be enforced during summer school.

Summer school classes end on August 9, less than three weeks before the start of the regular 1983-84 school year; that begins on Monday, August 29.

Special programs

few special programs for secondary school students will also be offered during the summer. An intensive English course for non-native speakers will be taught for all secondary and elementary students at Pembroke Meadows Elementary School from June 28 through July 26; registration will be held at the school on June 16 and 17, and the $25 fee must be paid at the time of registration. Special education classes will also be taught on the secondary level.

Summer band classes will be held at Princess Anne and Green Run high schools and at Independence, Kempsville, Brandon, Lynnhaven, and Princess Anne Junior Highs. The fee is $20 for both secondary and elementary students. Both beginning and intermediate band instruction will be available; parents are responsible for rental or purchase of instruments except some large instruments. Students now completing the 5th grade are eligible to start instruction; both bands are open to students through the 12th grade. Beginning band classes are held from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m.; intermediate band classes are held from 10:15 a.m. to noon. Registration is being completed in the individual schools at present; the fee is payable on the first day of class.

Special summer language arts and mathematics skills courses for students currently enrolled in grade 7 will be held from June 20 to July 14. Registration will be held during the regular secondary school summer registration June 15 and 16 at Plaza Junior High, where the classes will be taught from 7:30 a.m. to noon daily. The classes are designed to help students reach satisfactory achievement levels at the junior high school. Students may enroll in either or both classes; the fee is $35 each.

Driver education

Both classroom driver education and behind-the-driver education classes will be taught during the summer. Only students who failed the classroom course or those who have recently moved to Virginia Beach and did not take the course as 10th graders are eligible for the classroom instruction.

Registration will be held on Tuesday, June 14, the first day of class, at 8 a.m. at the two high schools where the class will be taught—Princess Anne and Kempsville. The fee is $30 for the two-week course which ends on June 27.

Four sessions of behind-the-wheel driver education will be taught during the summer. The first, June 14-23, will be taught at First Colonial and Green Run high schools. The second session, June 27-July 8, will be taught at Princess Anne and Kempsville high schools. Session three, July 12-21, will be taught at Princess Anne and Green Run high schools; the final session, July 25-August 3, will be at both Princess Anne and Kempsville high schools. The two-hour classes are scheduled at 8 a.m., 10 a.m., and 12:30 p.m.

Prospective students must have completed the classroom phase of driver education and have a valid learner's driving permit. Registration will be at 8 a.m. on the first day of each session at the school where the course will be taken. The cost of the class is $60. Admission to the program will be based on grade level and age. Present seniors and juniors will be given priority, followed by sophomores, according to ages.

Elementary summer courses

On the elementary school level, classes in basic reading, writing/grammar, mathematics, primary reading, and special education will be held at Brookwood Elementary School. Registration will be held at the school on Thursday, June 16, and Friday, June 17, from 9 a.m. to noon; the fee for all courses is $25.

The primary reading course is designed for students now completing grades 1 and 2 who are performing below grade level. Classes will last for 90 minutes. The math and reading classes are designed for students now in grades 3-6 who are performing below grade level. Students may enroll in either or both classes, each of which will last for 90 minutes. The basic writing/grammar classes are designed for students currently in grades 5 and 6 who are performing below grade level. That class will also last for 90 minutes.

Special education courses in math and reading and in speech therapy will also be offered on the elementary school level.

Any questions concerning summer school should be referred to the individual public schools in Virginia Beach.

In Local Area

Library Services Abound

Some Local Libraries May Not Be Well Known To The Public; From Virginia Beach To Newport News

The availability of library service is an indicator of a community's quality of life. Residents of the extended Hampton Roads community are well aware of their public libraries.

In 1980-81, combined use of the Chesapeake, Hampton, Newport News, Norfolk, Portsmouth and Virginia Beach Public Libraries accounted for 16% of the total public library circulation in the Commonwealth. There are, however, a number of special libraries in the local area serving the more specialized information needs of the public. As some of these facilities may be less well known to area residents, a brief description of several are offered to whet your interest.

Virginia Institute of Marine Science Library in the Gloucester Point area of Newport News is open to the public from 8 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Its collection of over 30,000 volumes centers on marine research including toxicology, sport fishing, scientific expeditions, nautical charts, geological surveys, topographical charts, etc. Primarily intended to serve the VIMS scientific staff and students of The College of William and Mary's marine science school, the library requests that the public call in advance. Due to limited staff, the library cannot handle secondary school studies assignments, but will work with teachers in an advisory capacity.

Virginia Associated Research Campus library is located at 12070 Jefferson Avenue in Newport News 2306. As a research library of the College of William and Mary, the library houses 20,000 volumes and 377 periodical subscriptions. It welcomes students who can do their own research in such areas as aerospace, radiobiology, environmental studies including toxic wastes, nuclear physics, chemistry, biology, etc.

Langley Research Center Technical Library MS185 MS185 Building 1194 NASA Hampton 23665 was founded in 1920 and is now an accredited university library. Its collection includes 3.7 million documents including 60,000 book titles and 846 periodical subscriptions. Open to the public from 7:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, the library also provides a taped walking tour and orientation to the collection. Free on-line data base searches are provided within budget allotments.

The Jean Outland Chrysler Library of the Chrysler Museum is temporarily located in rooms on the fifth floor of the Norfolk City School Board Building. Begun in 1959, the library concentrates on materials in western European and American painting, Art Nouveau decorative arts, glass, textiles, etc. Special collections include 18th-20th century auction and exhibit catalogs. The 75,000 titles and 80 periodical subscriptions are available for use to qualified researchers and serious students of art by appointment.

Norfolk Botanical Garden includes a library located in the Administration Building. The horticulture collection includes 2,000 volumes and 33 periodical subscriptions. Open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m., materials can only be checked out by Society members.

The War Memorial Museum library, Huntington Park, 9285 Warwick Boulevard, Newport News, 23607 was founded in 1975. Its collection includes materials on military history from the American Revolution through Vietnam as well as regimental histories, and special collections dealing with Viet Cong weapons and uniforms, German language propaganda publications, World Wars I and II magazines, photographs, and scrapbooks. 13,000 volumes, 35 periodical subscriptions and 3000 photographs are among its holdings. The library is open to the public for research purposes from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Edgar Cayce Memorial Library located at the Association for Research and Enlightenment facilities on Atlantic Avenue at 67th Street in Virginia Beach is open to the public from 9 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 1 - 6 p.m. on Sundays. Hours are extended into the evening until 10 p.m. during the conference season. A local library membership may be purchased for $10. The 36,000 volume collection includes the complete Edgar Cayce readings, sources on holistic health, philosophy, parapsychology and the Egerton Sykes Collection on Atlantis.

MacArthur Memorial Museum, 1 MacArthur Square in downtown Norfolk includes an archival library of 2,000,000 pieces including the 4,000 volumes and memorabilia remaining of the General's collection most of which was lost in Manila. Founded in 1964, the library is open to the public from 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The facility will take telephone or written reference requests at a charge of $10 per hour after the first hour of research. The collection does not circulate. Special collections include military logistics, Philippine guerrillas, military intelligence and personal correspondence.

In Newport News, the Mariner's Museum Library is open to the general public Monday through Saturday 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. The non-circulating collection of 60,000 volumes and 150,000 photos, maps, charts, etc., 200 periodical subscriptions emphasizes maritime and naval history particularly from 1840 on with the beginning of steam. It includes Lloyd's register of ships and provides a wreck listing on a weekly basis for use by scuba divers and others.

The Tidewater area has a wealth of information available to the researcher and often to the casual reader. Please contact your local public library or contact one of these facilities directly for further information and assistance.—By Carolyn Powell

Beach General

Hospital Expansion

W. Wright Harrison, Chairman of Virginia Beach General Hospital, has announced that a 26-month, $17,000,000 construction program will begin within a month. The total bond issue was for $21,695,000, of which $12,977,000 is for construction. The public bond issue is the largest ever signed in Southeastern Virginia.

The First Mortgage Revenue Bonds issued by the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority. Authority were rated A1 by Moody's and A+ by Standard and Poor. This is the highest rating available for a project of this magnitude.

"Not only are we very pleased with the excellent ratings," said Harrison, "but we're pleased to sign these bonds in Tidewater. Issues of this size are usually closed in New York."

The development will consist of almost 93,000 square feet of new construction and 51,500 square feet of major and minor renovation plus 125 new parking spaces. "With all the construction," Virginia Beach General will have no increase in licensed beds," added Harrison. "The allocation of beds between specialties will, however, be altered. Most importantly, we will increase from 43 to 95 the number of private rooms available."

The construction will include a new surgical suite, emergency department, outpatient diagnostic center, materials management department, support departments, labor and delivery suite and nursery, respiratory therapy department, and two additional elevators.

Turner Construction Company is the general contractor, who for the past five years has averaged nearly $300 million per year in health care work. Odell Associates in Richmond is the architect.

Counsel for the bond and Hospital is Wilcox, Savage, Dickson, Hollis, and Eley, P.C., of Norfolk, Virginia. The principal underwriters for the issue are Investment Corporation of Virginia; Wheat, First Securities, Inc.; and Craigie Incorporated.

Virginia Beach General Hospital employs almost 1,200 full- and part-time workers. It has been licensed for nearly two decades as an acute care, not-for-profit community hospital.

Virginia Beach chapters of the D.A.R. Those students receiving award by grade level and category were:

First Place
Demetrius Sutton, grade 1, poster, Princess Anne Elem; Hae Jin Hong, grade 6, poster, Alantone Elem.; Suzy Feikema, grade 5, essay, and Cheryl Adams, grade 5, poetry, both from Trantwood Elem.

The Dome

Temporary Closure

City Manager Thomas H. Muehlenbeck recently announced the temporary closure of the Virginia Beach Civic Center (Dome). This action is being taken due to the potential health hazard created by the asbestos content of the roofing material.

In a letter dated to Muehlenbeck, Virginia Beach Health Director, George C. Sjolund, M.D., indicated that, "the asbestos content is 45% and as the roof deteriorates asbestos fibers can be expected to be released into the air." Dr. Sjolund recommended that "appropriate measures be undertaken to assure elimination of asbestos from the Virginia Beach Dome."

It is anticipated the facility will be closed for a period of 90 days in order for the necessary work to be completed to correct the problem.

Every effort will be made to relocate events and activities scheduled during this 90 day period to the Pavilion. Organizations and individuals with activities scheduled for the Dome should contact Bill Holland at Pavilion at 428-8000 for assistance.

Annual Boardwalk Art Show

Europe Comes To Art Show

For the past 27 years, artists and artwork along the Virginia Beach Boardwalk have been as commonplace as tourists and bathing suits. This year the 28th Annual Boardwalk Art Show, June 23-27, will maintain the tradition with the largest show in the event's history.

A total of 612 artists have been selected from over 1400 applications to exhibit their wares along the Boardwalk from 9th through 22nd Streets. The artists represent 32 states across the Union. Charles Minetti, a French painter, is the first European artist to participate in the show. He is among 244 artists from Virginia, 85 from Florida, 50 from North Carolina, 41 from New York and the balance from as distant as California.

"This year's show is not only the largest in the event's 28-year history, but perhaps the best in quality artwork as well," said Frederick Schmid, director of the Virginia Beach Arts Center, organizers of the show. "We have selected the artists from the greatest number of applications received since the show's conception in 1956. This is a tribute to the national recognition the show has gained over the years."

Indeed, the outdoor art show is the largest of its type on the Eastern Seaboard of the United States. Last year the show drew a crowd in excess of 300,000 with art sales topping the $500,000 mark. Artists are attracted to the show by the strong sales potential and over $7,500 awarded in cash prizes.

The top award, a Best-in-Show purchase prize, is $2000 given to the artists who exhibits the most outstanding work in the show selected by a panel of three judges. The top award becomes part of the Virginia Beach Arts Center permanent collection. Other awards include the Virginia Governor's ## Shipwrecked!

Northeasters And Menacing Shipwreckers Have Caused More Than 185 Shipwrecks Since 1875 Off Virginia Beach's Coast; People And Cargo Lost At Sea

By Greg Goldfarb
Sun Editor

On Monday, Nov. 12, 1928, the oceanliner Vestris, bound from New York to Barbados, shipwrecked in a storm about 40 miles off the Virginia Beach coast.

Carrying a full cargo and 338 passengers and crew, the ship, which was later found to be unseaworthy, encountered 80 mile an hour winds and seas rose to 100 feet, according to The New York Times, which devoted a full page to the thalassic tragedy.

At precisely 1:25 p.m. on that fearful and fateful day, the order came down to abandon ship. The first boats ferrying women and children were poorly launched or were battered into splinters by the raging seas, The Times reported. A squadron of rescue ships, including four Coast Guard cutters, rushed to the scene but managed to save only 213 people; 125 lives were lost.

An investigation indicated that the Vestris had sailed in an unseaworthy condition and the ocean had breached her side, shifting some of her cargo, causing her to go to the bottom.

The stark terror in the eyes of the man in the foreground indicates the urgency of the danger during the sinking of the Vestris in 1928, off Virginia Beach's coast.

Imagine a cold barren coastline. The sky is gray, the wind is up and the seas are choppy. Offshore, a disabled ship bobs helplessly on the angry waves. Lives are probably at stake and radios are scarce. It's a life and death situation but rescue capabilities are limited.

What happens?

Life perishes until lifesaving services are advanced by local watermen living in littoral communities.

"I think what was interesting was the establishment of the lifesaving service from a humanitarian point of view of saving lives and helping distressed seamen," said retired naval rear admiral Richard E. Rumble, director, The Virginia Beach Maritime Historical Museum.

When the Vestris sank the Coast Guard was assisted by what was described as a "squadron of rescue ships." Many if not most of these vessels were owned and operated by local seamen. It was from these civic efforts that professional lifesaving services grew.

"It kind of grew out of local watermen being trained," said Rumble. "They didn't know who the person was they were saving. They had no idea. But they risked their life to provide this service."

Rumble's earliest records of shipwrecks off Virginia Beach's coast date back to Jan. 8, 1875 when the trader ship San Marcos ran aground about four miles south of False Cape. The $350,000 sailing ship, loaded with raw materials including cotton, asphalt, and coal, was on its way from its home base in Liverpool, England, to Galveston, Tx. It succumbed to a storm and washed ashore.

Most disabled ships at sea are usually the victim of inclement weather, as was a factor in the recent sinking of the Marine Electric.

"The major reason they ran around in the early days was they were caught in a gale or a northeaster," Rumble said. "They were in a snowstorm or a blizzard. In other words, all kinds of things were impediments to visual observation," which was all most of the ships many years ago used to navigate.

In addition to ships wrecking because of environmental conditions, many were intentionally lured ashore and caused to wreck by vandals and robbers.

"Ever since man went to sea he's had a problem with shipwrecks," Rumble said. "I think in some of the earliest times, they were purposefully lured onto the shores so the ships could be pillaged; and the people didn't pay a lot of attention to the survivors. They just went after the cargo."

The shipwreckers were compared to highway robbers. One way to deceptively entice a ship to the shore was by creating false navigational markers, beacons and lights.

"For instance, as the story goes, they used to tie a lantern around a horse's neck and let him walk along the beach," Rumble related. "That would give an indication of another ship. The ship that was being lured ashore would think they're in safe waters and actually they ran aground onto the beach. And that's where they got the name Nag's Head."

Since the shipwreck of the San Marcos in 1975, there have been more than 185 documented shipwrecks between Cape Henry and Wash Woods, according to Rumble. Wash Woods is just south of the Virginia Line.

According to the Annual Report of the Operations of the United States Coast Guard Service, year ending June 30, 1894, between Cape Henry and the Cape Fear River in North Carolina a total of 27 sea disasters occurred, resulting in a total of 13 vessels being completely destroyed. Fortunately no lives were lost in the oceanic mishaps, although $372,940 in property was.

In most of the early shipwrecks, the ships which washed ashore were pummeled by wave action which heaved the vessel up and down on the sea bottom. It was a combination of these eroding elements which would ultimately cause the final demise of the crippled watercraft.

"In a hard gale where you have a lot of sea, when the ship grounds it begins to pound," Rumble explained. "It keeps raising up and bounces on the bottom. This use to break the mast, cause the rigging to fail and that's the beginning of the end."

People still wonder how many broken ships are on the ocean's bottom a few hundred yards out, resting on the lee shore. Recently a piece of the stern of a ship washed up at the north end of the beach near 87th Street and Fort Story. Rumble concluded the

Booty On The Bottom

Undoubtedly, there are remains of many ships caressed or buried in the sand on the ocean's bottom. Certainly, when ships went down so did much of their cargo, supplies and treasures.

Experts say that most of the ships traveling near the Virginia coast were laden with raw materials and not with riches. However, didn't most ships have safes? And isn't treasure kept in most vaults? Therefore, there must be booty on the bottom of the ocean. Or, maybe it is possible that these ships were not carrying cash, gems or gold and silver. Maybe all that was on them was salt, nails and asphalt. How disillusioning that would be.

If people believe hard enough that there is treasure off the coast, it will be there, sparkling like the coral which whistles through the Florida Keys. But if pessimism reigns, hope is a dark cave in the deepest hole in the ocean.

Defense Or Economy?

When the Tour of America bicycle race took place a little while ago, a man asked a police officer stationed on Atlantic Avenue during the event if he had heard of the controversy over the air cushion landing craft in Virginia Beach. Specifically, the officer was asked if he minded, or would mind the colossal amphibious machines roaring up and down the Virginia Beach shoreline.

"Why not," he answered. "I don't go to the beach too often. But I might come down here just to see the things."

Whether local residents look favorably or not on the craft, which the Army already has in Virginia Beach and the Navy wants to station here, one thing is for certain. There is a mystique surrounding the hovercraft.

Virginia Beach has gotten along pretty well with the military, as evidenced by the various military bases and installations in the city. Of course, the Naval Air Station, Oceana was already here before the city's growth really began burgeoning. Consequently, the sonorous master jet training base has learned to exist harmoniously with the city. Other bases, Dam Neck, Fort Story, Little Creek, have quietly evolved without much commotion. But now everybody is talking about the Army's SACV-30's and the Navy's LCAC's.

Basically, city council is concerned over the possible expansion of the Army's activities in relation to their vehicles based at Fort Story, and also the possible stationing, and operation of Navy craft in Virginia Beach. The public's trepidations are also over the craft's impact on the environment and on tourism. Another facet of this operose issue involves the fact that the craft have been noted for mechanical falterings and incompatibility with salt water and sea air.

The military probably figures that the shortcomings of the craft are the primary reason why they need more of them in circulation; to continue to flush out the water bugs. But while they are learning how to maintain their vehicles, local citizens and city officials are left to wrangle over where the vehicles should roam.

Even though the controversial craft have their misgivings and are capable of quickly stirring public reaction (the time one beached at Lynnhaven), the vehicles are miraculous and should be given a chance to prove themselves. Ultimately, these vehicles are like paint on the United States' canvas of national security. Virginia Beach is facing a tough problem; that being, having to decide which is more important: the local economy and environment or national defense.

Letter To The Editor

Without Firemen And Policemen Where Would We Be?

Editor,

I would like to express my views on our firemen.

I have heard so many knock the salaries of our firemen, for and against it.

I think our firemen earn every cotton-pickin' dollar they get on their jobs.

I personally do not have any kin in the firemen's profession as of now and I don't even know their salaries. I do have friends that are firemen. I think all firemen are our friends.

The people whom I have heard speak against a raise for firemen have never put themselves in a firemen's position. They don't stop to think that each time a fireman goes on call it could mean an accident to him or could be worse.

So who are we to say what salary the firemen get?

A man is still like a small boy in that he likes to be praised for what he does. They love it. I would like to add that this goes for our policemen too. Without firemen and policemen, where would we be?

Sincerely,
Lucille Darnell

A Good Place To Begin A Walk On Beach Is At Library

A walk on the beach. The phrase is so evocative. Moonlit strolls, scavenger hunts after a storm and brisk winter walks are just a few of the images that immediately come to mind. What is so exciting is that these images can become reality on the miles of coastline in Virginia Beach. Perhaps in no other major east coast city do residents and tourists alike have the opportunity to discover the water's edge as they do here.

Although it may not be obvious, the best place to start a walk on the beach is at any one of the Virginia Beach Public Libraries. Through the years the library has developed a book collection designed to make beachcombing a more rewarding experience.

The armchair explorer should begin by checking out a book which discusses the coast in general terms. Rachel Carson's 1955 classic "The Edge Of The Sea" not only describes the rich variety of shore life, but also explains tides and currents and their effects on the beach. A more recent title is "The Wild Edge" by Philip Kopper. Kopper also covers the flora, fauna and tide ranges of the Atlantic beaches from the Bay of Fundy to the Carolinas. Although both the Carson and Kopper books are excellent overviews, they do have one disadvantage, neither are illustrated. One of the Time-Life Wilderness series titles, "Atlantic Beaches," fills this gap admirably. While it covers much the same material as the two above mentioned books, its outstanding feature is the pages of beautiful coastal photography.

The library's collection also includes many useful flora and fauna identification books that are perfect for carrying along on a beach walk. Perhaps the most complete is "A Field Guide To The Atlantic Seashore." A title in the Peterson Field Guide series, this book provides visual and descriptive information for over 907 species of invertebrate animals and 140 species of plant life. Another guide, "The Handbook For Beach Strollers From Maine To Cape Hatteras," furnishes more in-depth information on fewer species.

Probably the most popular activity on any beach walk is seashell collecting. The Virginia Beach libraries are especially strong in shell identification books. "The Audubon Society Field Guide To North American Seashells" and a "Guide To Shells" are just two of the many illustrated shell fields guides available to be checked out at the library.

The dedicated beach stroller need not stop here. The

NEA President On Teacher Salaries

(Note: The following article, "Teacher's Salaries: A Decent Pay for All Teachers," has been prepared by Willard H. McGuire, president, National Education Association.)

President Reagan, the National Commission on Excellence in Education as well as other recent education reports, agree on the most crucial problem facing education: the nation must attract and hold quality teachers if it is to get quality performance from students and meet the challenge of international competition. The fate of the nation may well hang in the balance.

The President, in a recent letter to me, appealed to NEA to "join together and improve teaching and learning in America" by making teaching more attractive. Teachers applaud this initiative and welcome the opportunity to sit down and talk with the nation's chief executive about how to accomplish that goal.

I need to point out, however, that the highly controversial salary proposals being touted by the President reward only a small segment of America's teachers, while the great majority of highly skilled and competent teachers will work for disgracefully low salaries. These are described as merit pay or master teacher-proposals, and are frequently misunderstood.

NEA does not object to the concept of paying some teachers more than others. Teachers do object, however, to historically inappropriate and subjective decisions about who is considered a "superior" teacher. Experience indicates that personal relationships or subservient behavior is too often equated with "merit."

What would NEA propose?

First, in order to elevate the status of the teaching profession, we should provide teachers with the respect they justly deserve. Among other things, the salaries of all teachers should be raised. We need decent pay for all teachers before we consider other salary schemes. A starting salary of $12,000 is

Bachelor Fishing Party

Weddings, showers, bachelor parties. 'Tis the season.

Last fall a friend decided to tie the knot. He had known the girl for years and decided he couldn't live without her. I hadn't asked her about it but apparently she decided she couldn't live without him. They just got married and are preparing to move into a brand new two-story house.

Jack, being a good friend for years, came to visit me almost every weekend for months before the wedding. Actually, he knew no more about the process of producing a wedding than I did. But he is in love and fortunately the bride and groom both come from big families and received much guidance and advice along the way. Being a surviving bachelor, it was my job to help determine what kind of bachelor party he wanted.

Contrary to popular belief, not all bachelor parties are bacchanals with loose women at them. In fact, objectively speaking, having a dancer or a "very friendly girl" at a man's last party before he gets married is definitely a terrible way to begin a new marriage. To this, Jack and I sincerely agreed. Consequently, he arranged his own bach party.

Jack's first consideration was providing a party where all his friends and relations from out of town, as well as his local friends and family, could enjoy themselves and not just drink themselves into oblivion. What did he do? He chartered a fishing boat for four hours on the day before his wedding. It was good clean honest fun. Hardly anything stronger than beer was consumed.

The boat Jack chartered was big enough to hold about 100 people or more. Fifteen people, including his father and other family members and friends, attended the bachelor fishing party. Squid was used for bait and the skipper took us a few miles off shore to drop our lines. By the time the boat had stopped for the first time, at least two people had gotten seasick. By the end of the trip, about four people got sick. This is particularly interesting because we only caught a total of about three fish. Of the first caught, two of them were black sea bass and the other one was a ling cod.

The trip rolled along very smoothly. On the way back to the marina, the tipsy anglers broke out their cameras for fishing pictures to take back home. The smiles were wide and chests were bare. Laughter was roaring but few fish were there. So, faced with the prospect of having a fishing party and pictures with very few fish, the few fish we had were passed around from person to person.

Lainhart vs. Sutton

Title Holder Pulls Out Of Fight At Last Minute

Virginia Beach Boxing promoter says he will try to sue Danny Sutton and management for canceling a title fight against Ric Lainhart.

Lainhart was scheduled to box Sutton, the Southern States champion, on Tuesday, June 21. On Sunday, June 19 at 9:30 p.m. Bennett said he was notified over the phone that Sutton had backed out, without giving a reason.

Bennett said he attempted to get in touch with all resvied ticket holders and inform them that a night of fights would transpire, but without the main event title fight. Instead, Lainhart was scheduled to fight an opponent from North Carolina in a non-title fight.

Bennett said he called his attorney to begin the process of suing Sutton. A contract was signed by Sutton, Bennett said.

son to person so that each fisherman could go home with a picture of himself holding a catch. The two bass were relatively small. The cod, however, was about 12 to 15 inches long and proved to be very photogenic. By the time we reached the dock, that poor cod had been handled so much it practically had the row squeezed out of him.

Later that night the cod was cooked, as were most of the fishermen. The next day the wedding and reception went off without a hitch, and now a young attractive Virginia Beach couple are preparing to curise together forever on the big sea of life. Happy sails!

Philippine Orchestra Performs

The Philippine-American Orchestra is scheduled to perform for the Philippine Medical Association on Sunday, June 26 at 3 and 7 p.m. The conductor will be Al Acord, retired master chief, United States Navy.

The performance is being supported by the Philippine Medical Association headed by Dr. Teofilo Mascarin. Dr. Perla Solinas, an active member, said that the proceeds to be realized in this concert will support the continuing projects of the Association, like the Free Mobile Clinic, the Medical Mission "Operation Hairlips" conducted in the Southern Philippines, and the free medical services being rendered at the Public Health Office in Norfolk.

Dr. Juan M. Montero II, first President of the PMA founded in 1977, stated that the Association was organized to promote closer relations among its members, to undertake continuing medical education and getting involved in community service. The purchased of a 28 foot mobile van in 1979 is still being used around the city for checking blood pressure and sugar screening of Senior citizens, and the free medical clinic in the Eastern shores extending medical assistance to migrant workers.

PMA has about 70 active members. Some of its projects are supported by different medical associations and the Catholic Diocese of Richmond. It is affiliated with the Association of Philippine Practice Physicians in America with about 35 chapters and with about 12,000 members.

structure to be the remains of a shipwreck at least 100 years old.

Shipwreck Tragedy

On Jan. 22, 1894, the Norwegian bark, Clythis, bound from Genoa, Italy to Baltimore, washed ashore two miles north of Wash Woods. The 17 people in the ship were saved, but it lost its entire cargo of marble, which has since been scavenged by divers.

Another Norwegian bark, the Dickson, en route from Panama, Fla. to Europe with a load of pine, washed ashore on March 27, 1891, just one mile north of the resort strip.

The ship began taking in water early while navigating the straits of Florida during heavy tropical storms. The captain persisted in the voyage, the ship kept leaking, the pumps were overworked and the crew was exhausted. The crew finally prevailed upon the captain to go ashore. He acquiesced and headed for port in Norfolk.

"Just before he got here he ran into a north-easter and the seams really opened up," Rumble said, "and the pumps couldn't even keep up with it so he had to purposefully ground the ship. It was sighted by the Dam Neck station close in to shore. The Soutack station was alerted to it and watched it until the captain finally put it aground."

Of the 17 people on board, only 10 were saved. The Captain tried to lash his wife to a spar, but she was washed overboard and drowned. He tied his son to him and tried to get to shore using a ladder from the ship. The child got away from him and also drowned. The captain was revived on the shore.

Trophy — a $1,500 cash prize to be presented by Governor Charles Robb at the awards ceremony Saturday, June 25. Also, a $1000 Award of Excellence, a $500 Award of Distinction, five $200 Awards of Honor, five $100 Awards of Merit and 10 $25 Sand Dollar Awards will be given to selected artists. In addition several special awards will be given in specific art categories.

"All of our cash prizes have been sponsored by local businesses, organizations and individuals," said Joseph White, chairman of this year's show. "I attribute so much of the success of this show to this type of support and the many hours given over the past year by many dedicated volunteers."

Lowell Nesbitt, the 1962 winner, returns this year as one of three judges. He is joined by Robert Cardinale, Professor and Director of the Program in Artistry at Boston University and Patricia Myers, a Washington, D.C. art consultant. Nesbitt is an internationally recognized painter and printmaker working out of his New York City studio. His works are included in major public and private collections throughout the United States and Europe. Recently, the Thomas H. Bayly Museum in Charlottesville purchased 203 of Nesbitt's prints spanning his 30-year career for a study and touring exhibition collection. He is also a member of the NASA "Art Team" observing the Challenger 11 space shuttle this month.

The hours of the Boardwalk Art Show are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. The awards ceremony is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, June 25 on the Boardwalk at 13th Street. A 28-page souvenir program listing all artists and locations will be given away free. Souvenir visor caps and t-shirts will be sold as part of the fund raising effort in tents on 13th, 16th, 17th and 18th Streets.

Carrier's 50WQ Geothermal and Closed-Loop

Water Source Heat Pump lets you heat and cool your home with this vital energy source.

The earth traps and holds the sun's heat in the ground water. The 50WQ uses this water for efficient year-round heating and cooling comfort.

Save two ways:

1. Winter — All you pay for is the energy needed to remove heat from the ground water and transfer it into your home.
2. Summer — Because condenser heat is easily transferred to cool water, the 50WQ uses less energy than a standard air conditioner. So you save on your cooling bills.

Economic Development

Activities In Economics

The Virginia Beach Department of Economic Development, A. James De Bellis, director, has announced the following activities involving the department which transpired during the month of May:

•A. James De Bellis was invited to speak on business retention before the Congress of Urban and Economic Developers at its Annual Meeting in Washington, D.C.

•Charles Longworth, President of Colonial

Williamsburg Foundation has asked Jim De Bellis to serve as his Vice Chairman on Tidewater's Future Tourism Opportunity Group. The Committee represents tourism interests on the north and south sides of Hampton Roads.

•The Department's 1982 Annual Report was distributed to 1,500 clients and support organizations.

•Bay Mechanical, a local HVAC design and construction firm, closed on 2 acres on the southside of Seahawk Circle. The owner occupied building to be constructed will serve as their office, warehouse and manufacturing facility. It is anticipated that employment will double in the next several years.

•The VBDA reviewed $8,300,000 Resolutions of Intent consisting of five issues and one amendment.

•CACI, Inc., a diversified computer and data services concerned with offices in Airport Industrial Park was listed among Inc's 100 fastest growing companies in the country. CACI's sales grew 671% between 1978 and 1982, making it 79th in rate of growth.

•Pavilion hosted 42 events (11.5 event days) in May with 22,600 attendees for events such as The Virginia Lions Convention, Virginia Pops, K&K Toys Trade Show, Miss Virginia Beach-Miss Tidewater Pageant, Virginia Beach Choral and Ladies of the Oriental Shrine of North America.

•The Civic Center hosted 5,600 patrons to 18 events, comprising 12.05 event days, including a benefit country and western show for the FOP, The Albamora Ball and Countryside Craft show.

•In spite of keen competition, the City of Virginia Beach has won the 1984 Southern Legislative Conference. More than 1,200 legislators and staff will be coming to Virginia Beach August 12 - 16, 1984.

Lynnhaven Colony Church Raises More Than $5,000

The Lynnhaven Colony Congregational Church, located on Great Neck Road, recently raised over $5,000 at its seventh annual "Incredible" Flea Market.

At least 1,000 people attended the one-day event, sponsored by the church's Women's Fellowship. The flea market also featured a bake sale and refreshments. All items sold were donated to the church, said event chairman Mrs. Barbara Simmons. The church was kept open two weeks before the flea market for people to drop off merchandise.

The flea market is the church's major fund raiser each year. Proceeds will be used for church repairs, new equipment, and charity.

The church has a congregation of 350. Reverend Thomas Britton serves. About 75 people worked at the church on the day of the event. Final receipts were not in, but at least $5,300 was raised; $5,500 is expected.

Oriental Association Forming

An Oriental American Association is being formed in Virginia Beach.

This association is open to all people of oriental descent and their spouses. The initial meeting was recently held at the home of Bob and Terry Regnier, 1073 Blue Spring Lane, Virginia Beach. The next meeting will be held at the same place at 7 p.m. on June 30. It is requested that interested people attend so that the many details of forming the association be completed.

Some of the basic ideas are herewith included for information. These ideas are flexible and will be decided upon by the members of the association.

•Meetings: once a month from 7 to 8 or 8:30 p.m.

•Membership: people of oriental descent and spouses.

•Dues: $10 per year per family or $5 per year per single person.

•Suggested officers: president, vice president, secretary, treasurer.

•Suggested committees:

membership, ways and means, culture and heritage, business affairs, political affairs, public relations.

•Objectives: fellowship and friendship among people of oriental descent; promoting and continuing oriental culture, heritage, and traditions; and providing information and assistance to people of oriental descent in becoming active and valued members of their local communities and of the United States.

It is felt that an association of this type would be of great value to people of the orient in that it may be able to help avoid or resolve the many problems that these people would encounter due to a lack of knowledge of American customs and language.

For further information, contact Terry or Bob Regnier at their home at 468-5541. The address is 1073 Blue Spring Lane, Va. Beach, Va. 23452.

Robbery Suspect Wanted

The Virginia Beach Crime Solvers program is seeking information about an armed robbery on Oct. 23, 1982, at the Plaza Shopping Center in Virginia Beach.

At 12 p.m. on that date a female employee of the High Ice Cream Store at 3333 Virginia Beach Blvd. saw a man enter the store and use the pay phone. Another customer was in the store at the same time. After the customer left the store the man approached the counter and asked for change for a quarter. When the employee opened the cash register the man put his hand in his jacket pocket and said "I'll shoot if you don't give me the money."

The robber had the woman place the bills from the register in a paper bag and then forced her to the store office where he told her to open the safe. The cash from the safe was also placed in the same paper bag. The robber left out of a rear door after telling the woman to stay in the office.

The suspect was described as a black male with black hair and brown eyes, in his early 20's, 6'2" tall with a medium build. He had a short afro, a mustache, and was wearing a blue denim jacket and a dark t-shirt with wide white stripes at the time of the robbery.

Anyone with information about this or any other robbery is asked to contact Crime Solvers at 427-0000. Callers are eligible for up to a $1000 reward when an arrest is made.

The Crime Solvers program pays cash for information about any crime, wanted persons, or for the recovery of drugs or stolen property. You never have to give your name to collect a reward.

Finally, if hiking and exploring the beach becomes just too tiring, try checking out two special books: "How To Get A Great Tan, Without Frying" by Roger Sharpe and "Sand Creatures And Castles: How To Build Them" by Bob and Pat Reed. No matter what the activity, the library can make any day at the water's edge more enjoyable.

Teacher Salaries Discussed

shamefully low.

Merit pay plans, master teacher proposals, and differential pay for science and math teachers are not new proposals. They've been around for a long time. And they haven't worked.

NEA believes that merit pay schemes are too often subject to the personalized whims of administrators, exhibit questionable criteria for judging teacher excellence, and thus invariably cause serious morale problems. Teachers ask: what are the criteria for judging excellence and who shall be the judge? Will the evaluator be a person who is thoroughly familiar with fair evaluation techniques? And will personal biases be kept out of the evaluation process? Experience demonstrates otherwise.

Visualize, if you will, a typical school setting under any of these proposed systems. If you're a parent, wouldn't you want your child taught by the so-called "master teacher" or the teacher who is being paid a "bonus" for doing a superior job?

And how about the variables involved in teaching children? Proponents of merit pay often claim that teachers should be judged solely on the basis of student achievement—how well students learn. Simple enough. After all, industry pays its workers based on the quality of the product coming off the assembly line.

NEA's 1.7 million members know that measuring student achievement is not that simple. On the contrary, it's extremely complex. There are countless variables that affect results: The socio-economic background of students, ability, attitude, the quality of equipment and supplies, the curriculum employed, health, home environment, emotional state, nutritional needs—and many more. Researchers have never been able to agree on how these complex human variables should be evaluated.

I repeat. NEA will consider any fair and equitable salary proposal. For example, we can support the concept of a master teacher plan. Our quarrel is generally with its implementation.

We may need new, fair and equitable salary systems. NEA would eagerly like to help find such systems. Meanwhile, let us not use the debate as yet another excuse for allowing qualified, competent professional teachers to be denied pay increases.

25 Years: 575,300 People

If all the land in the northern part of the city considered suitable for residential construction under the city's current comprehensive plan were developed the city could have a population of 575,300 in 25 years.

Excluding residents of the military bases, the city's present population is 272,500. City Planning Director Robert Scott said at the joint work session of the Planning Commission and City Council Monday morning. He said land presently under development could accommodate an additional 57,000 people while additional land suitable for development would accommodate another 245,800 people. At the average annual rate of new construction - 4,200 units for the years between 1976 and 1983, this development would take 25 years.

He reached his population figures by assigning 2.85 persons per household and using the city's present development areas which exclude the Blackwater and Pungo study areas. Another assumption was that development would continue at an average of 3.92 units per acre, recommended in the Comprehensive Plan.

He said that 20,000 units are under construction now which will accommodate 57,000 people, and an additional 86,300 dwelling units could be developed on land presently zoned for residential construction or recommended for residential construction in the present Comprehensive Plan.

His estimates were made for the area north of the Courthouse as part of a review of the city's Comprehensive Plan.

The city, he said, has four alternatives:

- To keep things as they are with most residential development in the north end of the city and retaining the densities recommended in the Comprehensive Plan and in present zoning categories.

- To increase density in select areas of the northern end of the city but keep the line which divides the more rural area of the city from the more densely populated area the same. This would impact the road plan for the northern end.

- To keep development the same in the northern end but extend development farther south.

- Increase density in the northern end and also extend the line farther south.

Scott said that sooner or later Council will be under pressure to expand development to the south.

Population Swelling

At present, of the 27,927.5 acres of undeveloped land in the northern portion of the city, 23,000 are recommended for residential development in the Comprehensive Plan. Eliminated also are 681 acres over which the Navy has purchased restrictive easements and 1,586.1 acres in the 100-year flood plain. Council has already considered allowing the flood plains to be used to compute density.

He said that most of the new construction would be in the Courthouse-Sandbridge area -- 39,400 units with Kempville and the Holland road corridors next with approximately 12,000 each.

He said at present the city now has a policy of encouraging development in the Courthouse-Sandbridge study area at four units an acre. Farther south, two units an acre are recommended.

Public Utilities Director Aubrey Watts said that at present sewer is confined to the north of Princess Anne Road and the only sewer line west of the Courthouse area is to the Vocational Technical School on North Landing Road.

He said that the Hampton Roads Sanitation District force main is located just north of the alignment of False Cape Parkway.

The seven study areas used in the study, Scott said, are Bayfront, Bay-side, Courthouse-Sandbridge, Great Neck, Holland, Kempville, Little Neck and Oceanfront.

Councilman John A. Baum pointed out that people cannot be forced to develop their land.

Some may choose to hold on for higher prices while developers go elsewhere, perhaps Chesapeake, to build.

Council asked for written material on the report which would include water and sewer lines and roads which would be impacted.

Councilman Meyera Oberdorf pointed out that in 25 years, some of the older neighborhoods may have to be revitalized.

Scott agreed that while Virginia Beach has had the growing problems of a new city, in the future it will have different kinds of problems.

Baum advised the group that owners of farmland won't necessarily support a policy of preserving farmlands. He said that some may be better off financially selling to developers and would like to get rid of the land. He said that most of the undeveloped land included in the study is presently being farmed, but that as development makes incursions in farm areas, the farmers tend to move out. He said that residential leapfrogging into the farm areas will produce the same result.

Planning Commissioner Chairman Hassell E. Perrell said that the Commission is concerned about leapfrogging, too.

He said the best way to stop that would be by a controlled capital improvement program. He said that the absence of water and sewer will stop it.

Councilman Dr. J. Henry McCoy Jr. said he did not believe in leapfrogging either, but he also didn't think the city had to stop development at the line. Baum said that once the line is crossed there will be no stopping development.

He said the land prices will be cheaper and that the pressure will be on the farmer to sell.

Vice Mayor Barbara Henley said the city also needed information on legal aspects of the problem. She said the trend is toward more than seven units per acre. If density is increased, she said, capital improvements also will have to increase.

She wanted to know what it would cost the city under the various alternatives.

Councilman W. H. Kitchin III said that if Council got into affordability, it would "really have problems." He said that Council should not allow rezoning because a developer can't sell land.

Commissioner Ed Batten said he would hate to see the city base anything on what's affordable.

Crime Solvers

$1,000 For Information

As this week's "Crime of the Week" the Virginia Beach Crime Solvers program is offering up to a $1,000 cash reward for information about two thefts on Northampton Blvd. in Virginia Beach.

On December 2 and 16, 1982, the Memory Bank Computer Store, located at 5760 Northampton Blvd., was victimized by thieves. Each incident occurred on a Thursday night after closing and was not discovered until the following Friday morning. It appears that thieves hid in the rear of the store until all employees were gone as there were no signs of forced entry in either case.

The business reported losing over $25,000 in computer equipment including six Apple plus two micro computers, two apple home computers, a Panasonic video cassette recorder, an Epson computer printer, and a large quantity of other computer hardware and software.

The person responsible also has a working knowledge of computer equipment as all the items taken are compatible. Anyone with information about the persons responsible for this crime or the location of the property are ask to call Crime Solvers at 427-0000. Crime Solvers will also pay up to $1,000 in cash for information about any crime, wanted person, or for information that leads to the recovery of stolen property or confiscation of drugs. Callers are never asked to give their name.

Langley Elected

Virginia Beach resident Charles L. Langley has been elected a Mortgage Officer with RIHT Mortgage Corporation. RIHT Mortgage Corporation is a subsidiary of RIHT Financial Corporation, a $1.9 billion financial services institution headquartered in Providence, R.I. He will serve as branch manager of the Virginia Beach/Tidewater office.

Virginia Beach DMV Offers

Drive-In Window Service

Drive-in window service is now offered at the Division of Motor Vehicles Branch Office at 229 Mustang Trail in Virginia Beach.

DMV Commissioner Donald E. Williams said the DMV was installed to provide quicker service for motorists who need to renew their license place decals. All other transactions are processed inside the office.

"People who use the drive-in window can get a new set of decals in a matter of minutes," according to Williams. He noted that the window service also helps reduce the waiting lines inside the branch office and provides more parking space, particularly at the end of the month.

In 1978, DMV opened a drive-in window at the Hampton Branch Office and became the first DMV in the nation to offer drive-in service. Since then, drive-in windows have been installed in several other branch offices throughout the state.

Located on the west side of the building, the window is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursdays and from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. other weekdays. For the fastest service possible, customers are encouraged to fill out their registration cards and make checks payable to the Division of Motor Vehicles. Be sure your driver's license number and correct address are on the check.

Spitalney Honored

Michael Joel Spitalney, a rising junior at Kempville High School, has completed the 1983 Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation Virginia Leadership Seminar.

Each year since 1958, the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation has sponsored a series of leadership training seminars, selecting high school sophomores with emerging leadership abilities to participate. Spitalney was one of 175 sophomores from across the state to attend the seminar.

The Foundation is assisted in the Virginia seminar by the Virginia Jaycees, an organization of young adults dedicated to leadership training through community service. The seminars help students like Michael learn to use their capabilities for leadership by sharing with their community their knowledge, enthusiasm, and youthful energy.

While at the leadership seminar, Michael was selected as an alternate to attend the International Leadership Seminar later this year.

For Teachers

English Refresher Offered

An English refresher course is being offered this summer for all members of the administrative/supervisory staff of Virginia Beach Public Schools. The course is designed to review grammar, usage, and basic composition.

The first course will be taught by Mrs. Ruth Bridges, Virginia Beach Public Schools supervisor of elementary language arts, from June 20 to June 24; the second, by Mrs. Mary Barnes, supervisor of secondary English, from June 27 to July 1; the third, also by Mrs. Barnes, from July 5 to July 11. The three classes were arranged by Kenneth Williams, staff development specialist.

In education jargon, "staff development" means required or elected continuing education courses for all employees. Some courses are offered by the school system itself; some are offered by or arranged through various Virginia colleges and universities. The school system pays all or part of the tuition for many of the courses designed to upgrade or sharpen an employee's skills.

Teachers, as well as administrators and supervisors, are required to earn six credits every five years to keep their State certificates current. Many take far more than the minimum required.

Division Superintendent Dr. E.E. Brickell says he is delighted that the classes are being offered. "The School Board has just adopted the recommendations of the Curriculum Assessment and Development task force; those recommendations call for excellence," he said. "What better place to start than with our own administrative/supervisory staff."

He added, "The general public believes that anything received from a school person should be perfect; I think so too."

Brickell said that anyone can get a little rusty, and that "some of the rules have even changed a bit since some of us went to school."

Notes To My Friends

By JIM KINCAID

June 25, 1980.

I ran across some interesting figures today from a congressional hearing held yesterday.

The Department of Energy, which has twenty-one thousand employees, hires ten times that many people as outside contractors and consultants.

In another spot I learned that that some department has six people, that's six, not six hundred or six thousand, but six people assigned to handle hotlines and answer our questions on a number of energy-related subjects.

There's a hotline for questions about gasoline and heating oil.

One for information about alcohol fuels.

One to advise us, get this, on conservation.

Another for solar heating and cooling information.

And one to tell us how to go about car pooling.

Which, I suppose, is all very wonderful. I could only wish, however, that they could add a seventh person, and a seventh hotline, to tell us what the devil we're paying two hundred twenty thousand nine hundred and ninety-three other people for.

This series of excerpts from "Notes To My Friends" is brought to you through the courtesy of The Donning Company, a local publishing firm, and Jim Kincaid. The book is available in most book stores.

It's Time To Enjoy Outdoor Cooking!

While barbecuing has become a popular year-round activity for some people, the month of June is the traditional time many switch their entertaining ideas to the yard, patio or deck.

Outdoor cooking has gained many avid fans because of the easy cooking techniques and continuing improvements, such as LP and natural gas barbecue grills, point out the home economists at Charmglow Products.

Gas grills make barbecuing easier with their quick warmup and precise heat control allowing backyard chefs to prepare food at just the right temperature. And the mess and fuss of charcoal and lighter fluid is eliminated thanks to clean gas and permanent pumice briquets.

Modern features such as dual burners and separate controls, warming racks, Pyrex viewing windows,

Garbage Bags and Cans - Put some pure ammonia into a spray bottle and give you bags and cans a good spray just before putting them out into the street. Dogs will give them a wide berth.

Gas Tank, Energy Tip - A full gas tank gives much better performance than a partially filled one. Keeping it full prevents condensation and prevents water getting into your gas tank.

Gasoline Stains, Removing - Quite often a disfiguring ring is left when gasoline dries on delicate materials. This can be prevented by adding one-half teaspoonful of salt to warm, soapy water before applying it.

Note: Gasoline is very flammable and every precaution should be taken when using it. Always use it outdoors, if possible, and keep it clear of heat or flame.

Gilt, Cleaning - Pat the area lightly with one-half a freshly cut lemon. Don't press too hard. Next, dab the area with lukewarm water to which you've added a little bicarbonate of soda. Use one pint of water to one-half teaspoon of bicarbonate of soda.

and solid state igniters make the modern gas grill as versatile and easy to use as a kitchen range.

A gas grill costs only pennies to operate, according to Charmglow. An average-sized chicken can be barbecued on a gas barbecue for only about 2¢, compared to 80¢ on a charcoal grill.

For the benefit of those looking for something special to serve at a cookout, the following recipes are from The Complete Barbecue Cookbook, now available at Charmglow gas grill dealers and bookstores across the country.

Meal-In-One-Chuck-Roast

3-5 lbs. beef chuck roast
1 teaspoon onion salt
1 large onion, sliced
6 medium potatoes, quartered lengthwise
6 large carrots, peeled
¼ cup water

½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons wine vinegar

Brown the roast on a hot grill (high setting on a gas barbecue) for 15 minutes on each side. Remove roast and place it on a large sheet of double-strength aluminum foil. Place the sliced onion on top and the potatoes and carrots around the roast. Combine remaining ingredients in a saucepan. Heat slowly over the grill until the mixture comes to a boil, stirring constantly. Do not boil. Remove and pour over the roast and vegetables. Wrap the foil securely around the roast, sealing the edges well. Place on the grill and cook at low heat for 1½ hours, or until done, with the lid open one inch. Turn with tongs several times while cooking. Serves 6.

What Are Your "True Colors"

A professional Color Consultant, trained by Beauty For All Seasons, can focus on you for about an hour, and this hour will last the rest of your life.

No longer will you be unsure of how you look, or the first impression your appearance makes for you.

Your Color Consultant will first analyze your skin tones, facial contours, hair color and eye color to determine where you fit in nature's color scheme.

You'll learn to like the way you look. You'll learn beauty for all seasons.

You'll learn to create a wardrobe that is flattering and functional. No more mistakes in your closet. If you listen very carefully to Sandi Thompson, Color Coordinator Extraordinaire, who has made a very real (and very helpful) business out of color consultation. She takes the worry out of the question "what looks best on me for what special occasion?"

She can show you proper skin care, and help you select cosmetics coordinated for your season.

You'll get tips on perfumes, jewelry, clothing styles, accessories...even home decorating ideas that complement your season, and all you have to do is listen to this fascinating lady and her advice.

Your wardrobe can be coordinated for all occasions when you follow Sandi Thompson's rules. "No matter how you live, you'll do it in living color," she says.

It's all based on the color nature has given you," according to Sandi. Once she determines your season, you'll immediately see yourself in a new way. You'll learn to live your season in living color for the rest of your life. Are you a summer, spring, winter or fall person? SPRING women are radiant. The colors of Spring are clear, fresh, warm, crisp, and exuberant.

SUMMER women are exquisite. The colors of summer express softness, gentleness, a fragile beauty and delicate femininity.

AUTUMN women are spectacular. Rich, harmonious colors express strength in a vivid, decisive, earthy, town and country look.

WINTER women are striking. Winter's colors are pure and saturated, dramatic, icy and sophisticated.

Ms. Thompson was introduced to the concept last December when an aunt traveled to Tidewater from the West Coast. Her relative, she says, had become a color consultant, and while visiting here, she analyzed several family members, including Ms. Thompson.

Ms. Thompson, who describes her own skin tone as having a yellow cast, said she always had thought gold and rusty colors were complimentary to her. But after going through a color analysis, she learned other colors diminished the sallow look in her skin while the golds and rusts accented the yellowness.

Ms. Thompson says her color group is "summer," and lavender is one of the colors most flattering to her. When she wears lavender, or one of her other colors, she says she can count on hearing favorable comments.

So impressed was Ms. Thompson with the changes she experienced after her color analysis that she enrolled in a three-day class sponsored by Beauty For All Seasons, a company based in Idaho Falls, Idaho, to learn to be a color consultant.

Each analysis takes between 60 and 90 minutes, depending on whether female customers want consultation in makeup and skin care.

Entertain With A Country Picnic

An entertaining idea to try this year might be a country picnic. This picnic is a new and different way of entertaining because it isn't the typical picnic containing an arrangement of varieties of Land O Lakes Cheese along with unusual breads, fresh fruits and berries. These foods make up the visual dynamics for the picnic and provide fresh, natural goodness.

The country picnic can be served for breakfast, light lunch or a snack. It's fun because the picnic can take place outside in the prairie grass or in your home next to the fire. The picnic can actually take place anytime of the year, just set the mood by spreading out a blanket and serve fresh, natural goodness.

Simply select a variety of cheeses, choosing two to three kinds to complement their distinct flavors with beautiful whole grain breads. Good choices for cheese include a wedge out of a wheel of Cheddar cheese, a hunk of Baby Swiss and one variety of a process cheese. Provide a knife or cheese cutter for each variety. Freshly baked whole grain breads, or French, Italian and sour-dough breads add shape and texture to the cheese assortment.

Fresh fruits and berries add even more shapes, textures and flavors to the picnic. Cheese brings out the sweet bite of grapes, pears or figs and the fruit reciprocates by emphasizing the savory flavor of the cheese. Apples are a natural choice, being both crisp and juicy. Select other fruits that have interesting taste and an unusual design.

Cheese, breads and fruits are all you need to serve at the country picnic. This picnic will be a simplistic, beautiful gathering and one to tempt the palate.

Crabpots' Crabs Best In Country

Owners, Steve Akteyn and T.T. Perrone opened the Crabpot Restaurant in Virginia Beach in February and met with such success they have already remodeled the dining area and are remaining open seven days a week. Lunch, at the specialty seafood restaurant, has been so well accepted, managers, Jim and Pat Baumann have developed a luncheon buffet. Jim and Pat hail from Maryland's Eastern shore, "real seafood country," and they bring with them many years of restaurant experience. Recently installed video games and a lounge that will soon feature a variety of entertainment are new additions to the Crabpot that will make many regular customers happy, but what will keep them coming back? We think we know. The absolutely fantastic steamed and fried hardshell and softshell crabs that are beyond a doubt some of the best in the country. Helpings on entrees are generous to a fault and when you place your order, it's the way you asked for it in faster timeframes than usual. In a hurry for lunch? You will never go hungry and never be late for work again (unless you just get too carried away with that super buffet!). Starting July 1, Crabpot will be open seven days a week. We encourage you to try this fun-tastic place to dine.

Presidential Proclamation

Honor America-21 Day Salute From Flag Day to July 4th

Honor America During National Flag Week, 1983

By the President of the United States of America
A Proclamation

Two hundred eight years ago, the first distinctive American flags were flown over the colonial defenses during the Battle of Bunker Hill. One flag was an adaptation of the British Blue Ensign while the other had a new design. Both flags bore a pine tree, symbol of the struggle colonial Americans undertook to wrest their land from the forests.

As the colonials moved toward a final separation from Britain, other flags with various symbols appeared to inform the world of the hopes, dreams, and challenges of the new Nation. Many of the early American flags carried such mottos as "Liberty or Death" or "Don't Tread on Me" to reflect the courage and quest for freedom which motivated our forefathers and gave birth to our Nation.

Two years after the Battle of Bunker Hill, the Continental Congress chose a flag which, tellingly, expressed the unity and resolve of the patriots who had banded together to seek independence. The delegates voted "that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field representing a new constellation." Two centuries later, with the addition of thirty-seven stars, this flag still symbolizes our shared commitment to freedom and equality. It carries a message of hope to the downtrodden, opportunity to be oppressed, and peace to all mankind.

As challenges face our Nation today, the "Stars and Stripes" continues to remind each of us of the sacrifices and determination which built this Nation. It signals the great land of opportunity that our forefathers carved out of the wilderness and gave their lives to make free so many years ago.

Now it is our responsibility to remember the great price that has been paid to keep our flag flying free today and our privilege to ensure that it will keep flying free for future generations.

To commemorate the adoption of our flag, the Congress, by a joint resolution approved August 3, 1949 (63 Stat. 492), designated June 14 of each year as Flag Day and requested the President to issue an annual proclamation calling for its observance and the display of the flag of the United States on all Government buildings. The Congress also requested the President, by a joint resolution approved June 9, 1966 (80 Stat. 194), to issue annually a proclamation designating the week in which June 14 occurs as National Flag Week and calling upon all citizens of the United States to display the flag during that week.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate June 14, 1983, as Flag Day and the week beginning June 12, 1983, as National Flag Week, and I direct the appropriate officials of the Government to display the flag on all government buildings during that week. I also urge all Americans to observe Flag Day, June 14, and National Flag Week by flying the "Stars and Stripes" from their homes and other suitable places.

I also urge the American people to celebrate these days from Flag Day through Independence Day, set aside by Congress as a time to honor America (89 Stat. 211), by having public gatherings and activities at which they can honor their country in an appropriate manner.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this 10th day of May, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and seventh.

Ronald Reagan

The Program To Honor America Started In 1970

The American Historic and Cultural Society, Inc. was established in June 1970 under the laws of the District of Columbia as an educational and charitable organization.

The Honor America program of the Society was designed to increase the knowledge of the American public about its cultural heritage, constitutional form of government, and history, and to commemorate the anniversary of the independence of the United States of America.

This is accomplished by the dissemination to the public of educational materials on historic sites and state or federal government public facilities and by the conduct, sponsorship or dissemination of information about musical and cultural events available to the public featuring examples of American art, music and culture.

The events included in the programs suggest development of local historic ceremonies, parades, erection of monuments, band concerts, festivals of American folklife, viewing of historic documents in public buildings, contemporary musical entertainment and fireworks displays.

Help knit the ties of responsibility and fellowship that strengthen the foundations of America, particularly during the 21 days—FLAG DAY THROUGH INDEPENDENCE DAY.

—J. Willard Marriott
Chairman

21-Day Salute

The flag is a visible symbol of America's history. Some forty-two different flags have flown over a land which has grown from a loose collection of colonies to a country of states united in a common goal: the preservation of the freedom which is the cornerstone of American tradition.

The American Historic and Cultural Society chose twenty-one banners from the Great Flags of America (Franklin Mint 1974) to outline our nation's progress and history through the flags that have flown over it. The series may be used singly, one each day during the twenty-one day Salute to America, or grouped into weekly features. It may be run in local newspapers, read at meetings, used in school programs, or in any other way which is meaningful to your community in honoring America from June 14 to July 4.

We hope these vignettes demonstrate the influence that early international and regional flags had in forming a basic tenet of our American history, that we are truly a country founded in the spirit of the Latin motto, E Pluribus Unum...One out of Many.

—J. Willard Marriott
Chairman

SALUTE THE BANNER OF HOPE

The flag of the United States, waving proudly in a spring breeze, projects to an observer a sense of self-esteem. Without dramatic words or martial music, this banner conveys a message of stability and constancy.

For virtually all U.S. citizens living today the flag has always existed, and most of us believe it always will exist. For citizens of other countries, particularly those behind the iron curtain, the Stars and Stripes kindle hopes of liberty and independence.

Flag Day, June 14, marked the beginning of the Honor America program, a 21-day salute, reaching its climax on the Fourth of July. This event was officially authorized by a joint resolution of Congress and signed into law by President Ford in 1975.

The guiding force behind this legislation was the American Historic and Cultural Society, Inc., which strives to make each year's Honor America activities more significant than those of the past.

Back in the 19th century Henry Ward Beecher wrote, "A thoughtful mind, when it sees a nation's flag, sees not the flag only, but the nation itself...he reads chiefly in the flag the government, the principles, the truths, the history that belongs to the nation that sets it forth."

Centuries ago, flags or banners as we know them today did not exist. But the Egyptian armies introduced streamers or colored ribbons to mark the progress of their forces. From these, flags eventually evolved.

To capture an enemy's flag was a triumph. Men fought desperately—and gave their lives—to protect their standards from falling into hostile hands. To "rally round the flag" was a literal fact.

Are we rallying strongly around the flag today? In times of stress every American may well try to reassess his niche in our country's well-being or absence of well-being. One simple way to convey a sense of commitment is to display the Stars and Stripes prominently on Flag Day.

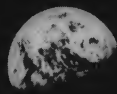

Let's consider further steps. Did you vote in the most recent national, state and local elections? In 1984 will come the primaries and the presidential election that will have major impact on the future of the U.S. government. Becoming well informed on the issues and the candidates will call for a bit of effort, but it is a long stride toward good citizenship.

In your neighborhood affairs are you providing a helpful voice or a note of guidance? Perhaps you could steer some confused youngster on a party toward responsible adulthood.

You could find a note of personal satisfaction in performing a small service or voicing a comforting word to cheer up an aged indigent person. Scores of opportunities exist through which a willing volunteer can create a turning point for the better in a troubled life.

Here's one of those amazing pictures taken by our astronauts on the moon.

That's our Earth. Way out there! Seeing the world in such perspective, how small our problems seem—but how great our need for God's caring and concern.

This is the exciting message of religion: That the God who created a vast universe is concerned for every soul. That we can know Him in the outreach of our faith and serve Him in the bond of love. On this planet whirling through space we draw closer to Him and to one another as we gather each week in God's House.

HONOR AMERICA

The American's Creed

I believe in the United States of America as a government of people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies.

Written by William Tyler Page

The things that the Flag stands for were created by the experiences of a great people. Everything that it stands for was written by their lives. The Flag is the embodiment, not of sentiment, but of history. It represents the experiences made by men and women, experiences of those who do and live under the Flag.

—Woodrow Wilson

Tidewater Residents Winners In CFB Sweepstakes

Six Tidewater area residents are winners in Central Fidelity Bank's "Great IRA Sweepstakes" — to the tune of what could be a combined total of nearly $90,000 in retirement-age values.

Tidewater had more winners of IRAs in the statewide "Sweepstakes" than any other area in Virginia.

The local winners are: Bonnie Tingle, Newport News, winner of a grand prize $2,000 IRA that could be worth $15,916 at retirement, even if she never makes another deposit to the account.

Norfolk resident Carolyn K. Vincent, winner of a first prize $1,000 IRA that could be worth $23,586 at retirement.

Two Chesapeake residents, Matthew L. Ward, winner of a first prize $1,000 IRA that should grow in value to

Wayne H. Wynn of Virginia Beach, winner of a first prize $1,000 IRA that could grow in value to $13,040 at retirement.

Alan Reiver, Yorktown, winner of a first prize $1,000 IRA that could be worth $21,368 at retirement.

Estimated value of the awards at age 65 retirement is based on the recipient's present age and assumes quarterly compounding of Central Fidelity Bank's current "Best Rate" IRA interest for an annual yield of 10.38 percent, and that no further deposits are made.

The awards were presented by Kenneth W. Farmer, Central Fidelity Bank regional president, Farmer who made the presentations, Carolyn K. Vincent, Norfolk, and Matthew L. Ward, Chesapeake. With two other winners in Newport News and Yorktown, Tidewater area "Great IRA Sweepstakes" winnings could total nearly $90,000 in retirement-age values, even if no other deposits are made to the accounts.

who reported that "more than 10,000 IRAs were opened at CFB during the sweepstakes."

Five IRAs with an initial deposit of $2,000 and 10 IRAs with initial deposits of $1,000 each were awarded statewide in the final phase of the Central Fidelity Bank sweepstakes. Ten "Early Bird" winners received $500 IRAs.

Winners were chosen in a random drawing by D.L. Blair Corporation. Official sweepstakes entry boxes were located in each of Central Fidelity Bank's 130 branch offices. Sweepstakes participants did not have to purchase an IRA or any other banking service, and no deposits were required. The only requirements were that the entry blank had to be filled out completely and the age of the participant had to fall between 18 and 70½.

"To our knowledge, this is the first time a sweepstakes of this type has been conducted by a bank," said Warren Emerson, corporate executive officer of Central Fidelity Banks, Inc. "More than 115,000 entries were received statewide, indicating strong interest in Central Fidelity's "Best Rate" IRAs and the tax and savings benefits they offer."

Other winners included: Grand prize $2,000 IRAs: Mrs. Ben E. Lum and Mrs. Betty C. Vaughan, Petersburg, and Pauline Lainhart, Roanoke.

Polynesian Pools Dream Realized Through Hard Work, Dedication

In 1970, Tom Sharpe and Jack Slawson engineered their own swimming pools, and this marked the beginning of a dream that materialized soon after as Polynesian Pools.

The establishment of a business they were not too familiar with brought with it many challenges that only hard work, dedication and courage could overcome.

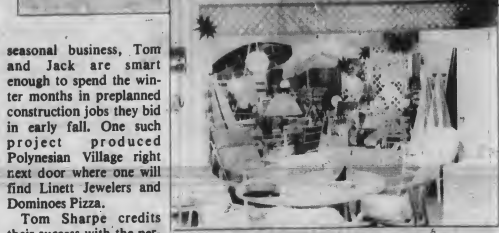

Initially, working out of their homes; they soon had enough work to require a business location. Buying an old home in Virginia Beach on Virginia Beach Blvd., they renovated the home themselves and opened the doors for business. And the business did come. New and innovative ideas have made Polynesian Pools a competitive force to be reckoned with in Tidewater.

Sharpe and Slawson have an all important edge over competition. Construction experience and a know-how that lets them install a pool within seven working days. Being a seasonal business, Tom and Jack are smart enough to spend the winter months in preplanned construction jobs they bid in early fall. One such project produced Polynesian Village right next door where one will find Linett Jewelers and Dominoes Pizzeria.

Tom Sharpe credits their success with the personal approach to each customer. "Jack and I insist on personally meeting every pool client. We honestly feel that the special attention we have given our customers over the years has been directly responsible for our success," he said. Jack Slawson added, "The bottom line is that we really care about our work, and we don't short change a customer and they develop trust in us and tell their friends."

Having added many lines of patio and pool furniture, equipment and accessories over the years, you can really get it all at Polynesian Pools (and they're awfully nice folks to do business with, too).

Tribute To Dad

By ROGER PYLE

I know a man who grew up as a farm boy in Texas. His family was rich in character, pride and love but had little in material wealth. He met and married a beautiful Texas girl and their son was born at the height of the great depression. Times were hard but he did not say, "What am I going to do? I don't have a job." He went to the city and got a job - selling refrigerators door to door. Not any easy task during the depression, but he managed to do it well and make it pay. The salesman were the people who really brought us out of the depression.

He became a successful businessman and always provided for his family very well. He paused in his career to join General Patton's third army in Europe. He was on Omaha Beach on the 6th of June, 1944 and he was in Germany on V.E. Day. He and his wife of 50 years have raised their son with discipline blended with much love. They provided him with a good education and had the courage to set him free and let him fly. But he was always there to lend strength and encouragement to his son whenever it was needed.

He never lost his sense of humor - even when events seemed very grim. He taught his son everything he knows - yet he is still wiser. I am that son and I am grateful for all the teachings, for the good humor, even during very humorless times, and for the strength and wisdom that I still draw upon.

The Builders Block

Kent, Where Quality Is Affordable

If you've been waiting to buy, hoping the interest rate will go even lower, wait no longer. As you know, VA and FHA has risen from 11 1/4 to 12%, but 12% is still a bargain considering past rates of 17%.

Omni Development Corporation of Virginia seems to know what Tidewater wants and can afford. Modeled after their successful development of Cumberland in Lynbrook Landing, Kent seems earmarked for success.

Located in the Scarborough subdivision of Virginia Beach, Kent affords easy access to the expressway, is only a few minutes from Lynnhaven Mall, and a leisurely 15 minutes puts you on the oceanfront. There will be fifty-seven units comprised of four models, with one alternate plan for each model. This gives buyers enough selection to have a townhome that's right for them, without the extra expense of custom building.

The townhomes are of a tasteful colonial design with picket fences on the front, and permanent open space on the rear due to environmental considerations. Kent is built on a large cul-de-sac for privacy and a reduced traffic rate.

As true of all Omni townhomes, there are many custom items included as standard features. Kent's standard features include:

- Continuous clean range with black glass door
- Dishwasher
- Disposal
- Stainless steel sink
- Wall-to-wall carpeting
- No-wax vinyl floor in kitchen/bath/foyer
- Laundry area
- Carrier heat pump/air conditioning
- Mirrored closet doors (designated models)

- Kwikset dead-bolt locks
- Smoke alarm
- Ceramic tile in tub area
- Outside storage enclosures
- Box-bay windows (designated models)
- Stained woodwork
- Energy-efficient insulation package
- Insulated windows w/ screens
- Chair rail in kitchenettes
- Front yard picket fence
- 3 x 6 stoop in rear with sliding glass door access
- Steel insulated entry doors with magnetic weatherstripping

The Builders Block is a regular feature highlighting new construction in Tidewater.

- Exhaust fan vented to outside
- Two-car off-street parking
- All appliances are by Whirlpool
- Options are:
- Fireplace
- Fireplace with blower
- Stoveplace
- Glass doors for fireplace
- Microwave oven
- Ice maker
- Dryer
- Washer
- Frost-free refrigerators
- Ceiling fan with light
- Tub enclosure
- Upgraded padding/carpet/vinyl
- Ceramic backsplash in kitchen
- 8 x 16 concrete patio
- Outside deck
- Screen porch
- Mirrored closet doors
- Solar hot water heater

Omni also offers, in addition to the popular 5 year HOW warranty, a generous builder's home protection plan. "Service is a major consideration at Omni. When our customers are happy, then we know we've done our job," said Shirley Baroness, Director, Consumer/Public Relations for Omni.

Kent is the product of three generations of building experience with an eye for detail, and a reputation for quality. Omni has built for two years under the name of Omni Development Corporation of Virginia, and is known for quality, rather than large tract building.

Larasan Realty/Better Homes and Gardens is the marketing arm and driving force behind the early acceptance of Kent (fifteen units have been sold since April, and construction is still in the early stages). Success is no stranger to Larasan. They have successfully marketed Lynbrook Landing, Oak Springs, and Nottingham Square.

"Selling Kent is a real pleasure to me because of the quality that goes into all of Omni's developments," said Sandy Bowman, site manager and former agent for Thalia Trace. Taber Baise, assistant site manager feels the "price is exceptional for the amenities that Kent has to offer. We invite everyone to visit us at Kent, and see how truly affordable quality can be."

Prices are from a modest $43,450 to $54,250. You may reach the site by calling 468-6060.

Be Careful Who You Hit!

That Person May Be A Police Officer

And If You're Convicted Of Assaulting A Cop, You Go To Jail

By Greg Goldfarb
Sun Editor

Following years of debate and gallons of spilled blood, Virginia police officers have gained a small advantage in their never-ceasing battle against crime: more protection under the law.

On and after July 1, 1983, if a person is convicted of hitting a police officer in the performance of his professional duty, that person will spend at least six months in jail. Malicious assaults can carry as much as 20 years in prison.

Traditionally, assaulting a police officer carried no harsher a penalty than assaulting your next door neighbor. Consequently, tourists in Virginia Beach, for example, could come here in the summer, sock a cop in the nose, and go back home with little more than a misdemeanor citation. If the police officer wanted to press assault charges he or she would have to go to the local magistrate, just like a civilian would, and attempt to swear out a warrant for the assailant's arrest.

Provided the magistrate granted the warrant, the assaulted officer would have to track the abusive out-of-towner down to bring him back to justice in Virginia Beach. Then, weeks later, the police officer and his or her attorney must convince a judge that the well-shaven man sitting in the courtroom in a three-piece suit on the morning of the hearing, was the belligerent drunk who punched the cop. The judge's decision could go either way.

That's all changing. "I think all they have done is taken a statue that was already on the books and added two additional elements," said Virginia Beach Commonwealth's Attorney Paul A. Sciortino. "And if you can prove those two elements, what they have done is given you a mandatory penalty."

According to House Bill 220, passed by the General Assembly at its latest session and subsequently signed into law by Governor Charles Robb, "if any person maliciously causes bodily injury to another...with intent to maim, disfigure, disable or kill and knowing or having reason to know that such other person is law-enforcement officer engaged in the performance of his professional duties as a law-enforcement officer, such person shall be guilty of a Class 3 felony, and upon conviction, the sentence of such person shall include a mandatory minimum term of imprisonment of two years."

An unlawful assault conviction of a police officer calls for a "mandatory, minimum term of imprisonment of one year." Assault and battery convictions impose a six month jail term.

Sciortino said the effectiveness of the new law will be determined in the courts. But from a prosecuting perspective, not only will he now have to prove that the police officer was assaulted, but that the assailant clearly knew he was assaulting an officer. It sounds simple except in cases where the officer may be in plain clothes.

"That's always been one of our concerns, particularly with the man not in uniform; identifying yourself and making it understood that you are a police officer," said Virginia Beach Police Captain E. F. Buzzy, executive aide to Chief Charles R. Wall.

"As you know we have the guys who are sometimes dressed in bathing suits or shorts who are working on the beachfront," Buzzy continued. "What we have tried to do in situations like that is have uniformed officers assigned to that particular investigation, a little bit back, maybe about a half a block away, as a backup. If the officer in the bathing suit were to see some criminal action, then he would call by walkie-talkie for an arrest team to come in. Then when the men in uniform appear on the scene then they can affect the arrest and hopefully you don't have any identification problem."

Similar problems also occur when search warrants are served, particularly with the vice and narcotics squads. The identification problem is a sticky area in the new law.

"That's the thing. If you didn't know you should have known that the victim is an law-enforcement officer engaged in his public duty," Sciortino said. "So what you've got to do now is, you've not only got to prove that he committed the malicious assault or unlawful wounding or the assault and battery or the assault, which is all you'd have to prove in a regular case, in addition to that you have to prove that he knew or should have known that not only was the guy a law enforcement officer, but that he was also in the performance of his duties. If he's not in the performance of his duties, then based on this statute, the statute wouldn't apply."

Determining when an officer is engaged in his duties could be questionable, but not for Sciortino.

"All police officers are (on duty all the time) theoretically," Sciortino said. "But I don't believe that means they're engaged in their public duties. What it means is, if you are doing something which would call him into play; or other words, if you're involved in a breach of the peace and the police officer is off duty and observes it, he then has a responsibility to act, more so than a citizen because he's a law enforcement officer."

"But suppose he's in a bar drinking and you two get into an argument and then you beat the tar out of him," Sciortino continued. "Is he in the performance of his duties? Or is he simply a private citizen who ended up in

Chamber Luncheon

De Bellis At Beach Briefs

A James De Bellis, director of Economic Development for the City of Virginia Beach, will be present speaker at a special luncheon sponsored by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce on Thursday, July 14 at the new Pavilion Tower Hotel.

De Bellis will outline the progress made in economic development since the department was formed in 1970 with a staff of only he and one secretary.

The department now has 53 employees which includes an administrative and research staff at Princess Anne Courthouse; an Industrial Development staff based at Oceana West Industrial Park; a Tourist Development staff with offices at Pavilion and at the new Tourist Information Center at the Dome; the Pavilion and Dome operations staff; and the Convention Bureau staff, working from offices in Pavilion.

"We are pleased to sponsor this luncheon," said Clenton Shanks, chairman of the Chamber's Industrial Development Committee. "It demonstrates the Chamber of Commerce's support of the great job Jim De Bellis and his department have done and are doing for the City of Virginia Beach."

In addition to a progress review, De Bellis will also discuss marketing and sales efforts pursued by his staff in search of new industry, new conventions and trade shows, and new tourist opportunities. He will also announce a new and exciting program to involve all the citizens of Virginia Beach in these efforts.

For reservations and information call the Chamber at 490-1221.

Developers' Water Rates

By Lee Cahill
Sun Council Reporter

Developers who had already submitted site plans to the Planning Department by the time the new water and sewer rate increases were approved Monday afternoon will be given the opportunity to pay the lower rates in effect before July 1.

Council, however, also set Sept. 1 as a cut-off date. To take advantage of the rate break, the developers will have to apply for utilities construction by Sept. 1. Before this can be done plans have to be approved by the city.

Council by a vote of 9-2 Monday evening adopted two ordinances increasing water and sewer fees recommended by the city's consultants, Buck, Seifert and Jost.

New rates go into effect on July 1.

The ordinances increase water rates from $1.44 to $1.62 per 1000 gallons. Also, the $2.50 fee for monthly fee for feeding and maintaining meters and inspecting the systems has been increased to $3.50 and the monthly availability charges also have been increased at rates determined by the size of the line used. For residential use generally this will mean an increase from $3 to $3.45.

Sewer maintenance charges also have been increased. For single-family residences this means an increase from $7 to $9.46 a month.

The fees represent an increase of 30 percent overall. The added fees and charges are needed, according to the consultants to cover anticipated revenue deficits for fiscal

Cop Assaults

Virginia Beach Police Captain E. F. Buzzy remembers driving home one night. He was in his pickup truck, wearing shorts and a t-shirt.

It was about 11 p.m. when he passed a Lynnhaven area shopping center parking lot and observed a group of cars gathered and one patrolcar on the scene. Normally Buzzy wouldn't have stopped but it was obvious to him there might be trouble and the officer was there alone. As Buzzy pulled up he noticed that the patrolman was trying to restrain a big guy. Buzzy got out of his truck, but remembers wondering what if the officer doesn't recognize him and think he's a trouble maker? Buzzy, obviously not in uniform, showed his badge. Fortunately he knew the officer and the officer knew him.

"I want everybody to know that this man is a police officer and you do anything he tells you to," the officer shouted to the people.

Buzzy was relieved.

When a situation arises where a law enforcement officer is needed, he or she reacts regardless of the garb they are wearing. It is during these circumstances that prosecutors may expect to have mild difficulty in handling assault on policemen cases.

Under a new law to take affect on July 1, not only will prosecutors have to prove that the police officer assaulted, but it must also be proved in court that the officer clearly identified himself as an officer and was indeed acting in the performance of his or her professional duties. If such criteria is met, people convicted of assaulting police officers will spend at least six months and up to many years in jail or prison.

Police officials are happy that stiffer penalties for assaulting police officers have come on the books, but are a little apprehensive over how the law will be handled in the future. Not only is there a question of how judges will decide whether or not the assailant knew or had reason to know that they were assaulting a police officer, but because of the mandatory penalty clause juries might become soft.

Say for example there is a question as to whether or not the police officer was properly and adequately identified. Already the jury has a doubt in their mind about the case. Then the question of the assault comes up, and the facts surrounding that are also unclear. The jury knows that if it finds the defendant guilty he or she will serve time. Consequently, it may find a not guilty verdict rather than taking the chance of sending an innocent man to jail.

"Let my daddy go," the children quietly chanted before the proceedings began. At the noon break court recessed and people went outdoors, with the holiday chiming of the nearby church bells ringing softly.

Buzzy said he was sure the man was guilty, but the defendant was found not guilty of the rape and sentenced one year for simple assault.

Since then Buzzy has been contacted by an investigator who was referred to him by the wife of the man who had just been acquitted of rape; because now the man has been charged with raping his 13 year-old daughter.

It is up to courts and juries not to be taken in by emotion. Judges and juries are not always or ever usually in the streets and don't smell and see the blood on the sidewalks. Every effort should be taken to support our local policemen. Theirs is a thankless job.

Kudos To Bush

Congratulations are in order for Virginia Beach kickboxer Curtis Bush, who won his pro debut in Memphis recently with a second round knockout over previously undefeated Jackie Dixon, South Memphis, Ark.

Bush's record now stands at 14-2 in his full-contact karate matches. He decked Dixon, won 8-1, at 1:48 of the second round. Bush's next fight is set for Friday, July 8 in Atlantic City.

Unless corrected, Bush is the first Virginia Beach fighter to appear on the sports cable network ESPN. Not only was his victory over Dixon cablecast, but his upcoming Atlantic City fights is scheduled to be aired also.

The local media has not devoted much attention to Bush. Certainly he deserves more.

Hurricanes

Warning, warning! It's hurricane season. Be alert!

Everybody knows that Virginia Beach becomes semi-tropical in July and August; especially in August. Even if it's a clear night when you go to bed, car windows should be rolled up because of fleeting thundershowers. When it rains heavily, the low-lying resort section of Virginia Beach suffers from flooding. But it only happens in late summer.

Virginia Beach does not regularly experience hurricanes. The worst one in recent memory terrorized the city in the 1960's. Besides, who needs them to tear

Architects And Libraries

A Central Library for Virginia Beach became a greater reality recently when City Manager Thomas H. Muehlenbeck approved the selection of Laszlo Aranyi and The Design Collaborative as architect for the new library. Architectural design of the $11 million, 90,000 square foot structure will begin this year. The library hopes to deliver service in the building by July, 1986.

I spoke with Laszlo Aranyi recently to learn more about the man and the company that will design the library that may become one of the most innovative buildings of its kind in America. Laszlo's observations yielded fresh insights into the world of the architect, and they helped me more keenly appreciate the human elements that must combine to produce a successful library design.

My first question to Laszlo was probably what most people would ask an architect: "What's it going to look like?" I was surprised when Laszlo responded by saying that he had no preconceptions about the building. He emphasized the need for careful research before the first attempt at creative design. Reading about other library designs, talking to librarians who are experiencing their buildings and traveling to other cities to see the latest or most unique designs are all part of this information-gathering period. This research is not random. It is a

Sutton, Malone: No Shows

If you can't tell a book by its cover, it is also true that you can't tell a basketball by its rubber? Or leather, rather?

Anyway, boxing and basketball news recently had local sports fans cheering and crying at the same time. One reason was that a local boxing title fight was happening the same night of the NBA-ACC all-star basketball game.

Off The Record

By Greg Goldfarb

Just days before the events were to take place, it was announced that Ralph Sampson would be at the all-star game. At about the same time it was also announced that the title fight between Ric Lainhart and Danny Sutton, the Southern States boxing association's champion, has been canceled because Sutton backed out at the last minute. Could it be that he heard Ralph was going to be in Norfolk the same night of the scheduled fight and switched his priorities?

Boxing promoter Stanley Bennett said he will not rest until Sutton fights Lainhart. But after Ric got whipped in the third round by the number three contender for Sutton's crown, Bennett better ask Lainhart politely if and when he's ready to take on Sutton. Bennett found out that Sutton was backing out just days before the fight.

"I bet you Mike (Mike Vaughan, Lainhart's trainer and manager) is angry," I said to Bennett.

"Mike's not angry, he's crying," Bennett replied.

"What about that NBA game hurting your attendance?"

"It's not killing me," Bennett braved.

I don't know how Bennett could stand it because it was sure killing me. Bennett thinks it was hard that night being a promoter. But what about the fans? Before things changed around, Lainhart was going to take a shot at a national regional boxing title on the same night Moses alone and Bob McAdoo were supposed to be in Norfolk.

To which event was a guy supposed to go? What should he do?

Then it was announced that Ralph Sampson would be at the basketball game. I couldn't take it. But deep down inside I knew what had to be done. I did not jump in my car and get tickets to the basketball game for two reasons. I did not want to go to Norfolk for the game when it should have been held at the Pavilion to begin with; and I knew local boxing deserved more support than professional exhibition basketball.

Luckily for me, Moses along with some other big guns did not show. I laughed out loud when I heard the news. Unfortunately for Lainhart,

Cop Assaults

Virginia Beach Police Captain E. F. Buzzy remembers driving home one night. He was in his pickup truck, wearing shorts and a t-shirt.

It was about 11 p.m. when he passed a Lynnhaven area shopping center parking lot and observed a group of cars gathered and one patrolcar on the scene. Normally Buzzy wouldn't have stopped but it was obvious to him there might be trouble and the officer was there alone. As Buzzy pulled up he noticed that the patrolman was trying to restrain a big guy. Buzzy got out of his truck, but remembers wondering what if the officer doesn't recognize him and think he's a trouble maker? Buzzy, obviously not in uniform, showed his badge. Fortunately he knew the officer and the officer knew him.

"I want everybody to know that this man is a police officer and you do anything he tells you to," the officer shouted to the people.

Buzzy was relieved.

Police officers are on duty 24-hours a day, even though they are in their uniform only about eight hours a day.

When a situation arises where a law enforcement officer is needed, he or she reacts regardless of the garb they are wearing. It is during these circumstances that prosecutors may expect to have mild difficulty in handling assault on policemen cases.

Under a new law to take affect on July 1, not only will prosecutors have to prove that the police officer assaulted, but it must also be proved in court that the officer clearly identified himself as an officer and was indeed acting in the performance of his or her professional duties. If such criteria is met, people convicted of assaulting police officers will spend at least six months and up to many years in jail or prison.

Police officials are happy that stiffer penalties for assaulting police officers have come on the books, but are a little apprehensive over how the law will be handled in the future. Not only is there a question of how judges will decide whether or not the assailant knew or had reason to know that they were assaulting a police officer, but because of the mandatory penalty clause juries might become soft.

Say for example there is a question as to whether or not the police officer was properly and adequately identified. Already the jury has a doubt in their mind about the case. Then the question of the assault comes up, and the facts surrounding that are also unclear. The jury knows that if it finds the defendant guilty he or she will serve time. Consequently, it may find a not guilty verdict rather than taking the chance of sending an innocent man to jail.

Buzzy recalls a case years ago where a man in his '40's allegedly raped an 18-year old girl. On the day of the trial, just a few days before Christmas, the defendant came to court with his wife, three or four children, the smallest resting cradled in mother's arms.

"Let my daddy go," the children quietly chanted before the proceedings began. At the noon break court recessed and people went outdoors, with the holiday chimes of the nearby church bells ringing softly.

Buzzy said he was sure the man was guilty, but the defendant was found not guilty of the rape and sentenced one year for simple assault.

Since then Buzzy has been contacted by an investigator who was referred to him by the wife of the man who had just been acquitted of rape; because now the man has been charged with raping his 13 year-old daughter.

It is up to courts and juries not to be taken in by emotion. Judges and juries are not always or ever usually in the streets and don't smell and see the blood on the sidewalks. Every effort should be taken to support our local policemen. There is a thankless job.

Kudos To Bush

Congratulations are in order for Virginia Beach kickboxer Curtis Bush, who won his pro debut in Memphis recently with a second round knockout over previously undefeated Jackie Dixon, South Memphis, Ark.

Bush's record now stands at 14-2 in his full-contact karate matches. He decked Dixon, now 8-1, at 1:48 of the second round. Bush's next fight is set for Friday, July 8 in Atlantic City.

Unless corrected, Bush is the first Virginia Beach fighter to appear on the sports cable network ESPN. Not only was his victory over Dixon cablecast, but his upcoming Atlantic City fights is scheduled to be aired also.

The local media has not devoted much attention to Bush. Certainly he deserves more.

Hurricanes

Warning, warning! It's hurricane season. Be alert!

Everybody knows that Virginia Beach becomes semi-tropical in July and August; especially in August. Even if it's a clear night when you go to bed, car windows should be rolled up because of fleeting thundershowers. When it rains heavily, the low-lying resort section of Virginia Beach suffers from flooding. But it only happens in late summer.

Architects And Libraries

A Central Library for Virginia Beach became a greater reality recently when City Manager Thomas H. Muehlenbeck approved the selection of Laszlo Aranyi and The Design Collaborative as architect for the new library. Architectural design of the $11 million, 90,000 square foot structure will begin this year. The library hopes to deliver service in the building by July, 1986.

I spoke with Laszlo Aranyi recently to learn more about the man and the company that will design the library that may become one of the most innovative buildings of its kind in America. Laszlo's observations yielded fresh insights into the world of the architect, and they helped me more keenly appreciate the human elements that must combine to produce a successful library design.

My first question to Laszlo was probably what most people would ask an architect: "What's it going to look like?" I was surprised when Laszlo responded by saying that he had no preconceptions about the building. He emphasized the need for careful research before the first attempt at creative design. Reading about other library designs, talking to librarians who are experiencing their buildings and traveling to other cities to see the latest or most unique designs are all part of this information-gathering period. This research is not random. It is a

Sutton, Malone: No Shows

If you can't tell a book by its cover, is it also true that you can't tell a basketball by its rubber? Or leather, rather?

Off The Record

By Greg Goldfarb

reason was that a local boxing title fight was happening the same night of the NBA-ACC all-star basketball game.

Just days before the events were to take place, it was announced that Ralph Sampson would be at the all-star game. At about the same time it was also announced that the title first between Ric Laihart and Danny Sutton, the Southern States boxing association's champion, has been canceled because Sutton backed out at the last minute. Could it be that he heard Ralph was going to be in Norfolk the same night of the scheduled fight and switched his priorities?

Boxing promoter Stanley Bennett said he will not rest until Sutton fights Laihart. But after Ric got whipped in the third round by the number three contender for Sutton's crown, Bennett better ask Laihart politely if and when he's ready to take on Sutton. Bennett found out that Sutton was backing out just days before the fight.

"I bet you Mike (Mike Vaughn, Laihart's trainer and manager) is angry," I said to Bennett.

"Mike's not angry, he's crying," Bennett replied.

"What about that NBA game hurting your attendance?"

"It's not killing me," Bennett braved.

I don't know how Bennett could stand it because it was sure killing me. Bennett thinks it was hard that night being a promoter. But what about the fans? Before things changed around, Laihart was going to take a shot at a national regional boxing title on the same night Moses alone and Bob McAdoo were supposed to be in Norfolk.

To which event was a guy supposed to go? What should he do?

Then it was announced that Ralph Sampson would be at the basketball game. I couldn't take it. But deep down inside I knew what had to be done. I did not jump in my car and get tickets to the basketball game for two reasons. I did not want to go to Norfolk for the game when it should have been held at the Pavilion to begin with; and I knew local boxing deserved more support than professional exhibition basketball.

Luckily for me, Moses along with some other big guns did not show. I laughed out loud when I heard the news. Unfortunately for Laihart,

No Preconceptions On Library's Design Says Library's Design Architect

systematic and comparative attempt to select the most promising ideas from the entire range of library architecture to bring to bear upon the Central Library in Virginia Beach.

My questioning quickly yielded another misapprehension on my part. While I wanted to ask Laszlo about buildings, Laszlo kept talking about people. He emphasized that buildings are not constructed to deal with abstract problems. Buildings are meant to meet the needs of the people who use them, and it is important that the people who work in them become part of the creative design process. He was candid in stating that because buildings are designed for people, and because change over time, no building will ever be built that solves all problems.

Our talk about people led me to the realization that buildings are dynamic structures and not inert piles of brick and mortar. The Central Library will never be a passive building. It's design will actively contribute to the quality of library service in Virginia Beach.

Our conversation returned to the problems of design. Once again Laszlo's concerns and viewpoint were unique. While I was ready to discuss all of the particular concerns of constructing the Central Library, Laszlo wanted to emphasize universal problems of constructing the Central Library. Laszlo wanted to emphasize universal problems of people using space effectively. It was in this exchange that I realized that both the librarian and the architect are contributors to the ultimate design of the building. The librarian brings certain parochial concerns relating to the information trade, and the architect brings a sense of the universal experience of people using buildings. It is the architect's job to interpret the unique concerns of the librarian in terms of this universal backdrop to create a building that effectively meets everyone's needs. The client and the architect are both part of the creative design process.

Laszlo spoke of a commitment to the use of passive heating and lighting for the building, not a surprising statement from a man who was recently named "Energy Man of the Year" by the National Energy Journal. The Central Library will never be a dimly lit cavern of books, but will be a building in which natural light floods an interior that brings a sense of openness and welcome to people using the building.

Laszlo Aranyi was born in Budapest, Hungary, and came to the United States in 1956. He received a Bachelor of Architecture from the North Carolina State University in 1958 and opened his first office in Virginia Beach in 1965. He founded The Design Collaborative, an architectural firm that specializes in passive solar design, in 1975. Major buildings designed by Mr. Aranyi include the Virginia Beach Sun building, Bow Creek Recreation Center, the Oceanfront and Great Neck Area Libraries, Beth Shalom Nursing Home, the Barretts Corner branch of Virginia National Bank and the passive solar Greenbrier Corporate Center. The Kesser Dental building in Norfolk was designed by Mr. Aranyi and is Tidewater's first passive solar building.

Residents of Virginia Beach will soon enjoy the use of a Central Library that will be fun to use while it effectively organizes books and other recorded documents designed to meet the information needs of our city. Virginia Beach librarians are already planning the kinds of books and media that will be a part of the Central Library. Laszlo Aranyi and The Design Collaborative are equally busy at work designing a building that will bring pride to our city and make use of library services an efficient and enjoyable experience.

New Executive Officer At Oceana

Naval Air Station Oceana recently welcomed a new executive officer.

Captain Richard Moon Vance will take the co-pilot's seat of the Master Jet Base when he relieves Captain Robert H. Byng, the station's executive officer since December 1980.

Captain Byng reports to the Naval War College, Newport, R.I. before assuming command of Fleet Area Control and Surveillance Facility, Virginia Capes (FAC-SFAC VACAPES) in the fall.

Captain Vance, Commanding Officer of Oceana based Fighter Squadron One Hundred One (VF-101) from January 1982 until May 1983, is a native of Poland, Ohio. He was first designated a Naval Aviator in May 1963. After deployments with Airborne Early Warning Squadron Twelve (VAW-12) aboard USS Enterprise, USS Essex, USS Randolph and USS Washtenaw of Norfolk, he reported to Training Squadron Twenty-Three (VT-23) in Kingsville, Texas in 1966 as flight instructor and landing signal officer (LSO).

Returning to sea duty in July 1969, Captain Vance reported to Fighter Squadron One Hundred Twenty Four (VF-124) for F-8 training. He made three combat cruises as LSO for Carrier Air Wing Five in USS Bon Homme Richard, Carrier Air Wing 19 in USS Oriskany and Carrier Air Wing 21 in USS Hancock, flying with Fighter Squadrons 51, 191 and 211, respectively. During this time he served an interim one-year tour as training officer in VF-124, and ended his last cruise as executive officer of Fighter Squadron Two Hundred Eleven (VF-211). In 1974 Captain Vance reported to the U.S. Air Force Command and Staff College, Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama. During this tour he earned an M.B.A. degree from Auburn University. He was then assigned to North Island Naval Air Station where he served as pilot training officer for the S3A program. After completing F-14 training, Captain Vance reported to Fighter Squadron Twenty Four (VF-24) as executive officer in July 1977 and then assumed command in September 1978.

Reporting to the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations in February 1980, Captain Vance served as Head, Aviation Manpower Programs until September 1980. He then assumed the duties of F-14-14/Phoenix Program Coordinator until January 1982, when he took command of VF-101.

Byng

Captain Vance is married to the former Elinor Walsh of Youngstown, Ohio. They reside in Virginia Beach with their daughter, Jennifer, and son, John.

Too Much Sports For One Night

Sutton didn't show up either.

The boxing match was well attended by a very encouraging crowd. Certainly the same can be said about the basketball game, as evidenced by the post-game party which transpired at one of the resort strip oceanfront lounges. Mark Iavaroni and Artis Gilmore were there, drinking and dancing. (Not with each other). Eventually Ralph strolled in. He was tall. His ears were so far off the ground he could not hear a person speaking to him in a normal voice. Comments had to be projected clearly, or else you had to climb on a chair to talk to him. Most of the girls at the party already knew Ralph, and for some reason paid more attention to him than many of the other fellows there. I'm sure it was just a phase through which they were going. Iavaroni danced the most and seemed to be the most personable. Of course he is from the world champion '76er's and has reason to be happy. Ralph wasn't afraid of the wood, after all, a dance floor is very similar to a hardwood basketball floor, except without the strips.

Too bad things didn't turn out better for Ric that night.

Why can't Virginia Beach have its own pro basketball team? Everyone says Norfolk is so full of everything. We agree. It doesn't have a pro basketball team, although it has tried. But who wants an ABA? All we need for an NBA team is some local investors. How's the Virginia Beach Buckets sound? The Virginia Beach Coasters? The Virginia Beach Suns? Or Guns?

Hurricanes

up the beaches when they are already being torn up quite well by the wind and surf?

The National Weather Service recommends that local residents begin now, if they haven't begun already, to batten down the hatches in event of a storm. In addition to keeping plenty of food and water handy, don't forget other important items such as soap, band-aids and kitty litter for the cats.

Seaside dwellers are also urged to keep a battery operated radio tuned into all-weather stations. (Frequencies 162.4, 162.475 or 162.44).

Hurricanes are no joke. They are deadly and can come without warning. Be alert. Be prepared.

TBA Scholarships

Three Virginia Beach students have been selected for four-year scholarship grants in the amount of $5,200 each by the Tidewater Builders Association Scholarship Foundation.

The recipients are Keith P. Lowe of 5712 Hamlet Street, a graduate of Kempville High School; Kelly Ann O'Hara of 5761 Pontiac Road, also a graduate of Kempville; and Shelley Ray Taylor of 2910 Old Glory Road, a graduate of Kellam.

The students were among 18 area high school graduates and present college undergraduates selected to receive aid.

The Foundation, created in 1966, awards grants each spring based on academic achievement and financial need. Grants are funded by the construction and sale each year of a Scholarship House.

The 1983 volunteer Scholarship House builder is Hudgins and Associates. The house is under construction now and will be open as part of Homearama on August 21st. Hudgins and Associates and the contributing suppliers and contractors volunteer substantial amounts of goods and services so that when the house is sold at a fair market price the proceeds can be donated to the Foundation.

The Foundation committed $42,900 in scholarship aid this year.

Family Festival At Beach Christian Church

By Phyl Gordon.
Special To The Sun

The members* of Virginia Beach Christian Church decided to explore an alternative to the traditional vacation bible school and in its stead, have a program for the entire family that would focus on strengthening and equipping the modern family.

Family Festival '83 will be held during the evenings of July 18 through 22. Programs have been designed to appeal to each age group from toddler through senior citizen.

There will be two adult workshops. "Let's Talk," a workshop on communication and how we relate to each other, will be lead by Dr. William and Mrs. Karen Austin who have been trained in marriage communication. Dr. David Brown, a psychotherapist with Tidewater Pastoral Counseling, will help adults discover the causes of guilt and ways of dealing with it in the workshop "Coping With Guilt."

The programs for toddlers through third graders will include family storybook time, music, clown ministry and arts and crafts. Fourth and fifth graders will make puppets and perform a show. Alma Beisel and the Wappadoddle Puppets will assist this group. Sixth and seventh graders will produce a video taped film and grades eight through ninth will write and produce a play.

Discovering "Who Am I" will be the challenge of the younger adults—grades tenth through college. A nursery is provided for infants.

Sing-alongs and pot luck dinners have also been included in the week's festivities.

To register for the Festival, call Virginia Beach Christian Church at 481-3494. Deadline for registration is July 6.

The church is located at 2225 Rose Hall Drive.

Pavilion Towers Holds Opening Ceremonies

A ceremony was recently held at Pavilion Tower for the formal dedication of this Dunfee Resort & Conference Center, which opened for business on May 27.

The ceremony took place on the grounds of the 300-room hotel before a group that included Virginia Gov. Charles S. Robb, Mayor Louis Jones of Virginia Beach, other state and city officials, invited guests and the news media.

David Mollendor, general manager of Pavilion Tower, welcomed the group and introduced Mayor Jones,

Representing E. S. Garcia & Associates, developers of Pavilion Tower, Edward S. Garcia Jr. spoke of the spirit of cooperation displayed by all involved in all stages of the project.

Jon Canas, president and chief executive officer of Dunfee Hotels, operators of the hotel, described Pavilion Tower as "a first class hotel that we feel will enhance the overall appeal of Virginia Beach and impact the total convention and visitor industry." Commenting on Dunfee Hotels' presence in Virginia Beach, Canas noted a "diverse mix of industry and carefully orchestrated growth that had led to a city that works, with a stable economy, a high standard of living and room for expansion."

Delegat Owen Pickett of Virginia Beach took the podium, acknowledged the presence of Betty J. Diener, secretary of commerce and resources, Commonwealth of Virginia, and introduced Robb.

Robb pointed out the economic benefits to Virginia Beach that Pavilion Tower brings in its contributions to the tourism and convention industries.

Following the dedication speeches, Robb cut the ribbon on a giant scallop shell, which opened to release helium-filled balloons, many of which contained coupons for free meals and accommodations at the hotel.

Pavilion Tower features comprehensive conference, dining and recreational facilities. It is managed by Dunfee Hotels, a New England-based operator of 28 hotels in the United States, London and Paris.

$1,000 For Info

The Virginia Beach Crime Solvers program is offering a $1,000 cash reward for information leading to the arrest of the person responsible for the Oct. 9, 1980 slaying of Patsy Bray Cowan.

The 51 year old Ms. Cowan was last seen alive at her home in the 4400 block of Smokey Lake Drive at 8:45 p.m. on this date by her roommate. At 11:45 p.m. the roommate returned home to find the front door unlocked and blood in several places in the home. She ran to a neighbor's home and called police.

At 11:50 P.m. police officers entered the house and found the partially nude body of Patsy Cowan lying on the floor of the bathroom. The cause of death was determined to be several stab wounds to the chest, but no murder weapon was found.

As no signs of forced entry could be found at the home, it is believed that Ms. Cowan may have known her killer.

Missing from the residence and presumed taken at the time of the murder was a Colt 32-20 caliber chrome plated six inch barrel revolver, which was last manufactured in 1942. The left grip, over the Colt trademark, has a triangle shaped chip mark.

Developer Rates

1984-85 of more than $5 million.

Voting against the increases were Councilman H. Jack Jennings Jr. and Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf.

Grover Wright, attorney speaking on behalf of a client, requested the fee break for developers. He said that his client has a project which has been approved by the Virginia Housing Development Authority which was prepared based on existing sewer lines fees. He said the site plan is in the process of being approved. If he has to pay the increased fees for his project, it will throw his budget completely out of whack, Wright said. He pointed out that Council has moved for higher charges rapidly and the builders have not had a chance to crank in the fees with their costs. He said the new rates should not apply to projects which have been submitted to the Planning Department.

Public Utilities Director Aubrey Watts said that in the past all new fees were payable on the effective date.

Wright countered that when one files a site plan, he or she ought to be able to count on the existing law.

City Manager Thomas H. Muehlenbeck said that some of the projects never get built and suggested a cut-off date.

Jennings said that some property owners are not notified about increases because notices are sent to the tenants rather than to the owners. He said this is happening in Rudee Shores where water and sewer is being extended.

He said that the city is now using computer printouts to send notices to the property owners.

Councilman Dr. J. Henry McCoy said that Wright's request was reasonable.

Watt said he wanted to see a time limit placed on the break because he did not want to see a builder come in in 1995 and say his plan was submitted before the fees went into effect.

Watt said the Sept. 1 cut-off date was reasonable, that a set of plans can be processed in three to five weeks. He said the builders will be working overtime to see that this is done.

Jennings earlier had stated reservations about the rate increases.

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf said that none of the Council is excited about rate increases, but that the city would have an enormous deficit otherwise. She said the citizens who do not receive service can't be expected to pay for the deficit.

Independence Day 1983

On the Fourth of July we celebrate the birth of our nation and those brave and patriotic Americans who signed the Declaration of Independence and pledged their lives and fortunes to the cause of freedom 207 years ago.

Today the document that ignited the flames of liberty remains a symbol of our founding principles for people around the globe.

As Abraham Lincoln wrote, "the Declaration of Independence... gave liberty not alone to the people of this country, but hope to all the world, for all future time. It... gave promise that in due time the weights would be lifted from the shoulders of all men, and that all should have an equal chance."

The inspired men who signed the Declaration dreamed bold dreams about what the new nation would become, believing that a people could accomplish whatever they imagined if left to pursue their dreams without interference from an oppressive government.

Our forefathers seized the opportunity freedom provided and built this great land of hope and prosperity. Today we honor their heroic spirit and the ideas that changed the world.

As we enjoy this traditional holiday, let us reflect on our blessings and all the good things about life in these United States. Tom Paine once wrote that "Not a place upon earth might be so happy as America." For all our fellow Americans, Nancy and I wish happiness always.

HONOR AMERICA

The American's Creed

I believe in the United States of America as a government of people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies.

The American's Creed
Written by William Tyler Page

The things that the Flag stands for were created by the experiences of a great people. Everything that it stands for was written by their lives. The Flag is the embodiment, not of sentiment, but of history. It represents the experiences made by men and women, experiences of those who do and live under the Flag.

Bryant, Joyner Wed

Terri Suzanne Bryant and William Glenn Joyner were married in a candlelit ceremony at Foundry United Methodist Church in Virginia Beach. The May 21 double ring ceremony was performed by Reverend Richard Faris. The church was decorated in ivy and white bows, and an alter banquet of white mums and peach carnations.

The wedding was accentuated by a glow of lighted white candles burning in two seven-branch candelabras. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie B. Bryant of Chesapeake. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. Gerald S. Joyner of Virginia Beach and Mrs. Doris J. Joyner of Virginia Beach. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of silk tulle taffeta fitted at the waist, with a high neck, trimmed in silk tulle lace. The dress flowed into a chapel length train. The finger tip veil was attached to a ring of silk roses and baby's breath.

Farmer's Market Hoedown

It's a country hoedown every Friday night now through Sept. 30 at the Farmer's Market on Princess Anne Road. Hours are from 7:30 to 11 p.m.

Entertainment includes various types of dancing, country and bluegrass music. Usually around 100 people attend the festivities.

Good Shopping At The Farmer's Market

Shoppers at the Virginia Beach Farmer's Market can enjoy a wide assortment of fresh vegetables and produce and variety is a matter of course. The Farmer's Market, located at 1989 Landstown Road off of Princess Anne Road, is opened from 8:30 a.m. until dark, Monday through Sunday including holidays.

This year they are offering a larger variety and more local produce. There is also baked items, and treats of candy and an ice cream parlor. One can even find rustic interior decorating items.

- Bring your own shopping basket or cart.
- Wear comfortable clothes. The Farmer's Market offers a rustic outdoor atmosphere.
- Allow plenty of time to shop. First walk through and note prices and quality produce. Then decide which of the various stalls you wish to patronize.

• Know your product. Know how to judge ripeness, freshness and condition. Ask variety names as there is often a significant difference. Call the Department of Agriculture if you want to know the cooking and canning characteristics of the vegetable.

• Know your dry measures - pint, quart, peck, bushel so you can compare prices by volume.

• Have cash and change. Most farmers prefer not to be bothered with checks for a few dollars.

• Handle purchases carefully. Many fruits bruise easily if stacked, propped or squeezed. Refrigerate produce as soon as possible.

For further information or directions contact the Farmer's Market at 427-4395.

Notes To My Friends

By JIM KINCAID

November 30, 1979.

As any parent knows, the satisfaction that children derive from toys is directly proportional to the amount of noise that toy will make just at a time when the parent is deeply involved in some activity that calls for quiet.

What with computer technology children are now able to inflict greater strains on parents' nerves than ever before. If they're not affected by the clipity-clop of a horse, you can hit'em with the sound of an alien spaceship being destroyed.

But I'm old enough to remember simpler times. We didn't have the technology when I was a child, but we had the will and the creativeness.

And sometimes I wonder if modern children ever know the pure pleasure of building a tower of wooden blocks, Lincoln Logs, Tinker Toy parts, and boxes, six feet high or so. And then, quietly and deliberately, taking away just the bottom block.

Performed on a wooden floor it was guaranteed to bring any mom out of the kitchen at a dead run.

She'd be too relieved to find you alive to punish you severely. And if you had to go to bed early, at least you went with a sense of achievement.

This series of excerpts from "Notes To My Friends" is brought to you through the courtesy of The Donning Company, a local publishing firm, and Jim Kincaid. The book is available in most book stores.

The Hint Man

By CHUCK FAULKNER

Glass Cooking Utensils, Removing Stains - Fill the utensil with fairly hot water, then dissolve baking soda in the water. Use one tablespoon of baking soda to each quart of water. Let it stand until cool. Wash in the normal way.

Glass Decanters, Cleaning - Pour one-half cup of white vinegar into the decanter, then carefully add two tablespoons of raw rice. Shake well, wait five minutes, then shake hard again. Remove the rice and vinegar, then wash in warm, sudsy water. Now rinse with cold water.

Glass Jar Tops, Removing - A simple method which often works when a jar top is hard to remove is to stand the jar upside down in enough very hot water to cover the jar. Wait three to five minutes, then dry the top and start turning. Sometimes a few sharp taps with the back of a knife will do the trick. Remember, turn left to loosen, right to tighten.

Glasses, Cleaning - One teaspoon of household ammonia added to the rinse water will make your glasses sparkle. Let them air dry, then polish.

Ice Cream - Historically America's Favorite

Dolly Madison served it at the White House during great state dinners, including James Madison's second inaugural banquet. It was ice cream, of course. It was a rarity in those days, but over 200 years later ice cream is one of America's favorite foods. The average American consumes more than 20 pounds a year.

During the first part of the eighteenth century, most American homemakers had to prepare it by themselves, for very special occasions. It wasn't until 1851 that the first wholesaler of ice cream, Jacob Fussell, opened a plant in Pennsylvania. Although that ice cream bore little resemblance to the product we know today, it was eagerly accepted. Shortly after that opening, Mr. Fussell opened plants in Boston, Washington, and New York.

Most grandmothers and great-grandmothers can still remember preparing their own ice cream for family reunions, birthdays, church socials, or summer picnics. They probably supervised as the freezer was carefully packed with ice and salt, but undoubtedly poured the precious cream mixture into the inner bucket themselves.

In those days of large families, there were plenty of willing hands to crank the freezer. Then, of course, there was the endless wait as the ice cream ripened while mouths watered and appetites soared as potential paddle lickers contemplated the sweet and creamy concoction.

Ice Cream Parlors

It was in the 1880's and for years afterward that the ice cream parlor became an institution. It was a special place (and cool) to go after Sunday evening walks, the boat ride or the concert in the park. Even unescorted young ladies could go there without being criticized!

There it was, cool with its marble-topped tables and dark polished wood furniture - and the specialties they served were really something! Sundaes became works of art with their fancy glasses, swirls of whipped cream, topped with nuts and bright maraschino cherries. Sodas were tall, colorful layers of ice cream, fruit syrup, more ice cream, a bit of fizz, all crowned with whipped cream, of course.

Ice Cream Delicacies

It was at the ice cream parlor where several specialties were born. For one, there was the Banana Split with its three scoops of different kinds of ice cream, banked by a split of banana on either side, lathered with sauces, and a garnish of whipped cream, cherries, and nuts. For more delicate appetities, there was Banana Royale, made in a tulip glass with a single scoop of ice cream, half a banana, quartered and drizzled with caramel sauce.

Tin Roof sundaes vied for popularity with Black and White. Tin Roof? That was vanilla ice cream covered with thick chocolate sauce sprinkled liberally with peanuts. Black and White was made in a banana split dish with a scoop, each, of vanilla and chocolate ice cream, capped with marshmallow sauce.

For these elaborate concoctions it was simple to get into Black Cows (root beer with a float of vanilla ice cream) or Purple Cows (grape juice with vanilla ice cream).

Why not join the fun by recreating some of these old favorites in your own kitchen. Or dream up some new specialties. It's no trick at all with 200 ice cream flavors available, even though vanilla is still the favorite.

Did You Know?

While insurance companies have revised their weight-height tables upwards for both men and women - by as much as ten to fifteen pounds in some cases - the fact remains that many Americans are still overweight. The July Reader's Digest estimates that 40 percent of U.S. adults still need to lose weight.

There's a lot more to language than meets the eye, the July Reader's Digest affirms. Take that keen-eyed sea dog of a word, for instance. Its direct ancestor wore baggy trousers and a jeweled turban, for the English word admiral descends from the Arabic word amir, meaning "commander."

Soft And Chewy Oatmeal Bars

There's more than one way to bake an oatmeal cookie...

"Oatmeal cookies" can be much more than simple drop cookies with raisins or a hint of spice. There are literally hundreds of oatmeal cookie and bar recipes that we can "feel good about" serving to our families and friends. Cookies generally are considered "extra" foods not credited with providing important nutrients to the diet, but cookies and bars made with ingredients like oats provide an excellent source of fiber and contribute protein, iron, and B-vitamins.

Butterscotch Chipper Bars are quick and easy and can be stirred together in minutes. Be creative - substitute chocolate pieces for butterscotch chips or add coconut, raisin, or chopped nuts.

1/2 cup butterscotch chips
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup cooking oil
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla

Stir together oats, flour, sugars, butterscotch chips, salt, and soda. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Pat into a greased and lightly floured 9x9x2-inch baking pan. Bake in a 325°F. oven for about 35 minutes. Cool; cut into bars. About 1 1/2 dozen bars.

Crabpots' Crabs Best In Country

Owners, Steve Akteyn and T.T. Perrone opened the Crabpot Restaurant in Norfolk in February and met with such success they have already remodeled the dining area and are remaining open seven days a week. Lunch, at the specialty seafood restaurant, has been so well accepted, managers Jim and Pat Baumann have developed a luncheon buffet. Jim and Pat hail from Maryland's Eastern shore, "real seafood country," and they bring with them many years of restaurant experience. Recently installed video games and a lounge that will soon feature a variety of entertainment are new additions to the Crabpot that will make many regular customers happy, but, what will keep them coming back? We think we know. The absolutely fantastic steamed and fried hardshell and soft-shell crabs that are beyond a doubt some of the best in the country. Helpings on entrees are generous to a fault and when you place your order, it's the way you asked for it in faster timeframes than usual. In a hurry for lunch? You will never go hungry and never be late for work again (unless you just get too carried away with that super buffet)!

Starting July 1, Crabpot will be open seven days a week. We encourage you to try this fun-tastic place to dine.

Miller has projected that in 1983 the newly formed company will handle 535 million in transactions. At present, Concordia has 650 homes in 16 Virginia Beach subdivisions.

The offices are located at 4190 S. Plaza Trail, Suite 150, Virginia Beach, VA 23452.

Construction Begins On Motor Inn

Construction has begun on a La Quinta Motor Inn in Virginia Beach, according to Sam Barshop, president and chairman of the San Antonio, Texas-based lodging chain.

Scheduled to open in the spring of 1984, the 130 room motor inn is located near the intersection of U.S. 44 (Virginia Beach Expressway), Newtown Rd. and Greenwich. It will have a free-standing 24-hour Denny's adjacent.

Architects for the La Quinta Motor Inn is Forrest Coile Associates

Loan Approved For VHDA

The Board of commissioners of Virginia Housing Development Authority today approved a $4.5 million loan for the construction and permanent financing of the Lakes of Greenbrier apartment complex to be located in Chesapeake.

The development will add 156 new rental units for low and moderate income persons to the area. The general contractor for the apartments, Amurcon Corporation of Virginia, expects the units will be available for renting by Spring, 1984.

VHDA raises mortgage funds by selling tax-exempt bonds. The Commonwealth is not liable on the bonds. The Authority is self-supporting and receives no state tax dollars.

"The Champ"

Here is a little trivia for you. Your chances of answering correctly are greatly enhanced if you fit into one of the following categories: armchair athlete, beach-goer (stuck inside because it's raining), or college student - possibly even a wearer of in vogue sports wear.

Question: What does the "C" on professional sports uniforms signify?

Answer: The uniform is made or distributed by Champion Products.

Champion Products is a leading producer of athletic, sports, and campus casual wear, and is worth serious investment considerations. To put a stock recommendation in print is hazardous at best, however this recommendation is based on three factors: limited downside risk, current fair market valuation, and the earnings turnaround situation.

First, the comparative risk associated with this stock is low. Given the economy and the retail industry, the general trend for the next year is at worst, even and at best, up. Second, on a pure market value based on today's price (mid to high teens) the stock is fairly valued when you consider such mundane things as earnings and stock book value. Lastly, the earnings turnaround over the next eighteen months looks impressive. If current predictions are close, the earnings of Champion Products will approximately double in each of the next two years (1983 and 1984).

From where I sit, this stock looks like a conservative stock with very limited downside risk, and a 35% upside potential in the next 18 months. Due to space limitations, the remainder of the information is seven numbers away (428-0110). This may not be a home run but as a batting average I would bet that it is over 500, which should be a hit...

William D. Dolan, III

Dolan Chosen President Elect Of VA State Bar

William D. Dolan, III, 39, of Arlington, was chosen today as President-elect of the 17,300-member Virginia State Bar, the administrative arm of the Supreme Court of Virginia responsible for regulating the practice of law in the state and to which all practicing lawyers in Virginia must belong.

The annual election, for a one-year term, took place during the 11:45 a.m. general membership Business Session of the State Bar's 45th Annual Meeting, June 16-19, at the Cavalier and Holiday Inn hotels in Virginia Beach. More than 1,200 persons - over 600 Virginia lawyers and judges plus their spouses, families and guests - are attending the four-day event.

Under Virginia State Bar bylaws, the President-elect automatically ascends to the office of President at the close of the Annual Meeting following the one at which he or she is chosen as President-elect.

Roy King

Metro Tire Turns Wholesaler

Ask Roy King why he opened a tire store and he'll more than likely tell you he "just got sick and tired of paying ridiculously high prices" for his own automobile tires.

"I saw a real need for some degree of reasonableness in tire pricing in Chesapeake and decided to do something about it," he said recently. You can believe it is as honest and simple as that, because King is a direct, no-nonsense businessman who cares about his community. According to Roy it became increasingly clear as the months passed that the need for a genuine wholesale tire outlet existed in Chesapeake. A "real-world" wholesale outlet that would serve the consumer directly and honestly.

Because of his strong faith in a revitalized South Norfolk and a progressive Chesapeake in general, King is making the transition on July 1.

An advertising campaign is kicking off the new Metro Tire look, but it will be "real-deals" and neighborly "word-of-mouth" that will carry his message to Chesapeake, Roy said last week.

"We're not the prettiest store in town and we don't have the overhead the big boys do, but we'll do just fine, thank you. Just check the prices, after all, that's the bottom line isn't it?" You bet it is Roy, good luck!

Tidewater Builders Association Awards Scholarship

A Chesapeake graduating senior has been selected for a four-year scholarship grant in the amount of $5200.00 by the Tidewater Builders Association Scholarship Foundation.

The recipient is Thomas Matt Chin of 3413 Dunedin Drive, a recent graduate of Western Branch High School. He is one of 18 area high school graduates and present college undergraduates selected to receive aid.

The Foundation, created in 1966, awards grants each spring based on academic achievement and financial need. Grants are funded by the construction and sale each year of a Scholarship House.

The 1983 volunteer Scholarship House builder is Hudgins & Associates. The house is under construction now and will be open as part of HOMEARAMA on August 21st. Hudgins & Associates and the contributing suppliers and contractors volunteer substantial amounts of goods and services so that when the house is sold at a fair market price the proceeds can be donated to the Foundation.

The Foundation committed $42,900.00 in scholarship aid this year.

Car Series Chronicles It's History

A new series of interesting, amusing and informative vignettes, chronicling America's "love affair" with the automobile will begin airing on local television screens throughout the United States this month.

Called "Car Trek," the 45-episode series of short from programming is being sponsored by MAACO Auto Painting and Bodyworks, the largest franchise chain of its kind, and is a supplement to its $4 million annual TV advertising budget. The series has already been programmed for 30 TV markets in which MAACO centers are located, with more to be added in the next few weeks.

Each of the 45 30-second vignettes deals with some interesting phase or folklore or trivia about the automobile, from the first time the "horseless carriage" drove its way into the history books to the Golden Age of modern times. Each episode tests the viewer's knowledge with what is called the "tease-through" approach—asking a question about the auto, with one of the popular "uh, Oh...Better Get MAACO" 30-second TV commercials "sandwiched" within the short from program, followed by appropriate film footage depicting the answer to the quiz.

"Car Trek" covers the gamut of intriguing historic "automobilia"—from the first speeding ticket and first "fender-bender" to the most elegant cars and the most expensive vehicle ever built. The series takes viewers down the streets of yesteryear and puts them behind the wheels of today's high performance beauties. It's a look on the bright side of automotive history—a voyage along the highways of history—a veritable "car trek."

According to several advertising and television research surveys, short from programming has greater impact and recall than the normal TV commercials. MAACO Auto Painting and Bodyworks, which has over 320 independently owned and operated franchise centers throughout the United States and Canada, believes that this exceptional "Car Trek" series, combined with its regular and successful "Uh, Oh" series of the past two years will make its total advertising program more effective than ever, and at the same time provide an entertaining series of vignettes about the automobile—undoubtedly the most significant mode of transportation which has altered the entire lifestyle of the nation and the world.

I'm not going to predict, but in view of what has gone before and where we are now—at the beginning of a recovery—I think that if the administration and Mr. Volker will work together and make all the right moves, they can keep mortgage interest rates down, start to bring the Federal deficit down (it may take 90 years, but as long as it is shrinking and not growing, I believe it's acceptable) and keep the economic recovery going.

$Interest Rates$

More than any other single factor, home mortgage interest rates control the building industry, the residential Real Estate marketing industry and the vast number of related fields and economic conditions that the building industry affects. These include unemployment, retail sales and so many others that it would be easier to name those economic areas that the building industry does not affect. The point is, Mortgage interest rate is a very important issue!

Mr. Paul Volker has been reappointed as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors. More than any other person or office, he controls Mortgage interest rates. There are those who say that his control is not direct control. It is interrelated and affected by numerous other economic factors such as the rate of inflation, the size of the Federal deficit and the rate of governmental interest on deficit pay back, unemployment banking policy and many other factors. I am one who believes that while these influencing factors are the driving force that regulates mortgage rates, there is room for Mr. Volker's personal judgement and control.

What will he do? How will he use his powerful office and which way will he move Mortgage interest rates that are so vital to the majority of Americans? We have seen him skyrocket interest rates to an all time high of 17½% on VA and FHA loans and almost completely shut down home buying and the building industry. We have also seen him recently reduce those interest rates to 11½% and more recently back up to 12% where they are now.

In this column, I have in the past, gone out on a limb and made specific predictions. I'm not going to do that this time. I don't know what's going to happen. I do, however, think these things are significant:

1. I believe that Mr. Volker is a well qualified individual with an excellent knowledge of economic forces, how they interrelate and how they affect the general economy. He has talent and the ability to use it effectively.
2. He has used his control to raise interest rates to an all time high and has witnessed its devastating effects. At the time that he raised rates to their heights, he was an appointee of another administration whose economic policies caused extremely high inflation and increases to the burgeoning Federal deficit which is the real villain and major cause of high interest rates.
3. The current administration has recently reappointed him, but the scene has changed. In-

Cop Assault Law

In most cases there is little question over a police officer's identity. Officers are trained to shout "Halt! Police officer! You're under arrest!" and show their badge. Even though the officer may be in plain clothes, the subject has been informed that the man is an officer.

"What I think is going to happen is, if an officer sees the guy committing a crime, he's going to say 'halt! I'm a police officer.' He'll show his badge and say 'you're under arrest' and then the guy turns on him and beats the tar out of him. To me, there'd be no question in my mind, whether he's in uniform or plain clothes, that this guy knew or had reason to know that he was a law enforcement officer in the performance of his duties because he told him to halt, told him he was a police officer, and told him he's under arrest."

Sciortino said it is too early to tell how much impact the new law will have.

"We have no way of knowing," he said. "We don't know whether it'll do good or not because you're going to have all these additional things to prove. And now you're going to be sitting there trying to convince a judge that not only was the guy maliciously assaulted, but that the guy knew he was a police officer and knew he was in the performance of his duties. The only way the law is going to be effective is if the court applies the statute, finds people guilty, and then imposes the sentence."

Captain Buzzy is hopeful for the new law's success, but is concerned that the mandatory penalty may soften some juries.

"I hope that it will, when the public becomes aware of it, mean that less police officers are assaulted," Buzzy said. "What's I'm afraid of is, in a marginal case, given some circumstances, sympathy-type things, that a jury, because of the language of two year imprisonment, will give the benefit of the doubt to the defendant and dismiss the case."

Buzzy said the police department will "try to instill in our people all the new elements of the new ordinance," and that officers will receive information on the new law from their supervisors.

In BLUE or GRAY

Some men are remembered for their deeds... the battles they won and the prizes they gained. But not A. Lincoln!

Men still call him "honest Abe," and they take courage in his humility. Men honor his devotion to the principles for which he stood; they esteem his love for humanity; they marvel at his capacities for sympathy, understanding and forgiveness.

History has known few men whose memory could survive the hatreds of war and find sanctuary in the hearts of victor and vanquished alike. But Abe Lincoln belongs to all of America. Christian nobility is revered for itself, whether it wore blue or gray.

As the character of a man can bind up the wounds of a nation, so the Christian faith which moulded Abe Lincoln can bind under God a world of peace and understanding. To that proposition our Churches and Synagogues are dedicated.
